LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Corn Culture.

Sir,—As many of our farmers are making preparations for sowing a small area of corn, a few words as to its culture may not be out of place.

MANURE. A liberal quantity of farmyard manure worked into the soil will be profitably applied. A well rotted sod generally gives satisfactory returns.

PLANTING. This may be done in two ways:—

1. In rows, not less than three feet apart, one grain in every six inches in the row will be sufficient seed. 2. In hills, this will prove best on exceptionally dirty ground, as it will admit of cultivation both ways. The hills should be three feet apart both ways, with from 3 to 5 grains in a hill. A simple way of putting it in hills is as follows: Prepare land to fine tilth, then run furrows about three inches deep across the field, three feet apart. At right angle to the furrows mark the field with a marker, made as follows: Take a twelve or fifteen foot plank, about ten or twelve inches wide; at every three feet and at the ends fasten on a runner or shoe of wood about two inches wide, four inches deep, and about eighteen inches long; make some kind of an arrangement whereby it may be drawn by a horse or horses. If this is drawn across the furrows it will make a mark enough to tell where to plant. At each intersection drop the grains, 3 to 5, and cover with the foot by drawing over the grain some of the earth thrown up by the plow, then press gently with the foot. In using the marker after the first time across the field, the end runner follows in the last mark made.

CULTIVATION. As soon as the corn is two inches above ground it should be harrowed over with a light harrow, and may be repeated several times before the corn is six inches high. This will keep down weeds. After this, cultivation between the rows or hills, will keep down weeds and promote growth. It can be continued till the corn is higher than the horse, with profit.

KINDS OF CORN. The Peascoe Prolific and Longfellow are two good corns that will come to maturity, for the site. Pride of the North will probably be a week later.

There are the large corns—Mammoth, Southern, Sweet and Red Cob, which are too large for P. E. Island.

Many prefer them for feeding purposes, but if the farmers only knew it, there is more real feeding value in the smaller varieties.

More depends on the cultivation of corn than in generally supposed, and often a failure results for the lack of it. The ground should be stirred once a week at the least.

After the corn is 2 feet high the cultivation should be shallower and more away from the sets.

The conditions for securing good corn for the site or for winter feeding are: (1) early planting which should be shallow; (2) then seeding; (3) frequent cultivation.

GEO. HARBOUR.

Some Dangers to be Avoided.

The average boy is very apt to risk his life and health in many ways in summer, writes Foster Coates in the Talk with Boys in the June Ladies' Home Journal. When unrestrained, he takes a great many more chances than he would otherwise do. The chief danger to life and health of boys who spend the summer in the country is from over-exertion in sports and amusements, and from indulging in too much swimming. The exhilaration of country life makes them feel that they can do more than their strength admits of. This is equally true of city boys who get a day or two off from their work. The best way to do is to take exercise moderately. If a boy is not used to long walks, he should begin his summer outing with an easy jog along some pleasant road for only a mile or two. By increasing the distance gradually each day it will not be long before he can do ten or fifteen miles, or twenty for that matter, without discomfort, and in reality making a positive gain in his health. This rule applies equally well to horseback and bicycle riding, rowing and other work boys may be unaccustomed to.

One of the chief and healthful amusements of summer outing is bathing, but there is no part of the visit where the danger is so great as in going in swimming too often, and at times when the water is too cold. Not a summer passes that thousands of boys are not permanently injured by going in swimming at times when they should not do so. The waves on the seashore, the running streams and the fresh water lakes are very enticing on hot days.

MAKES FLESH AND BLOOD.—When the system is all run down and there seems to be no hope of obtaining nourishment for the body by the ordinary process of food supply and digestion, when the body is sinking fast, then is the time to use Miller's Emulsion of pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil. It always works wonders, because it is a flesh and blood maker and contains all the constituents for nourishment found in wheat. In fact, Miller's Emulsion is a perfect "staff of life," and has saved and cured thousands. In big bottles 50c. and $1 at Charlottetown drug stores.

MORE POISONED CANDY.—The Lunenburg, N. S. Progress says: The editor of this paper was the recipient of a box of poisoned candies coming through the mail of last evening. The chain of evidence, connecting this diabolical act with some of the Bridgewater court house brigands, is almost complete.

Many Thanks.—For the benefit of our many customers and the competitors that say they have taken half our trade, we wish to state that we have just finished the largest May's trade that we have ever done since we stuck out the sign eleven years ago. So much for extensive advertising and square honest dealing. Best goods and bottom prices is our motto and Prowse Bros., the wonderful cheap man is our name. june 1 2i.

For the Western Prairies.

A SERIES OF C. P. R. CHEAP EXCURSIONS TO THE CANADIAN NORTHWEST.

Excellent opportunities of visiting the great prairies of the West this summer are being offered by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which has arranged for all series of four cheap excursions from all points on the L. C. R., P. E. Island, Windsor and Annapolis, and its own lines in the Maritime Provinces. These excursions are announced to start on June 13, 20th, 27th, and July 18th, and the round trip must be completed within six weeks, which affords plenty of time to inspect the country. An auction sale of C. P. R. lands in the famed Edmonton district is advertised for July 5th, and those starting June 27th to see the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition—the greatest of all Western expositions—which takes place from July 25 to 30th, can go out on July 18th.

The rates for the round trip are: To Deloraine, Nesbit, Oxbow, Binacarth and Moosomin, $28; to Regina, Moosejaw and Yorkton, $30; to Prince Albert and Calgary, $35; to Edmonton, $40. A person can travel from return home—nearly 5,000 Edmonton and return home for half a cent a mile—for a fraction over half a cent a mile. The tickets are not good to stop over east of Winnipeg either going or coming.

Queen Victoria and the Umbrella.

I was reading a story the other day that made quite an impression on my mind, writes Mrs. Bottoms in her department, "The Queen's Daughters," in the June Ladies' Home Journal. It is well known that the Queen of England delights to go about in simple guise among the cottages of the poor. One day the Queen was caught in a shower and she entered the dwelling of an old woman; the old dame's sight must have been dim, for she did not recognize her sovereign. "Will you lend me an umbrella?" said the royal lady, who did not happen to have one with her. The old woman granted the request grudgingly. "I have two umbrellas," said the dame; "one is a good one, I rather prefer it again." And she proffered a ragged concern whose wholeness might be seen here and there through the coarse, torn cover. England's Queen quietly took the umbrella, which was better than nothing, and went forth into the rain, not by one word betraying her rank. The next day one of Her Majesty's servants brought back the wretched umbrella, and then the cottager knew to whom she had lent it. "Ay, ay, had I but knowned who it was that asked for the loan, she would have been welcome to the best, to a' that I have in the world," exclaimed the mortified old woman, snooked and grieved at having missed such an opportunity of winning a smile from the Queen.

Habitual Hurry.

The number of sudden deaths which occur every year as a consequence of running to railway trains and ferryboats is not inconsiderable. The victims are mostly persons middle-aged or older, who, without knowing it, have some disease of the heart. This kind of exertion, however, does less harm than the common habit of being continually in a hurry. A habit which keeps the nervous system at a perpetual tension leads to excessive vital waste, undue susceptibility to disease, and in extreme cases to nervous exhaustion. Under its influence persons naturally amiable are transformed into petulant and noisy scolds.

The man of business suffers in much the same manner. The hurried breakfast and the hurried skimming of the morning paper are but the beginning of a hurried day. Yet it is unsafe for him to act in a hurry or in the spirit generated by it. The uncertainties of his calling make entire self-control of prime importance.

Occasional hurry is hardly to be avoided, society being what it is; but the habit of hurry should be guarded against as one of the surest promoters of ill-temper and ill-health.

If necessary, less work should be done; but in many cases nothing is needed but a wiser economy of time. Some of the worst victims of hurry are men who daily with their work until time presses them, and then crowds themselves into a fever, plying themselves meanwhile because they are so sadly driven.—Youth's Companion.

Two Can Be Smart.

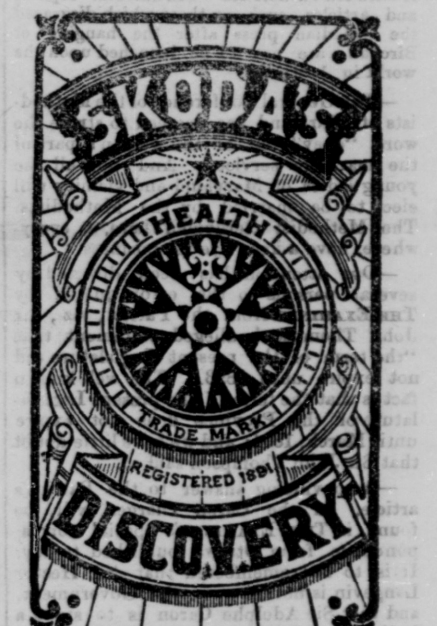

"Do you keep corn meal?" inquired the man with the basket on his arm. "No, sir," said the grocer. "We sell it. How much do you want?" "Did I say I wanted any?" mildly asked the man with the basket.

And he went out and hunted up another grocery store where the salesmen were not quite so smart.
