GOOD WORK.—Among the samples of bookbinding shown in Hazard & Moore's window is a set of books intended for Joseph O. Arsenault & son, Wellington Station. They consist of 1, a journal, 2, a diary, 3, a ledger, 4, a notebook, 5, a pocket diary, 6, a pocket notebook, 7, a pocket diary, 8, a pocket notebook, 9, a pocket diary, 10, a pocket notebook.

NAVAL.—H. M. S. Canada has passed into the list of non-effective vessels. She is one of the most graceful of the ships, being a steam square-rigged corvette. The Canada has visited this port several times. The Toronto World, referring to this ship, says: "Her name suggests what her destination ought to be. We want a training ship at Halifax and a recruiting station there for boys. The Canada could now be acquired, probably for nothing, and would form a most popular and useful institution if used for this purpose."

AN IMAGINATIVE VISITOR.—A gentleman resident in a Connecticut town, was recently on a visit to Prince Edward Island. When returning home he was on the ill-fated train wrecked at Palmer's Pond. He escaped without serious injury and on his arrival home was interviewed by a reporter. After lengthy references to the accident to the train the newspaper man proceeded thus: "Mr. Ryan experienced some very cold weather while in the N. B. land. He says that there were many days of steady cold with the thermometer 16 below zero. The coldest day of his visit was Jan. 26, when it was 37 below."

Last Night.—The present engagement of the riding gallery closes tonight.

Something can be done says Theo. M. Rosenau by good laws; more can be done by honest administration of the law; but most of all can be done by forming resolutely upon the preachers of vague discontent; and by upholding the true doctrine of self-reliance self-help, and self-mastery. This doctrine sets forth many things. Among them is the fact that though a man can occasionally be helped when he stumbles, yet that it is useless to try to bring down the work and reward of the thrifty and intelligent to the level of the capacity of the weak, the shiftless, and the idle. It further shows that the main philosophy and the main sentimentalist are almost as noxious as the demagogue, and that it is even more necessary to temper mercy with justice than justice with mercy.

The worst lesson that can be taught a man is to rely upon others and to whine over his sufferings.

A late Shreveport, La., despatch says: Thirty thousand people in this State are starving to death. A Relief Committee which has inspected the stricken parishes east of Shreveport, say this number of people will have to be sustained during the unfurling season. The State has already expended $65,000 for provisions for the sufferers and calls for funds. A meeting was held in Shreveport under the call of the Board of Trade, and $5,000 was subscribed.

HON. MR. BRECKEN'S LECTURE.

Two nights in this case exercise the journalistic privilege of criticism, we should find great fault because Mr. Brecken, though possessing in a marked degree the gift of eloquence, read the greater part of his lecture on Prince Charles from a manuscript. But we have to admit that the lecture was, nevertheless, intently listened to and greatly appreciated. Mr. Brecken sketched the career of the unhappy Prince from the cradle to the grave, and remarked upon many interesting points which have been lost sight of by historians of the country at large. The Prince was unfortunate, and it is well for Scotland as well as England, that he was; for if he had obtained the crown the growth of civil liberty must have been retarded, while the co-operation of the races in Great Britain and the consequent development and expansion of the united nation's power throughout the world would have been prevented. As it happened, that which was then uncouth and ferocious in both peoples has been considerably abated by means of their harmonious action, while the qualities of warm-hearted generosity, hospitality, faithfulness, loyalty, self-sacrifice and bravery, at that time so signally displayed, have been stimulated and still shine, upon occasion, in the conduct of their more highly civilized descendants. Mr. Brecken's lecture occupied nearly two hours in the delivery, and was warmly applauded at the close. The vote of thanks was moved by Judge Fitzgerald, seconded by Rev. Mr. Bryan and conveyed to the lecturer by the chairman, A. E. Warburton, Esq.

MARRIED IN BOSTON.

At St. Joseph's church, Boston, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 3rd, Mr. Joseph D. McDonald was united in marriage to Miss Jennett M. Cranston, daughter of Mr. Andrew Cranston, of Charlottetown. Rev. Father Walsh performed the ceremony. A reception was held from 8 to 10 o'clock, at their residence 13 Chambers St. Among other present were Dr. Wm. Seaman, Dr. Geo. M. Muttart, Messrs. J. A. Maskell, D. J. McCormack, Joseph and Charles MacLean, Frank Myrow, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parly, Mr. and Mrs. McRae, Mr. and Mrs. Cranston, Misses Mary A. Mitchell, Theresa and Eva McDonald, Mabel Locke, Susie Carter and Lizzie Verma.

The esteem in which the happy couple are held took the form of many beautiful and useful presents, among them being a mantle clock, side-board, silver spoons, vase, fruit and berry dishes, chairs, and many ornamental pieces of bric-a-brac.

Mr. McDonald has been employed by the Boston Gas Co., for the past five years in a lucrative and responsible position. He and his esteemed bride carry with them the good wishes of their many friends on the voyage through life.

Mr. McDonald is the eldest son of Mr. Angus N. McDonald, keeper of the Light-house at Souris.

Mr. Henry W. Shaw, formerly of St. Eleanor, and now head of a department and foreign buyer for Jordan, Marsh & Co. Boston, was married recently. Mrs. Shaw is a daughter of Mr. Stenzel, of the city of Atlantic, Mass. The wedding was a quiet affair, only witnessed by the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. After the marriage was completed Mr. and Mrs. Shaw started for Europe on a wedding tour. Mr. Shaw will spend some time in business, buying for the department over which he is the head in Jordan & Marsh's. Mr. Shaw is one of our successful Islanders in Boston and is held in high esteem by the firm.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

HONOUR TO WHOM HONOUR.

Sir,—I have been repeatedly asked by school boys, both in town and country, if Mr. Edison is the inventor of the electric light, telephone, telegraph and what not; and they inform me that their teachers tell them he is.

I have heard that one of our city teachers in an examination marked a boy correct who brought the answer Edison to the question "Who invented the electric light," and scored out the one who brought the answer Sir Humphrey Davy. This latter was not absolutely correct but nearer so than the other, as Davy was the discoverer—in fact the question was wrong. The word inventor can not be applied.

Now, Sir, I don't wish to detract from Mr. Edison any credit that may be due him; but I think, in justice, these impressions should be corrected as Mr. Edison does not figure very highly in any scientific pursuit. I am surprised that our public school teachers should lack the popular information of these subjects and be ignorant of such names as Davy, Faraday, Amper, Gramme, Siemens, Lord Kelvin, Hertz, Tesla, Elihu Thompson, Houston, Brush, Bell and a host of others.

I suppose, in another year or two, we shall be told that Edison invented the X rays and Roentgen discovered them afterwards. I see that some of the newspapers are making a bold stride towards it even now.

DEATH IN THE WEST.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boyver, formerly of Southport, but now of Dennison, Texas, will regret to learn of the death of their son, which is announced amongst our of usaries today.

On leaving Prince Edward Island in 1891 Mr. Boyver with his wife and two sons took up their residence at Vancouver, B. C. While there, Ernest, their youngest son was attacked by pulmonary disease, and his parents removed with him to Colorado, and subsequently to Texas, in the hope that the influence of milder climate might save his life. But all in vain. The fell destroyer had marked him for its victim, and all the sacrifices made for his fond parents could not save his life.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyver and their surviving son, Mr. Harold Boyver, who still lives at Vancouver, have the heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of devoted friends in this Province in the loss which they have sustained.

Mr. Thos. Gladman, bookkeeper for Adam Hall, Esq., stove and tinware dealer, Peterboro', writes the following facts:—"Have been troubled for nine years with Ezema on my leg, and at times the itching was something terrible, tried many eminent doctors and was pronounced incurable. I had given up hopes of ever being cured when I was recommended by Mr. Madill, druggist to try a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am happy to testify that after using two boxes I am completely cured."

PERSONAL

Hon. Mr. Peters is expected home about the last of the month.

Mr. Geo. Tweedy, barrister-at-law, Alberton, is at the Hotel Davies.

GUESSES AT TRUTH.

From Harper's Bazar.

Most women of spirit, breadth or force contain a large element of totemism, which they are only too glad to display when they are confident of meeting with sympathy.

When a wife becomes a mere bundle of nerves, she is more interesting as a morbid specimen of womanhood than she is tolerable as a companion.

Some of the most dissatisfied wives in the world are those whom their husbands leave entirely free to do whatever they choose.

NEWS NOTES

It is possible that Mrs. Sheraton may lease the Queen Hotel, Halifax, with Geo. Smith as manager.

A fight has taken place at Palizadas Carral, Pinar del Rio province, in which three rebels were killed.

The Geronso battalion in conjunction with the gunboat Reina Cristina had an engagement with the rebels in Pinar del Rio province, in which nine of the enemy were killed.

Ten thousand bushels of wheat stored in the farmers' elevator at Killarney, Man., has disappeared and cannot be accounted for. N. J. Ryan, who was connected with the management of the elevator, has been arrested for the theft.

Marion, the youngest daughter of President and Mrs. Cleveland, was christened at the White House, Washington, last Thursday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Sunderland, who performed the marriage ceremony for the distinguished parents. Marion was a year old last July.

Military Commander Madruga defeated a strong party of rebels on Conde Kanche, Havana province. The rebels lost thirty men killed and wounded. The troops lost five killed and two missing. The camp of the rebels was destroyed, and a large quantity of arms and ammunition, and a number of cattle the insurgents left behind were captured by the troops.

A remarkable case of the recovery of speech after a hearing is reported in the Lancet from the Canton of Fribourg, in Switzerland. An Italian, aged 41 years, who five years ago became a deaf mute in consequence of a serious disease, was startled by the sudden appearance of a runaway horse. As he jumped aside to avoid the animal, he uttered a loud scream, and after he had gone by found that he was able to talk and hear.

FORCING high prices upon the people is a hard task. Prices are subject to the law of gravitation, and naturally come down. So do the people come down to their boots and shoes. This is pretty generally known, but we like everyone to know that the place is J. B. Macdonald's Old Stand, directly opposite West End Market House 37-61.
