THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JANUARY 2, 1896.

MEETING OF PARLIAMENT.

PARLIAMENT met to-day; and readers of THE EXAMINER may discuss the Governor-General's speech this evening. Those who may doubt the wonderful development in British Columbia and our great prairies will, we trust, be willing to give up their opinion in this regard when they read the strong statements of the Governor-General, based upon His Excellency's own personal observation. It is gratifying, too, to note that success is attending the efforts of the Government to civilize the wild Indian of the west. But more immediately interesting and important is the progressive policy for the further development of agriculture, which is authoritatively announced. This policy, if carried out, will, by promoting the sale of dressed meats, as well as butter and cheese, certainly affect a great improvement in the condition of our farmers. In this connection, the assurance that the aid of the Imperial Government is to be given to a fast Atlantic steamship service and the Pacific cable project is doubly satisfactory. This may well, as the Governor-General remarks, be regarded as evidence of a desire on the part of Her Majesty's Government to draw closer to each other and to the Motherland the outlying portions of the Queen's dominions. It is reassuring to read that the attention of Parliament is at once to be called to measures intended to provide for the better arming of the militia and the strengthening of the defences of Canada. Whatever the event of the negotiations regarding Venezuela may be, Canada must now be placed in a state of defence. We should be provided with an effective and thoroughly equipped militia. Apart from the Manitoba question, which is to be dealt with, a good bill of fare has been provided for digestion by Parliament.

The Relief of the Armenians.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—The Duke of Bedford, in declining an invitation to attend a meeting on behalf of the Armenians, on the ground that funds would only prolong their misery by encouraging them in a hopeless struggle, writes as follows: "Nothing but armed intervention could extricate them from their miserable plight We have just received a threat of war from the United States. Would the change of front of American opinion have been so sudden and complete if all England's resources had been required for the impending struggle in Europe? We may safely assume that President Cleveland was unexpectedly surprised to find European sympathy wholly on the side of England. In view of the jealousy of of France and Russia toward England and the American threat, any attempt at armed intervention in Armenia is doomed to failure. I cannot partake in any movement tending to push the Government into a policy fraught with so much danger."

Pulitzer's Play.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—The Prince of Wales has received from Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York World, the following acknowledgment of the message which his royal highness and the Duke of York sent to the World, through Sir Francis Knollys, private secretary to the prince, hoping that the difference between the United States and Great Britain on the Venezuelan question would be amicably settled:

NEW YORK, Dec. 30, 1895.

His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, Sandringham, England.

Your Christmas message of peace and good will was deeply appreciated and had important effect. The reaction is almost complete; conscience has obtained mastery over impetus. The World thanks you for the wise and bold words spoken at so critical a time. It is also becoming to acknowledge with profound respect the eloquent and impressive message of concord and amity received by the World from Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, (who cabled from Rome), Cardinal Vaughan, Archbishop of Westminster; Dr. Walsh, Archbishop of Dublin; Lord Plunkett, Archbishop of Dublin and Kildare; the Archbishop of Armagh; the Bishops of London, Liverpool, Manchester and Chester; Mr. Gladstone and Lord Rosebery. It is hoped here that the logic of this unprecedented expression of kindness of the greatest dignitaries of church and state may lead to the arbitration of a dispute so trival that it could remain unsettled for seventy years. Surely among all the scholars, statesmen and rulers of the world there must be one who, as arbitrator, will meet the suggestion of Lord Salisbury that he should be "competent and free from bias." The surest hope of lasting peace rests upon the enlightened moral sentiment which you have voiced, and which we feel sure is the course of government in England not less than in America and continues the progress of civilization.

—St. John Sun: It is our belief that the liberal-conservative party was never stronger in Canada than it is to-day. We believe that Canada was never more emphatically in favour of the national policy than it is at this moment. In general the public business of the country was never conducted more prudently than now. The danger of the hour is that petty local questions and miserable race and religions disputes may prevent the people from giving a fair expression of their views on the real issues before the country.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"If the guilty culprit be obstinately silent, his silence forms a deadly presumption against him; if he speaks, talking tends to discovery, and his very defence often furnishes materials towards his conviction."

SIR,—After a protracted silence, Dr. Robertson again appears in the Weekly Patriot of the 26th inst. But instead of improving his position regarding the introduction of the dairy industry into this Province, he has not proved by one instance where, even by accident, he rendered the least assistance at the commencement of the business. In his last letter he has not even defended himself from the charge of having done absolutely nothing for the industry in its first stages; and it bears a striking contrast to the brag, blow and bluster that so characterized his first epistle over his own signature. Almost his entire letter is devoted to politics, which is altogether apart from the question at issue. If he were not destitute of every sense of shame and not possessed of the most supreme gall, he would endeavor to ascertain the calling in life to which he was fitted by nature and instinct and leave politics to skilful practitioners who are not quacks. He sneers at my small majority at the last local election. But I, at least, have the honor of being elected for three consecutive terms for my native district, an honor away and beyond the reach of Dr. Robertson. My majority at the last election was small, but it was more satisfactory to be elected by a small majority than to be found like he was at his last election contest at the foot of the poll. One dose of Dr. Robertson as a legislator was sufficient for the people of King's County, and when the first opportunity occurred without one feeling of regret they discarded him as a creature politically unclean.

Dr. Robertson says: "I am informed by the Dairy Commissioner that this year he expects to have a round surplus from the working of our factories." He insidiously would have the public to understand that this information was specially imparted to him. Several weeks ago, Prof Robertson made this statement at meetings he addressed in Ontario. He did so for the purpose of proclaiming the glad tidings of our progress and advancement to our fellow citizens of the west; and also for the purpose of hurling back the charges made against the government by Grits and Patrons of Industry, in Ontario—that the dairy industry in P. E. Island was being built up at the expense of the revenue of the country. If the Dairy Commissioner specially informed Dr. Robertson of the financial condition of the dairy business in this province, doubtless it was because he considered that he (Dr. Robertson) only read the Patriot, and consequently was not up to date on these matters.

In Dr. Robertson's first letter over his own signature, of Nov. 7th, wishing to have the public believe that when at Ottawa he watched over their interests with jealous care in relation to dairying, he says: "In 1890 a second large convention of the Dairymen's Association of the Dominion was held at Ottawa, and at this convention and the former one, I brought the condition of P. E. Island as regards the dairy industry before the convention." Let us see if the facts bear out this convention. I have before me the report of the convention of 1890 to which he refers. It opened its session in the City Hall, Ottawa, on Monday evening, Feby. 17th, 1890, and closed on Feby. 19th. Representatives and delegates were present from all the other Provinces, but P. E. Island was not represented by any delegate. The speakers from the various Provinces and from the Northwest Territories put forth, in forcible terms, the claims of their respective districts for Government assistance in developing the dairy industry. Shorthand reporters were present and took down every word that was spoken. The report contains 84 pages. But I will defy even Stanley, who found Livingstone in the wilds of Africa, to discover within its pages where Jas. E. Robertson ever uttered one word in behalf of the farmers of P. E Island. Dairying, not politics, was the subject of deliberation. Consequently, Dr. Robertson's occupation was gone. Not one word escaped his lips. He was as dumb as an oyster, as silent as the deserted hearthstone; and whilst the other representatives urged, and even demanded Government assistance, in behalf of their respective provinces, Jas. E. Robertson was like the simpleton mentioned in Xenophon, "who stood on the river's brink to watch the stream run out!"

Dr. Robertson still refuses to believe my statement that we did not get a satisfactory or definite reply from the Dairy Commissioner, with a view of closing with us, until March, 1892. He says "their Secretary, in the autumn of 1891, was in possession of the most positive assurance by the Commissioner, that he would be at New Perth in March, 1892, to fulfil his promise, if the people of New Perth were ready with their part."

By this statement it would appear that the Dairy Commissioner was not prepared to fulfil his promise till March, 1892. In view of this, how then can Dr. Robertson substantiate the statement made in his first letter that "the Commissioner purchased the machinery but the farmers hung fire and he had to store it for twelve months"? By the statement in Dr. Robertson's last letter the Dairy Commissioner was not prepared to fulfil his promise till March, 1892, and remembering that our factory went into operation on June 20th, 1892, it is thus quite evident that Dr. Robertson is in the most blissful ignorance of what he is writing about and that his statements are as "baseless as the fabrics of a vision." I have no desire to attempt to convince Dr. Robertson of the truth of my statements. It appears his obliguity is such as to render him impervious to conviction. But the following letter from Mr. Hamilton, our secretary, will be taken by the public as sufficient evidence as to the validity of my assertion:

(COPY.)

New Perth,
Dec. 30, 1895.

SIR,—In answer to your letter of to-day, I can state that, although the Dairy Commissioner on every occasion promptly and courteously replied to my several letters to him during the fall of 1891 and early part of 1892, desiring him to close with us in establishing the dairy station at New Perth, yet we did not consider his replies sufficiently definite until toward the first of March, 1892, to warrant us to commence building operations.

Yours, &c.,
J. HAMILTON.

CYRUS SHAW, Esq.,
New Perth.

Dr. Robertson cites "Farmer, New Perth," as proof of his contentions. The counterfeit of that writer is too thin for any person to be deceived. There is not a farmer in New Perth so destitute of honesty or truth as to write such unblushing falsehoods. The author of the letter signed "Farmer" is not very far from Dr. Robertson's elbow: "the voice is the voice of Jacob," whilst the hand is not even "the hand of Esau." The statements contained in "Farmer's" letter are identical with those that appeared in the columns of the Patriot two years ago, and the directors of the New Perth Dairying Company at that time, of whom five were Liberals, in the Patriot and EXAMINER newspapers, over their own signatures, exhibited that spirit of truth and justice that fair play demanded, and rose above party feeling to brand those statements as false and unwarrantable. Those directors were not men that could be bullied or intimidated; and in view of those facts, I can well afford to laugh at the slanders of Dr. Robertson and his would-be "Farmer."

Dr. Robertson again refers to Mr. Reid's resolution, passed at a meeting at Murray Harbor North. When every other retreat has been cut off, and every other hope is destroyed, this resolution appears to be his only sheet anchor, to show that his services were recognized in connection with the dairy industry. Two years have rolled away since that resolution was passed, and more information has been obtained in connection with the starting of the dairy business than was generally known at that time. Mr. Reid being a gentleman of the most sterling honesty and integrity, and being actuated by the most conscientious principles, a fact which Dr. Robertson dare not deny, it will, no doubt, be interesting to the public to have his opinion at the present time. The following letter will, therefore, be appreciated by Dr. Robertson:

(COPY.)

Murray Harbor North,
December 23rd, 1895.

SIR,—In answer to your enquiry if I would now endorse the resolution passed at a public meeting held at Murray Harbor North during the last local election campaign, thanking Dr. Jas. E. Robertson for what he did in connection with the dairying industry in this province, I respectfully state that with the knowledge I have since obtained in regard to the dairying industry in this province I would not endorse nor submit said resolution to any meeting.

I may also state that Dr. Robertson asked me in the presence of others to use my influence with the proper authorities, meaning the Dairy Commissioner and others, for the purpose of having the separator removed from the New Perth factory and placed in the Montague factory, or further south if a suitable building could be procured.

Yours, &c.,
WILLIAM REID,
M. H. North.

Thus retribution has followed in the footsteps of deception, and by the inexorable laws of justice, Dr. Robertson not only stands condemned by the evidence of Mr. Reid, but his contemplated treachery toward the people of New Perth is also clearly proven by the latter part of Mr. Reid's letter. But, "we owe it to the bounty of Providence that the completest depravity of the heart is sometimes strangely united with a confusion of the mind which counteracts the most favourite principles and makes the same man treacherous without art and a hypocrite without deceiving." Knowing that he had no more influence with the Dairy Commissioner "than the sickly rays of a December sun has upon an Alpine glacier," he it said to his everlasting disgrace, Dr. Robertson went into the camp of his political enemies, and by this means tried to carry out his infamous design against the people of New Perth. But in Mr. Reid he found a man who scorned the dishonorable proposal. Let Dr. Robertson not think that his treachery towards the place of his birth will go unpunished, although a Benedict Arnold died unhung. Had Dr. Robertson lived about 1900 years ago, he would evidently have possessed all the essential qualities to have earned thirty pieces of silver, and his dust would now be reposing in the potter's field.

In what I have written on this matter I have had no desire to take from Dr. Robertson any credit, if any, he is legitimately entitled to receive. Nor do I wish to obtain any credit for myself for anything I have done in connection with the dairy industry. But after reading Dr. Robertson's first letter I was determined to resent the reproach cast on the stockholders of the New Perth Dairying Company, with whom I am identified, and place the facts before the public as fully as possible.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Ann (Anderson) Macdonald, relict of the late James Macdonald, Esq., of Kingsborough, King's Co., P. E. I., died at her home (as above) Dec. 31st, 1895, in the 78th year of her age, leaving three sons and four daughters, two brothers and four sisters, with a large number of other relatives and friends, to mourn the loss of one who was very highly esteemed in all the relations of life. One daughter lives in Souris, the wife of the widely known and highly respected Dr. Muttart; one is the wife of Ezra Kennedy, Esq., two daughters and one son live in the old home. Melville (married) lives in the neighborhood, and Henry A. is in Kentucky, a preacher and educator of much ability, he having been, for a lengthened period, president of West Kentucky College. More than half a century ago Mrs. Macdonald yielded to the claims of the Gospel, was baptized into Christ, united with the church of Christ at South Lake, where she labored earnestly for the advancement of the cause, and continued an honored member until her death. Being possessed of a brilliant mind and a loving heart, her life was a blessing to her family and also to the community of which she formed a part; and, her influence for good will long continue, truly—"her works do follow her."

"Why do we mourn departing friends,
Or shake at deaths alarms?"

Why weep for such as she was, and is? It is only the passing home of a weary pilgrim, worn by the labors of a busy life, and ripe for the garner of the Lord. Freed from all cares, toils and pains, she is gone to Him who said: "I will receive you unto Myself"—who said: "I will give you rest." Mourning friends, it is all well—It is only a little waiting until the dawning of the glorious morning.

See if it won't work a miracle.

Thousands have been benefited by Wilson's celebrated Invalid's Port. While it soothes, it strengthens; while it makes a pleasant drink, it at the same time builds up the run-down system. For Wilson's Invalids' Port is a fine old generous wine, full bodied, which is guaranteed to make blood, and to add a new feeling of strength and hope to the hypochondriac. It is a great deal more valuable than the ordinary tonics, for while it sharpens the appetite it at the same time has the power to make new flesh and muscles. All over the country, this wine is in demand, replacing many of the worthless nostrums, which have been impudently called tonics and blood makers. A big bracing tonic. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles, half case $4 or 75 cents per bottle. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital Street, Montreal. 246.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Opening of the Sixth Session.

The Governor-General's Speech.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 2, 1896.

This day, at 3 p. m., His Excellency the Governor-General proceeded to the chamber of the Senate in the Parliament building, and took his seat upon the throne. The members of the Senate being assembled, His Excellency was pleased to command the attendance of the House of Commons, and that house being present His Excellency was pleased to open the sixth session of the seventh Parliament of the Dominion of Canada with the following speech:

Honourable Gentlemen of the Senate:

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In accordance with the announcement made during the last session, Parliament has been summoned somewhat in advance of the usual period. The bountiful harvest with which Canada has been blessed is a cause for the deepest thankfulness to the Giver of all good.

I congratulate you upon the evidence of increased activity in the various branches of commerce and industry. Several such indications have come under my personal observation during a tour made recently in the Northwest Territories and British Columbia. In particular I noticed the extension of mining enterprise in British Columbia, where the vast mineral resources are in certain localities being now developed and utilized upon something like an adequate scale.

A special feature of the same tour consisted in the opportunities obtained for visiting a number of the Indian reservations, and also the industrial schools. On the former. I was received with hearty demonstrations of loyalty and good-will, while in connection with the latter the proofs of proficiency and intelligence on the part of the children were highly encouraging.

As to the work of the Indian Department, as a whole, the manner in which it is directed and administered appears to be very satisfactory.

A reference to these topics would be incomplete without an allusion to the valuable service of the Northwest Mounted Police, which may justly be regarded by Canadians, generally, as indispensable, under the present conditions, to the well-being of those extensive and promising portions of the Dominion in which they are stationed.

Immediately after the prorogation of Parliament, my Government communicated, through the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, with the government of that province, in order to ascertain upon what lines the local authorities of Manitoba would be prepared to promote amendments to the acts respecting education in the schools of that province, and whether any arrangement was possible with the Manitoba Government which would render action by the Federal Parliament in this connection unnecessary.

I regret to say that the advisers of the Lieutenant Governor have declined to entertain favorably these suggestions, thereby rendering it necessary for my government in pursuance of its declared policy, to introduce legislation in regard to this subject. The papers will be laid before you.

I am happy to inform you that the representations of my government and the suggestions of the Ottawa Conference respecting steamship communication have resulted in an announcement by the Imperial authorities of their willingness to grant a substantial subvention towards the Atlantic portion of the scheme. This will, I trust, ensure the successful establishment of a line of steamers between the United Kingdom and Canada, which in point of speed and equipment shall fully meet all the requirements of my Government.

I have also learned with satisfaction that it is the intention of the Secretary of State for the Colonies to appoint a committee to consider a proposed Pacific cable to connect Canada with Australia. You will, I am sure, share the gratification which my advisers welcome these announcements as affording further evidence of the desire of Her Majesty's Government to draw closer to each other and the Motherland the outlying portions of the Queen's dominions. The papers on these subjects will also be submitted to you.

Your attention will be asked to measures intended to provide for the better arming of our militia and the strengthening of Canadian defences.

The growth of population in the Northwest Territories, as disclosed by the last enumeration, calls for additional representation in Parliament. A bill for this purpose will be laid before you.

I am happy to be able to inform you that the commissioners appointed by Great Britain and the United States, for the purpose of delimitating the boundary between Alaska and Canada, have concluded their labors and have signed a joint report for presentation to their respective governments. This report will be laid before Parliament in due time.

At the request of the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, a delegate of my government visited England last summer to confer with the Imperial authorities upon the question of copyright. His report will be laid before you, and I doubt not that this subject will again receive your earnest attention.

You will also be asked to consider measures for the extension and development of our trade in agricultural products with the United Kingdom and other markets.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The accounts of the past and the estimates for the ensuing year will be laid before you. The latter have been framed with every regard for economy consistent with the requirements of the public service. You will be pleased to learn that the revenues of the country show a gradual and continuing increase, and the promised equilibrium between receipts and expenditure on Consolidated Fund account for the current year bids fair to be realized.

Honourable Gentlemen of the Senate:

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I commend these subjects and others which may come before you to your earnest consideration, relying upon your wisdom and prudence under the Divine guidance to discharge with dignity and effect the high trust committed to your care.
