His Failing.
 An English rector in an agricultural parish found his own sermons acceptable enough to his congregation, but not so those of his assistant.
 "Why don't you come to hear Mr. Jones?" he said to the leading farmer. "He's an excellent fellow and preaches far better than I do."
 "That may be, sir," was the grave rejoinder, "but we've been inquiring and inquiring about your curate, and we can't find as he's got any property, and we don't like to be told of our sins by a person as hasn't got no property."—Straud Magazine.

SINCE SISTER'S GOT A BEAU.

There's quite a change around at home, and all is now serene. Where once upon a time war raged and troubles I had seen. The reason this is brought about to you I mean to show. It's all because a man comes here, and he is sister's beau.

I don't know how she captured him, but he comes here just the same. And for fear that he will stay away I will not give his name. But I only hope he'll always come; I really love him so. For everything is now so nice since sister's got a beau.

I can spin my top in the parlor and generally have my way. Yesterday a boy cut loose my kite, and sis bought one today. She also gave me marbles and took me to a show. I feel so happy now to say that sister's got a beau.

The roosters and the chickens all seem to be so proud. And the cats upon the back yard fence at night sing extra loud; The birds up in the tree tops their happiness do show. And this has all been brought about since sister's got a beau.

I hope some one will make him come; I only wish I could. Yes, there's two bits a week I get for keeping ma in wood. I'll give this money to this man—sis calls him Mr. Jones. Because I'm having too good a time for sis to lose that beau. —A. C. Phelps in New Orleans Picayune.

LAMPS AND CANDLES.

There is an Art in the Managing of Them.

The most effective cleansing substance for the containers and wick apparatus consists of ordinary wood ash. This has a peculiar effect upon petroleum, crystal and other oils of the same kind. Rub the ashes well all over the parts that require cleaning and polish or wipe it off with a clean, soft cloth. This is a very simple method and obviates the use of water, which may prove a serious difficulty, especially if the operator is not very particular as regards the drying process. This treatment should not, however, entirely do away with a periodical boiling of the different parts of the lamp with strong soda, but the regular use of wood ash should make the washing a last resource and an altogether rare necessity.

The strictest cleanliness in every detail concerning lamps is of the greatest importance not only to insure a good light free from smell, but also as a preventive against danger. Odd bits of wick allowed to collect anywhere near the flame, for instance, are objectionable from every point of view.

Lamps that are but rarely used should not be left with the wick to become saturated through contact with the oil. The best plan is to empty the container, clean it as above, dry the wick if it is new, and put it aside in a box, into which dust cannot penetrate, till it is wanted again.

For these days, when candles are so much used, it is well to know that there is an art in choosing them. They should burn brightly, steadily, and without flickering, yet at the same time dwindle away as slowly as possible. The candle that gutters is to be avoided as extravagant and worthless. The best of all are those which are partially hollowed out, so that if the flame is exposed to a draft the melted wax runs down the inside. A thin, close wick will always burn better than a thick one. One of the cleverest contrivances adapted to candles is a metal automatic extinguisher. It can be fixed to any required depth of the candle, say one inch, more or less, and as soon as that quantity has burned away two metal rings close over the flame and effectually put it out. Something of the kind has already been seen, but the newer patent is much more practical, from the very fact that it can be fixed to any part of the candle instead of being placed in the candle holder, for in the latter case it could not act until the illuminant had quite burned down, when the extinguisher was obviously of doubtful utility.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Fur Seal as an Animal.
 Mr. David Starr Jordan, president of the Bering sea commission for 1896, and George Archibald Clark, secretary to the commission, say in The Forum: The male fur seal, or "beachmaster," reaches full maturity at the age of 7 years. At that time his weight is about 400 to 500 pounds, being considerably heavier when first in from the sea in the spring or after feeding in the fall than in the intervening period, when he fasts on land and grows gradually lean and weak. The males vary considerably in color, the general shade being black or dark brown, with longer hair or bristles of yellowish white. These are especially long and numerous on the thickened back of the neck, forming the so called "wig."

THINK OF THE LITTLE THINGS

about the house that would be improved by being painted. Painting is not the hard work it used to be. You can get just the color you want, mixed, ready to use, and no matching of colors, no fussing, no trouble. Open the can, stir the paint, dip in the brush, and go to painting. In the time it took to mix paints, by the old methods, you can now have the work well finished.

One kind of paint will not do for a house, table, buggy, and a bath tub any more than one kind of cloth would answer for all sorts of clothing. THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINTS are made for all purposes. Not one paint for all surfaces, but a different paint for each surface. THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS FAMILY PAINT is made for cupboards, shelves, baseboards, etc. It has an oil finish that can be washed. It is made in twenty-one colors. Our booklet, "Paint Points," is a good thing for you to have. It tells many interesting things about paints—good and bad paints. It tells what to paint, and how to paint it. It is free. A postal will bring it. For booklet, address 19 St. Antoine Street, Montreal.
