

INDIA WELCOMES SOVIET LEADERS

Huge Throng At New Delhi

By Peter Jackson
NEW DELHI, (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev arrived Friday and received a tremendous welcome from the largest crowd seen here since India gained her independence from Britain in 1947.

Hundreds of colored lights on trees in the centre of New Delhi were switched on at night to honor the Kremlin visitors on their first state visit to a non-Communist country. They will tour India for two weeks and visit Burma and Afghanistan before returning to Moscow.

Ancient and modern India mingled in the triumphant 12-mile procession from the airport to the president of India's residence in New Delhi.

The huge crowd of more than one million included wealthy Indians in modern dress, peasants in rags and whole families piled aboard camels.

At various points along the procession route, elephants stood with crossed Indian and Russian flags pointed on their foreheads.

Bulgarian and Khrushchev sat on each side of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru in an open limousine preceded by a motorcycle escort.

The two Russians smiled broadly, often waving their straw hats as the crowds cheered, waved Soviet and Indian flags and tried to surge into the road. They showered the visitors with flowers even though Nehru, for fear of injuries, had asked them not to.

DRIVE CROWD BACK
At the airport, the crowd was so excited that it broke through police lines as the Russians stepped out of their gleaming silver plane. A team of motorcycle police and other police armed with nightsticks drove the crowd back and prevented them from mobbing the Russians.

A crowd estimated at 50,000 at the airport saw Bulganin step out.

REDS "UNDERSTAND"
"The Soviet government fully understands and appreciates the efforts of the Indian government to secure peace and to achieve progress in their country's economy," he said.

He also praised "the heroic struggle of the peace-loving Indian people for re-establishing their independence," and he expressed the hope that friendship between India and Russia would grow.

Nehru told his visitors: "Our two countries are very close to each other and I am glad that every day bonds of friendship are being further strengthened."

Later in the afternoon, Bulganin and Khrushchev drove to Nehru's residence for a 45-minute talk. Although the talks then and in the next two weeks will touch on world issues, the main object of the visit is to show the Russians as much as possible of India's struggle to modernize the nation and raise living standards.

Russia is expected to offer India more economic aid to carry out the development program.

At the airport welcome, Bulganin touched on this subject.

Eisenhower Refuses To Admit Defeat At Geneva

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Friday night that despite the Geneva conference deadlock, the United States will "never admit defeat" in its quest for enduring world peace.
"Let me be clear," Eisenhower said, "that no setback, no obstacle to progress will ever deter this government and our people from the great effort to establish a just and durable peace."

The president's expression on future dealings with Russia and other powers was disclosed in a foreign policy address by State Secretary Dulles in which Dulles reported on the Big Four foreign ministers talks in Geneva.

"NEED NOT BE END"
Dulles said Eisenhower assured him during talks at Gettysburg that he fully shares the secretary's view that the Geneva meeting "need not be an end" to future negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Quoting the president from verbatim notes he took while at Gettysburg, Dulles said Eisenhower told him:
"Success may be long in coming but there is no temporal force so capable of helping achieve it as the strength, the might, the courage of the 165,000,000 Americans. In striving toward this common goal this country will never admit defeat."

Dulles said the big reason the West failed to make a single agreement with Russia at Geneva was that the Soviet "is not yet willing to pay the price needed to get these results."

The big problems taken up at Geneva by the Big Four foreign ministers were German unity, disarmament and development of more East-West contacts.

OPTIMISTIC NOTE
Dulles said in his speech nothing that happened at Geneva makes war more likely with Russia. President Eisenhower, he recalled, said he believed the Big Four "summit" conference in July made war less likely.

His body was found under tons of rubble and clay. Searchers had been digging through the ruins of the academy for the last three days.

Engineers and geologists are continuing their studies in an attempt to determine whether additional slides are likely.

Mass Stupidity Said Blocking Canadian Unity

NEEPAWA, Man. (CP)—A Toronto advertising executive says "mass stupidity" is holding back Canadian unity.

Robert M. Campbell, speaking at the convention of the Manitoba chambers of commerce, described Canada as "five nations loosely grouped together trying to work ahead to some form of unity."

He called on Canadians to emphasize their common interests instead of their differences.

He said Maritimers think they are under Confederation. British Columbia looks to the south and across the Pacific instead of toward the rest of Canada, prairie people resent their land and railway policies and the protection of eastern industries at their expense, Quebec resents the failure of the rest of the country to appreciate her part in nation-building and Ontario thinks it is forever called on to "shell out" to help other provinces.

He said it was "mass stupidity" which made Canadians fail to realize "how big a ball they have to carry."

Canal Closing Brings Jitters To West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Twin threats against blockade-conscious West Berlin were posed Friday by Communist East Germany.

First, the Communists ordered a crackdown on Western motorists who drive "carelessly" on the highways leading through Communist territory to the isolated city.

Second, West Berlin officials said he Communists have closed down the main ship canal leading to West Germany and the Ruhr area.

Western sources said the Communists blamed the canal shutdown on a "mechanical defect" and promised to reopen it Sunday.

The life of isolated West Berlin depends a great deal upon the free flow of traffic on the Communist-controlled canal. It was too early to tell whether there was any political motive behind the canal closing.

There was no indication whether the new developments would be merely another cold war harassment or the forerunner of a full-fledged blockade.

East German police announced they would not tolerate "careless" driving by Western motorists on the three Hitler-built autobahns linking West Germany with the divided city. The Communists did not spell out exactly what new restrictions would be imposed, how they would be enforced or when enforcement would begin.

East Germany—after receiving "full sovereignty" from the Russians last September—immediately announced it might move against West Berlin. It did not say how. The traffic threat came only two days after the Big Four Geneva conference ended without agreement on the ticklish question of how Germany should be unified.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, flying home from Geneva, stopped in East Berlin Thursday night and said East and West Germany should now begin working together on the question of unity. West Germany has so far refused to deal with East Germany on a diplomatic level.

New Era Of Independence Announced For Morocco

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters)—Sultan Mohammed ben Youssef Friday announced "the opening of an era of independence" for Morocco which will preserve the links with France. He spoke at the "Feast of the Throne," 25th anniversary of his accession.

The vast imperial palace grounds, thronged with 100,000 people, were a sea of color with the green and red Moroccan flags and the vivid robes of tribesmen who have been camping on the outskirts of the capital since the sultan's return from exile two days ago.

Ben Youssef spoke from a dais specially built for this occasion—the first full-scale celebration of the throne feast since 1952. His speech was marked by frequent friendly references to France, which exiled him two years ago for his nationalist views.

Several thousand militia of nationalist parties linked arms to clear a passage for the sultan from the palace to the nearby white-washed mosque. He worshipped there, marking resumption of his position as spiritual leader of Morocco's Moslem majority.

When the sultan appeared in his traditional grey robe, flanked by his two sons, he was given a tremendous ovation. As he read his speech, each mention of the word "independence" met with thunderous applause and wild cries from women in the crowd, many of whom fainted in the pushing and shoving.

Naval Veteran Says Arctic No Place For Pleasure Trip

HALIFAX (CP)—If you're planning a summer cruise, don't go to the Arctic.

That's the advice of Cmdr. John M. Leeming of Victoria and Halifax, who returned here Friday after five months aboard the navy's northern patrol ship Labrador.

"If's no place to go for a pleasure cruise," said the lanky veteran of two summer's in northern waters.

Cmdr. Leeming was in command when the Labrador arrived here, taking over from Capt. O. C. S. Robertson of Montreal and Victoria, flown to Montreal for medical treatment three weeks ago.

DEW SUPPLIES
The Labrador served as senior ship in a 21-ship task force charged with the delivery of supplies for DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar sites in the eastern Arctic.

"It's the monotony more than anything else that makes Arctic duty so hard," Cmdr. Leeming said.

"The captain has the tough job. He's not only got to look after our ship but keep every other captain in the convoy happy."

N.S. Towns Want Liquor Stores

HALIFAX, (CP)—Five Nova Scotia towns without liquor stores voted to have them Friday. Plebiscites were held in Annapolis valley centres of Windsor, Middleton and Bridgetown and in Shelburne and Canso on the Atlantic Coast.

Voting was heavy. Substantial majorities of "yes" ballots were counted in all towns but Middleton, where the margin in favor was narrow.

Here are results:

Windsor . . . . . 802 643
Middleton . . . . . 384 358
Bridgetown . . . . . 313 180
Shelburne . . . . . 507 241
Canso . . . . . 240 103

Voting was held under provisions of the Nova Scotia Liquor Control Act. All towns except Canso had been "dry" since the provincial plebiscite in 1929. Canso's government-operated store was destroyed by fire recently.

Hants and Shelburne counties, the only two counties in the province without stores, passed into the "wet" section. Their shire towns, Windsor and Shelburne, now will have liquor outlets.

Island Cattle Breeders' Fine Showing At Royal

The veteran breeders and showmen, A. MacRae and Son of Central Royalty made a splendid showing in one of the biggest and strongest Ayrshire shows ever seen in the big Coliseum at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. There were three hundred and sixty Ayrshires in the big cattle barn and there were as many as fifty-six head in a single class.

The MacRae's placed fourth with Fairview Fashion Classman in a very strong class of aged bulls. They were in the money in nearly all of the female classes in which they showed.

The MacRae's were fifth in a class of thirty-four milking two-year-olds. They were sixth in a class of forty-five senior yearlings. They placed ninth in a class of 30 three-year olds. They stood eleventh and twelfth in a class of twenty-eight mature dry cows.

They also did very well in the group classes. They stood sixth in a class of fifteen graded herds. They were seventh in the breeder's herd and eighth in the progeny of dam class.

Col. F. I. Andrew placed third in a class of yearling bulls with his young bull Royalty Fashion Harold C.
