"Public opinion is against the plan right now, but our job is to convince people that it's a good project."

Claims Were Forced To Lose Korean War

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—A retired air force general has told a Senate sub-committee here that "we were required to lose" the Korean war.

Stratemeyer told the committee that "state department and political interference kept us from winning the war."

Stratemeyer said that as head of the Far East air force under Gen. Douglas MacArthur "I was permitted to do a job and certainly MacArthur was handicapped."

Stratemeyer said his planes were forced to bomb bridges across the Yalu river crossings instead of lengthwise "so we would not violate the Manchurian and Siberian borders."

FRANCO-AMERICAN RELATIONS AT LOWEST POINT SINCE END OF SECOND WORLD WAR By PAUL SCOTT RANKINE WASHINGTON (CP)—Franco-American relations today appeared to have reached their lowest point since the end of the Second World War.

Beneath black headlines, "France Snubs U.S.," Washingtonians read accounts of the spurning by Premier Pierre Mendes-France of U.S. diplomatic efforts to persuade him to stake the future of his government on the French National Assembly's ratification of the European Defence Community treaty.

In the same papers they read a statement by State Secretary Dulles, placing the responsibility upon France for the failure of the Brussels EDC conference and warning that France was in danger of isolating itself from the free world.

It would be necessary to go back to the wartime disputes between President Roosevelt and General de Gaulle to match the present atmosphere of bitter frustration.

Administration spokesmen have described how when the Republicans came into power they found EDC bogged down, and brought it to life.

They have stated that the failure to realize EDC could mean the collapse of the hopes and efforts that inspired the Marshall plan, the North Atlantic treaty and the mutual security program, all projects successfully launched and carried through by the Truman administration.

French Warned In terms of immediate practical politics and supplies, the French are on notice from the U.S. Congress—as Dulles reminded them that U.S. assistance to France will stop next January if France does not ratify the treaty.

It would be difficult for Congress to permit its bluff to be called without fulfilling its threat. In terms of diplomatic alignments, the French position has already resulted in a split of the free world, acknowledged by Dulles Tuesday when he firmly put the U.S. in the Brussels dispute on the side of two of its wartime foes, Germany and Italy, and the Benelux countries against France, its wartime ally.

Opinion in the French National Assembly would presumably be even more opposed to German rearmament outside an European Defence Community than under it. Congress opinion is strongly committed to the view that Western Europe cannot be defended without some form of German military contribution. The potentialities for Franco-American differences after the disappearance of EDC are therefore even greater than those which have already developed.

Mink Breeders as the people all over Europe have long known its value. But he did believe that an important item was to get more Europeans here in this country to do their buying.

Mr. Shields, who only recently returned to Canada from a trip to Europe, said the average European buyer only went to a fur show one day and for this reason it was necessary for the association representatives to go to the stores and designers.

Dr. E. R. Bowness, Toronto Elevators Limited, asked the breeders present not to be too critical of what he termed a lack of research. He said this was already going on and particular attention was being paid to the health and general diet of mink.

He also warned the breeders against the practice of "picnicking" expenditure of money on research. He stated a lot was being done in Ontario now.

There was also considerable private discussion regarding the holding of EMBA sales in Canada and a notation that many breeders in this country were having deductions made from their own sales while not being members of the association.

It was proposed that a style show be held in Calgary in November with financial aid from the association. Members discussed this at length but a final decision will be reached at the executive meeting this morning.

The retiring president, Mr. J. C. Martin, St. Marys, Ontario, briefly addressed the gathering before relinquishing office to express his appreciation of the association he has had with the Mink Breeders Association and promising all the co-operation he could give to the incoming executive.

Among the many speakers heard briefly yesterday were Messrs. Kenneth Montgomery, Alberta; Cliff Brown, Ontario; Orville Griffin, Saskatchewan; Robert Collins, British Columbia; J. Hutchison, Quebec; Charles Combs, British Columbia; Russ Gregory, Manitoba; and Joseph Connolly, New Brunswick. Non delegates entering the considerations included Dr. Bowness, and Messrs Arthur Prentice and Percy Noble, Montreal.

HALIFAX PORT WILL NOT BE EFFECTED BY ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY HALIFAX (CP)—A shipping company official says Halifax and Saint John, N.B., have little to fear from the St. Lawrence seaway, once declared as the ruin of Atlantic ports.

"I can't see how it will do us any good," an official of one of Halifax biggest steamship agencies said, "but it won't hurt us."

The official, who asked not to be named, said "the harbor front is in good condition and the stevedores are doing a good job."

He said Halifax could be sure of the coastal trade, ships from the far east, and about the same number of passengers.

STILL EXPECT SHARE The seaway would be frozen over in the winter and Halifax and Saint John, N.B., could still count on their share of winter shipping.

Halifax, meanwhile, has been preparing for another season as a winter port, and prospects are reported good.

The biggest development will be a new $500,000 cargo transit shed under construction at pier 9. Port officials say they hope to have it completed before Jan. 1, in time to relieve congestion at the height of the season.

Halifax already has 17 sheds and officials say more are needed

EMBA SALES There was also considerable private discussion regarding the holding of EMBA sales in Canada and a notation that many breeders in this country were having deductions made from their own sales while not being members of the association.

Motorist Charged With Manslaughter HULL, Que. (CP)—Marcel Danis, 22, of suburban Deschênes, was charged with manslaughter Wednesday in connection with the death July 27 of three-year-old Diane Millette. He will be arraigned in court here today.

A coroner's jury found Danis criminally responsible for the youngster's death. The girl was knocked down by an automobile while playing in the laneway beside her South Hull home and died in hospital three days later. Danis had gone to the Millette home to pick up a child left there by a passenger in his car.
