C.I.A. (Underdeveloped Police)

U.S.A.

Colombian priests demand that C.I.A. agents be thrown out of country.

On October 31, 500 Colombian priests asked the government to expell C.I.A. agents who had infiltrated the country's armed forces.

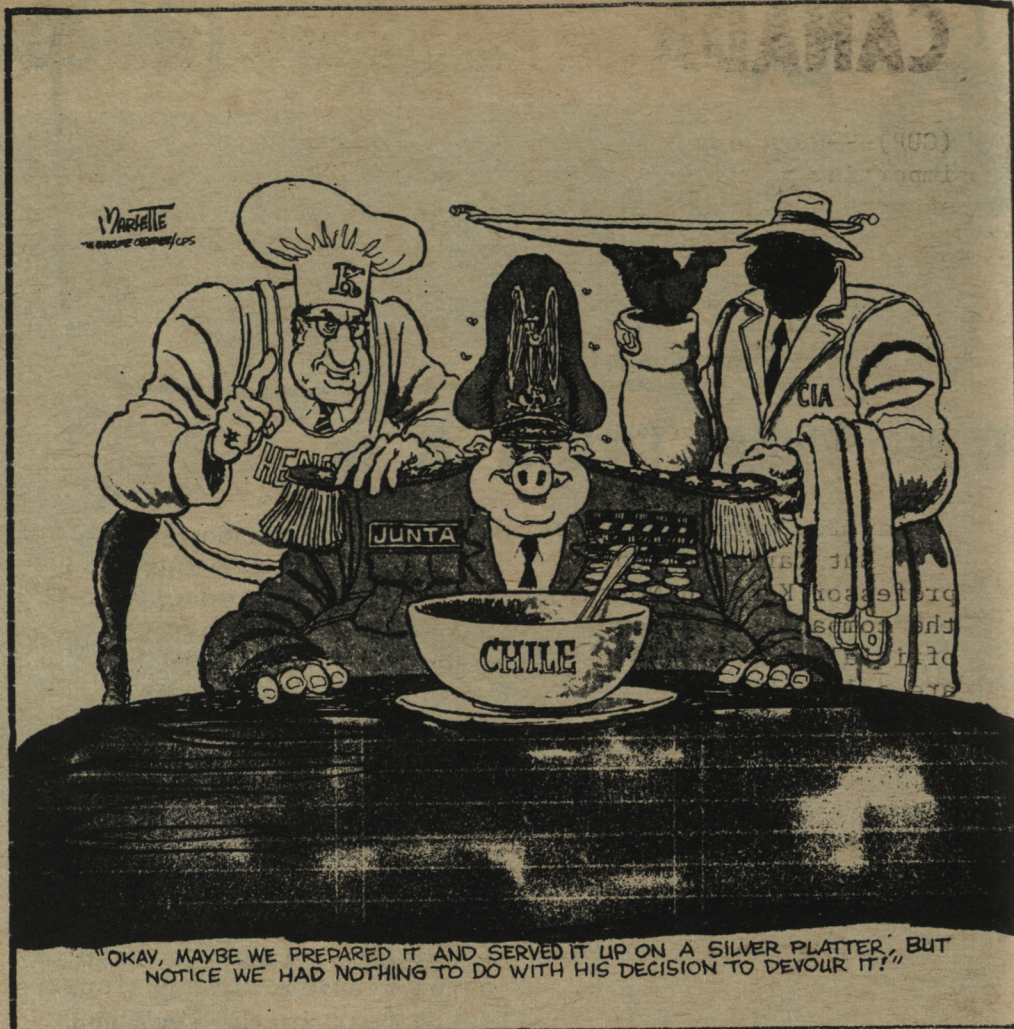

In a letter sent to the President and Congress and made public in Bogota, Priests for Latin America (SAL) demand the immediate expulsion of all undercover U.S. technical or military advisors in military institutions.

They also demand the cessation of the training of Colombian military in the United States and call for the establishment of a vigilance committee in Colombia.

In turn Alfredo Vazquez Carrizosa former Minister of Foreign Affairs of Colombia called the C.I.A. "the mysterious arm of a government (the U.S. gov't) that intervenes in other countries and has become an inter-American problem".

When will these U.S. capitalists stop exploiting the peoples of Latin America!

Canadian Aid To The Chilean Junta Mushrooms

Last year the Canadian government recognized the Chilean military junta which overthrew Salvador, saying however that it was merely a de facto recognition and in no way implied that it considered the junta the lawful government of the country. The early date of the move was ostensibly to protect Canadian economic interests in Chile. Since then however we have not only been protecting our interests but rapidly expanding them. Examples:

- Canadian credit is being given to the junta; almost none was given to Allende.

- Inside a month of the coup Canada gave the junta $5 million worth of airplanes, to be repaid under a long-term easy-rates credit.

- The Export Development Corporation (EDC) has agreed to re-negotiate the terms of Chilean debt to it to aid the junta in its "reconstruction".

- Canada has voted consistently in favour of extending increased credit to Chile in such organizations as the International Monetary Fund ($95 million) and the Inter-American Development Bank ($97 million).

U.S. Steps Up Aid To Chile

Washington(CUP-PL)--- Chile will receive $85 million in United States aid next year if the U.S. Congress passes the foreign aid bill that was presented by former President Richard Nixon.

While only $21.3 million will go to military aid, the overall budget makes Chile the largest recipient of U.S. funds in the western hemisphere.

The amount allocated to Chile marks a significant change in U.S. foreign aid during the government of the late President Salvador Allende.

U.S. foreign aid to Chile amounted to only $40 million during Allende's tenure as President. As well the U.S. decree of an economic boycott on Chile forced financial institutions to abstain from giving credit to the country.

Following Chile in foreign allocation in Latin America is Brazil which will receive $69.3 million of which $60 million will be for military purposes.

For interest.. the Chilean military earn 12 to 29 times as much as workers ...with abundant fringe benefits.

- Canadian banks gave the junta a multi-million loan.

- A strong increase in trade with Chile since the overthrow has taken place, according to Statistics Canada.

- Falconbridge Nickel Co. wants to invest $300 million in northern Chile.

In sharp contrast to these most friendly relations NO credit was given to Chile during the Allende years by the EDC despite 24.7 million before and millions since. No Canadian private investment in Chile was given then, although some companies started negotiations. Canadian banks, if they didn't cut it off altogether, offered credit at exorbitant rates.

It is quite apparent that Canada has taken an active part in the movement to wipe Marxism out of the Americas, freely elected or not. And, while we won't know what position the Canadian government will take until Parliament reconvenes judging from the history of the past two years, or indeed the last fifty, Canada is likely to continue to follow the American example and deplore the junta while extending more and more credit and money to the Chilean military.
