

MR. AND MRS. WENDELL LEIGH WEEKS AND PARTY

Pretty Autumn Wedding Held At Bideford Church

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at Bideford United Church on Saturday afternoon, October 27th at 2:00, when Erna Glenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy, McNeill's Mills, exchanged vows with Wendell Leigh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Weeks, Alberton, in a double-ring ceremony, performed by Rev. Fredrick Sawden.

Mrs. R. R. Logie was in charge of the wedding music and accompanied Miss Clarence found who sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register. The church was beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers.

The lovely young bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a white ballerina length wedding gown of Chantilly lace with tulle over satin, and matching bolero with long sleeves that came to points over the hands

Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a crown studded with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses. Her only ornament was pearl earrings, gift of the groom.

Miss Grace Murphy was her sister's maid of honor. She was attired in a ballerina length gown of blue nylon net over tulle, with matching lace bolero, mitts and headband and carried a nosegay of blue and white mums.

Miss Doreen Murphy, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a ballerina length gown of pink net over tulle, with matching bolero, mitts and headband, and carried a nosegay of pink and white mums. Little Ruthie Murphy, sister of the bride made a winsome flowergirl in her dress of aqua nylon net over tulle, short full skirt, with matching bandeau. She carried a bouquet of pink and white mums. Malden Weeks, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. Carmen Murphy and Mr. George Murphy, brothers of bride, were junior ushers.

Mrs. Murphy chose for her daughter's wedding a blue viscose rayon tweed dress with black fleck and matching picture hat, and black accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother was dressed in a mauve viscose rayon tweed suit, with white accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations.

The reception was held at Birch Hill Lodge. Mr. Edward Phillips proposed a toast to the bride to which the groom fittingly responded. Following the reception the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to various points of interest throughout the Maritime.

For travelling the bride donned a grey box-styled suit with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. On return the newly married couple will reside in Alberton.

MARY HAWORTH Not Living Says Bachelor

Dear Mary Haworth: I am a man 37, and my home life with my family is very happy. We have a nice place in town; and I have a good job that I enjoy, and more education than my family or most of my friends. But I am not getting anything out of life. When a friend told me that recently I became indignant—but it is true.

Some years ago I dreamed of good vacations—travelling to Europe and South America. Travel folders still appeal, but not enough to make me pack and go. My married friends live in the suburbs, and I admire their households and sympathize when they tell how they are coping with all the problems of family, home and job. We, too, could afford a modest suburban house and I would like that; but I don't seem to have enough initiative to move, and make things better for the family.

When my car broke down a while back, I sold it and have no inclination to get a new one. When friends discuss the new cars, their colors, lines, etc., I don't feel interested. Occasionally I see a few unmarried friends, but their aimless riding about, with a little drinking and a movie to kill time, bores me.

I'm up on the latest books, concerts and the like, but have nobody to discuss these things with. My sister says she can't understand why I'm not "living"—but she doesn't know that most everything that seems important to others doesn't interest me at all. I love my church and give generously, because inwardly I want so much to help others—and hope my life will change. I do intend to volunteer my services at church and perhaps that will get me out and get absorbed in other people and their lives. What is your opinion, A.R.

HIS TRUE PLACE
Dear A.R.: Let's assume that you were earmarked by temperament and the workings of fate as indicated in your exceptional education for a somewhat different life than your family and the friends of your youth have known. If such is the case, you've let yourself down by failing to take the necessary steps to advance yourself to other fields where you may belong by affinity.

Being a docile person, I gather—at least on the surface, due to parental training—you haven't put up much of a struggle to find, and know, and be your self. You have just drifted in a happenstance routine of least resistance to environment, so far.

As of now, you are a little like a man who has gone so long without vital nourishment, suited to him, that he no longer has any appetite for it. Or to say it another way, your apathetic attitude, nowadays, your listless indifference to nearly everything that others around you enjoy, is due to an unconscious underflow of tremendous frustration, I think.

In your younger years, you had occasional impelling ideas about how to experience the good life—how to savor its special appeal to you. And one such idea was to travel in Europe and/or South America. But you went no further than scanning travel folders, which shows that your greatest handicap is self-imposed. It is the habit of dreamy inaction which keeps you from "really living."

To get on the road to your true place in life, you've got to overcome this passivity and lack of faith, by deliberately using your

Vernon W. I. Elects Its Officers

The annual meeting of the Vernon Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Barry Ings on Tuesday, Nov. 6. The meeting opened by repeating the Collect in unison. Roll Call was answered by nine members paying their membership fees. Mrs. Barry Ings was welcomed as a new member.

The minutes of the last Annual and monthly meetings were read and approved and signed. The President, Mrs. Willard Murray in her address, thanked all members for their wonderful co-operation throughout the year. She regretted her absence during the winter months and expressed her appreciation to the Vice-President Mrs. Everett MacDougall for carrying on. The financial report for the year was given by the Secretary, Mrs. Louis Sullivan and showed a substantial increase in funds over the past year.

The election of officers resulted in the following: President, Mrs. Cecil Tweedy; vice-president, Mrs. Lloyd Furness; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Louis Sullivan (re-elected); Auditors, Mrs. Richard MacRae, Mrs. Lloyd Furness; Directors, Mrs. Gordon Crane, Mrs. Clifford Lea, Mrs. Everett MacDougall.

As Vernon now has formed a Home and School Association it was decided to dispense with a School Committee. A discussion on the Annual Banquet took place. Plans were made to hold it on Nov. 14. Mrs. William Howlett was asked to make the necessary arrangements.

The secretary reported she had no further word on the Home Nursing Course.

Mrs. Lloyd and Wilfred Furness invited the members to their home for next meeting. Roll call is to be answered by an "Exchange of Christmas Gifts."

On motion by Mrs. Crane, the meeting adjourned and a very delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Ings.

COOK'S CORNER

CHERRY RHUBARB PINEAPPLE JAM

4 cups pitted cherries
1/2 tsp. salt
Stir until dissolved. Cook until thick. Fills 12 small jars.

will, to compel your muscles to move, and take you where you decide to go. You must establish, day by day, the forceful habit of carrying constructive thought into appropriate action, insofar as possible, if you are to cooperate with God, in making your life count. HELP YOURSELF

The individual's highest hopes and finest desires are blueprints of what he may be, and indeed is intended to be, in the master plan of creation. But just as faith without works is dead, so too are dreams of a better life, if we don't follow through, in practical ways, to give ourselves a break.

So, if you are thinking of signing for church work, go ahead with it. And thereafter take such other developmental steps as appeal to reason—and keep this up progressively, M.H.

Debs Turn Into Working Girls

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP)—What happens to British debutantes after those first tremulous "coming out" parties? What do they do when the "season" ends?

The answer seems to be that most of them give up the dizzy round of cocktail parties, dances and all-night balls and start getting to grips with life. Some take jobs and some go back to a quiet life in the country.

This verdict on the post-debut comes from two of the prettiest girls who have been through the whirl, 19-year-old Frances Sweeney and her friend, Penny Knowles, 18. Miss Sweeney, daughter of the Duchess of Argyll, vied with actress Anna Massey as Britain's "deb of the year" in 1955.

MODELS NOW
Supporting their own theory that most debutantes become working girls after their first year on the champagne circuit, the Misses Sweeney and Knowles have just taken jobs modelling ski clothes in a Piccadilly store.

"The simple fact is that we're really not debutantes any more," said Miss Sweeney, a petite, green-eyed brunette whose 1955 coming-out party was one of the season's biggest splashes.

"We prefer quieter, informal parties now," with just half a dozen friends."

FUN-BUT
Now that they're ex-debs they like to be taken seriously. Looking back on that glamorous year when they had the big parties and were pressed to the Queen, they feel it was fun while it lasted—but "most of the stories about it were highly exaggerated."

Miss Sweeney plans to work only until Christmas. "It's an interesting experience, but I wouldn't like to keep on at it for ever."

Miss Knowles, a willowy, blue-eyed blonde, says she has to work for her living and hopes she can do it as a model. Her mother, Iris Ashley, is a fashion writer for a London newspaper.

OUTDOORS OUTFITS
The girls model chic sports outfits, consisting of windproof jackets, chunky sweaters, ski trousers and boots. They also display cocktail clothes for "after-ski" occasions, but in the present crisp weather "we're glad to get back into warmer things," says Miss Knowles.

Miss Sweeney's mother, formerly Margaret Whigham, was regarded as the "deb of the year" in 1931 when she made her glittering debut. There were many comments on the facial resemblances of the two women when Miss Sweeney "came out" last year at a scintillating ball attended by many socially prominent persons. The Countess of Listowel, who attended both last year's party and the one in 1931, said: "Miss Sweeney's party was dazzling—but her mother's was even better."

ASK MINDSZENTY ASYLUM WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative Daniel Flood (Dem. Pa.) Tuesday asked State Secretary Dulles to offer Josef Cardinal Mindszenty asylum in the United States. Mindszenty, Roman Catholic Primate of Hungary, was released from prison during the fighting in his country. He took shelter in the U.S. legation in Budapest when Soviet control of Hungary was re-established.

MORNING SMILE

"Look here, daughter, I can't say that I especially like that young fellow that you are going out with lately."

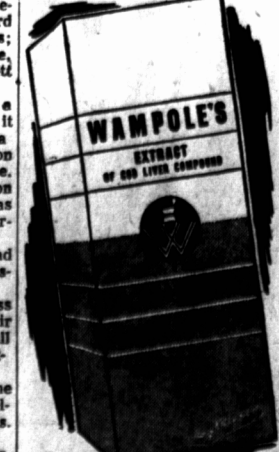

"Aw, that's okay. Pops, you're poison to him, too."

HOUSEHOLD HINT

Unless a foundation garment is kept clean, its elasticity soon gives way. The only way to keep it really clean is to wash it regularly and frequently.
