Horse Races Today
At Parkview Raceway

With the racing spotlight focused on the Exhibition Raceway all last week during the Old Home Week program, the interest of racing fans will shift today to the Parkview Raceway at South Rokeby where a promising looking card of four classified events will take place as the highlight feature of the regular Wednesday afternoon harness racing meet.

The opening heat of the big twelve-heat program will go up behind the starting gate at two o'clock sharp.

It should be a smart program of racing with some twelve starters scheduled to go to the wire in the number one event, seven in the number two classified, ten in the third and fourteen in the fourth, making a total of some forty-three entries taking part.

They are all top-notch trotting and pacing entries, too, from leading Island and mainland stables, and with a well-conditioned track to compete over, the least that attending fans can expect is a smart afternoon of keen racing entertainment.

Island Mixed Doubles Tennis Title Decided

Jimmy Palmer and Miss Audrey DeBlois won the Provincial mixed doubles tennis championship at the Charlottetown Tennis Club courts over the week-end when they defeated runners-up Paul Kays and Miss Wanda MacMillan in a final match by scores of 7-9 6-1, 6-0.

Both members of the winning team were also in the runner-up positions for the singles titles of their respective divisions earlier in the tournament, Palmer losing out in the final to Earl Smith of Summerside, and Miss DeBlois being defeated by Miss Helen Larter of the City Club.

Play in other doubles events narrowed down to the final during the week-end play, with Helen Larter and Wanda MacMillan winning through their semi-final round of the ladies doubles and Walter Cullen and Earl Smith also advancing into the men's doubles final.

They are the only two divisions to be decided in Provincial closed Tennis Tournament play, with Larter and MacMillan scheduled to meet the DeBlois sisters, Audrey and Nora in the final this afternoon at three o'clock, while the men's doubles final are scheduled for Saturday afternoon at three o'clock when Cullen and Smith will meet the team of Ivan Dowling and Paul Kays.

It is hoped that the official presentation of trophies and prizes will be held following the men's doubles final on Saturday at the same time the weekly Saturday afternoon tea is held.

Expect Big
Entry At Open
Golf Tourney

MONTREAL, Aug. 22 (CP)—Railway strike or no strike, Royal Montreal Golf Club is preparing for the largest entry in the history of the Canadian open golf championship.

The entry list has reached 209. The best previous field is believed to have been 157 at the Toronto Scarborough Club in 1947 when Bobby Locke of South Africa walked off with the title.

Locke is an absentee this year but Sam Snead, top money winner this year in the United States and three times Canadian open champion, heads a strong American entry.

Snead arrived early today, went out on the course with Ken Murray, professional at the host club, and shot a six-under par 66 in a practice round.

Scores of pros and a scattering of amateur entries fired all over the course, Bill Ezinicki, Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey player and now a golf pro at Sharon Springs N. Y., was reported to have shot a practice 68.

Some 60 Americans were already entered for the 72-hole medal tournament that opens Thursday and ends Sunday.

With the final matches in the Provincial Closed Tennis Tournament in progress over the Charlottetown Tennis Club courts for the past two weeks—expected to wind-up today and Saturday, officials of the City Club stated last night that they are planning to follow up the big event with the holding of their annual closed tournament. Play in the latter event is expected to get underway this week-end or early next week.

In view of this competition and interest that has been displayed in the Provincial tourney so far and is expected to prevail in no lesser degree in the remaining matches, local club officials are looking forward to a highly successful round of competition within the club itself, when a large list of entries from the club membership will contest one another for the various Charlottetown Club titles.

Although some players in the local club, such as Jim Palmer and Miss Audrey DeBlois, who captured the Provincial mixed doubles title, and Miss Helen Larter who is the new 1950 ladies singles champion of the Province, will no doubt be the favourites to cop leading honors again in club play, it will be by no means cut and dried. There are many players who although going down to defeat in the Provincial tourney, can be depended upon to make strong bids for club honors, while still others, who for unforeseen circumstances, were unable to compete in Provincial play, are expected to be on hand as leading contenders.

Regardless of the players who will be the final winners, however, the tourney will fulfill the purpose for which it is held—to create a greater interest in the racquet wielding sport as a leading feature of local sporting entertainment and provide an outlet for keen competitive play and good sportsmanship—a predominating feature that can be found in all phases of sport in this "sporting Island Province."

"No rule in baseball has been more thoroughly revised than the one covering the style of glove which the various players may wear," states Billy Evans, general manager of the Detroit Baseball Club. "The consensus of the baseball experts' continues Evans, "is that the game has greatly benefited by the changes made in glove specifications. It is generally admitted that the athletes were going much too far in the use of gadgets that made the average catch of a ball purely mechanical, rather than a display of unusual ability."

"Strangely enough," states the Tiger's general manager, "the catchers alone have made no use for the trick gloves for which most of the players were falling. The catcher still may wear a leather glove or mitt of any size, shape or weight. Yet, most of the catchers today use a glove not nearly as large as those used 30 years ago. Ray Schalk, then with the Chicago White Sox, was the first great catcher to go to the small glove. It is now the generally accepted model."

"Perhaps a score of years ago, infielders, outfielders and pitchers began to go to the larger size in gloves, to which a trap or claw was added through the medium of wound or wrapped lacing, which usually made the glove a net type of trap. The trap in many instances was almost as large as the glove. The first basemen were the greatest offenders. Some of them so developed their contraption that what was supposed to be a glove looked more like a butterfly net. In most cases the first basemen, rather than fitting the glove to his fingers, had a fastener inside the glove to which he held, letting the ball take care of itself in the trap provided for that purpose."

"The shape of the glove became so distorted by the use of the claw or trap net that the average first basemen couldn't field a ground ball in the usual manner but was compelled to sweep at the ball, hoping it would land in the net. It is a well-known fact that the skill of first base play has deteriorated greatly because of the net type trap, favored by a great majority of first basemen."

"The glove used by the first basemen, or that of any other infielder or outfielder, may still have a webbing of standard leather or lacing," concludes Evans, "but the lacing shall not be enlarged, extended or reinforced by process or materials whatever. The webbing cannot be constructed of wound or wrapped lacing to make a net type of trap. Ordinary lacing merely widens the

Pictured above is Miss Mary MacLennan of Alexandria, who returned to this Province last Sunday by plane with the Provincial Rifle Association team. She competed in the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot last week.

Miss MacLennan's performance at Connaught Range, Ottawa, brought wide recognition to herself and this Province, when she proved herself to be one of Canada's leading rifle shots by placing 10th on the Bisley Aggregate with a total score of 732. Miss MacLennan was not listed as a member of the team of 18 shots who will represent Canada at the Bisley meet in England next year, due to the fact that there is no formation open to women on the team other than Nursing Sisters attached to the Armed Services.

In a brief telephone interview with Miss MacLennan last evening, she said "I feel very happy over my performance—it was the most wonderful accomplishment I have ever achieved or probably ever will again."

Miss MacLennan, a school teacher by profession and a sister of Mr. George MacLennan of Alexandria, a former member of the Canadian Bisley team, is deserving of much credit for her outstanding performance—an accomplishment that every Islander can be proud of.

A special meeting of the tournament executive will meet tonight at seven o'clock to re-arrange the draw and playing schedule to accommodate the new entries. Yankees Defeat
Tigers 13-6

(By The Canadian Press)
Led by catcher Yogi Berra, who powered across six runs with two singles, a triple and his 14th home run of the year, New York Yankees led the American League-leading Detroit Tigers a lustrous 13-6 wallop yesterday in the opener of their important three-game series at Yankee Stadium.

The one-sided licking at the expense of three second-line Detroit flingers reduced the Tigers lead over the second-place Yankees to 2 1-2 games and sent the majority of 44,263 New York rain-sprinkled fans home happy.

Although the Tigers made only three fewer hits than the Yankees—11 to the winners' 14—Allie Reynolds kept a tight rein on them in all except one inning, the eighth, when they jolted him for four of their runs. Johnny Groth's 11th homer of the season accounted for three of them.

New York Giants continued their mastery over Chicago Cubs, scoring five runs in the sixth inning for a 6-1 National League victory. A crowd of 34,033 saw the New Yorkers erase a 3-1 lead to notch their eighth straight victory over the Cubs. Jim Hearn went the distance to pick up his sixth triumph and third in a row.

Two night games were played in the American League and three in the National. The American League game between Chicago and Philadelphia was postponed.

Bob Feller pitched tight six-hit ball to hurl Cleveland Indians to a 5-1 victory over Washington

It will be the last lap of the regular schedule for all four squads with only two more dates left on the schedule calendar, although there are some four postponed games to be picked up. With the end in sight, all will be turning out their reserve power to garner those necessary wins that will either make or break their chances of playoff positions.

As the teams stand going into today's clashes, the Curran and Briggs boys are leading the loop with eleven wins in fifteen starts. Falcons in second spot with 14 victories in sixteen trips, R. C. A. F. third with three in thirteen and Abbies trailing with two in twelve league sessions.

C. and B. have four games to play, Falcons three, R. C. A. F. six and Abbies seven.

Senators. It was Feller's 12th victory and enabled the Indians to move within 3 1/2 games of the front-running Tigers. Boston Red Sox defeated St. Louis Browns for the 16th time, winning 9-5. The Sox collected eight runs in the sixth inning.

A crowd of 19,526 saw the Brooklyn Dodgers whip Pittsburgh Pirates 10-8. Roy Campanella hit his 24th homer for Brooklyn with two aboard.

Sid Gordon cracked out three doubles to pace Boston Braves to a 5-1 triumph over St. Louis Cardinals. Vern Bickford hurled six-hit ball for his 15th National League victory this year.
