CHRONIC

DISEASES

Treated by the SALISBURY Method of persistent SELF-HELP in overcoming past errors and removing the causes of disease. The result justifies the means. This is not an easy quick cure-all. Neither should it be judged by certain bad imitations already among the people, nor by the half-hearted efforts of invalids to go it alone or half-do it. The salvation of health necessitates sincere repentance, constant self-denial and whole-hearted faith in the good works of physician and patient. Not even M. D.'s certificates by the team will save one from the evil consequences of stimulants, fluid or solid.

SENATE OF CANADA.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Denounces the Announcement of the Government Tariff Policy in New York.

OTTAWA, April 2.—In the Senate, Sir Mackenzie Bowell referred to the interviews, published in the New York papers, with Mr. Borden, in which the tariff policy of the Government was outlined. He considered the statements made to be in direct violation of the duties of a responsible minister, and it was an insult to Parliament that Canadians had to get their first intimation as to the policy of the Government through foreign papers.

It is reported that the Moncton employees of the Post Office Department will get their walking tickets today.

THE SWEET SAD, YEARS.

The sweet, sad years, the sun, the rain, Alas! too quickly did they wane. For each some boon, some blessing bore, Of smiles and tears each had its store, Its chequered lot of bliss and pain.

Altho' it idle be and vain,
Yet cannot I the wish restrain
That I had held them evermore!
The sweet, sad years!

Like echo of an old refrain
That long within the mind has lain,
I keep repeating o'er and o'er
Nothing can e'er the past restore,
Nothing bring back the years again,
The sweet, sad years.

An Illegal Act.

That one of the first acts of the present administration was illegal is shown by the Auditor-General's report. The Government took office on July 13th. Four days afterwards, on July 17th, it appointed Hon. Matthew Aylmer Adjutant-General, the appointment to date from January 1st, 1896. A cheque was issued in favor of Lieut. Col. Aylmer for $200, being the difference in pay of an adjutant-general and assistant adjutant for six months. It is not unusual to ante-date military appointments, but not with a salary officer. The Auditor-General reported that the proposed payment was an illegal one. The Department replied that the fact that the expenditure was authorized by order-in-Council was sufficient answer to the objection, and that there was no reason for withholding the credit. Mr. McDougall, however, declined to sanction the payment until he had been assured it would not be made until the Treasury Board had approved. Lt. Col. Aylmer, while assistant, acted as Adjutant-General during the time for which the cheque was drawn, and perhaps, in fairness, ought to be paid the difference between his salary as deputy and chief. But the effort to do this by an illegal method is quite another matter.

Fast Atlantic Service.

The fast Atlantic service negotiations have assumed a new phase, and the scene of operations has been shifted from Ottawa to Great Britain, where the first arrangements between Mr. Peterson's firm and the Government, represented by Hon. Mr. Doherty, who has accompanied Mr. Peterson to England, and who, the Government organ at Ottawa, the Free Press, says "could be better spared at the present time than any of the other Ministers." The Ottawa Free Press says: "Hon. Mr. Doherty has left for the old country to carry out further arrangements for the fast line service between Canada and Great Britain. He is accompanied by Mr. Peterson, the representative of the English company whose offer has been so favorably considered by the Canadian Government. Mr. Peterson is but one of a strong syndicate of English capitalists who have already large shipping interests in Canada. If the bargain is concluded on the terms which they submitted, and there is every reason to believe that it is just what will be done, the company are prepared to lose no time in inaugurating the service on lines which will be fully up to the requirements of the present day. The $500,000 subsidy which they have consented to take, instead of $750,000 demanded by the Allans, will have to pass Parliament, and the details will then be fully gone into.

THE OWL CAME BACK.

The Question He Asked the Man Who Thought He Was Dead.

"De biggest owl er do-senon," said Uncle Moses as he held the saucer eyed bird to the gaze of the interested spectators. "Hit's de very one dat's been a-killin er my chickens ever sence de war, but he won't kill no mo', I bet you! I ketcher him in de very ac'—des a-makin fer my big rooster—en I rolled him over en put a end ter him with dis lightard knot!"

It was certainly a monster owl, measuring fully 4 feet from tip to tip, and Uncle Moses' black neighbors felt that they had at last triumphed over a mutual enemy. "I gwine ter take him home," explained Uncle Moses, "en skin him en stuff him en put him on de mantelpiece for good en all—dat's what I gwine do wid him! Oh, yes," he said, addressing the slain victim as he let it fall at his feet, "you's had yo' day wid my chickens, you has. You likes chicken meat, don't you? Hit's mighty tender, ain't it? Couse it is! But you ain't gwine ter git no mo' of it—dat you ain't!"

And, so saying, Uncle Moses bore the bird in triumph to his cabin. "I'll des lay you down heah by de foot er de bed," he said, still addressing the owl, "till after supper, en den I'll skin you alive."

He went out and attended to various duties about the farm, and it was late when he returned.

"I reckon," he said, "I'll leave de skinnin en stuffin er dat owl till mawin, kase I'm all tired out."

Then he dispatched his supper and retired for the night.

He never knew what time it was, and, indeed, he never stopped to inquire, but certain it was that he was suddenly and rudely aroused from his dreams by the loud hooting of an owl, so close to him that it almost deafened him.

He sat bolt upright in the bed. "Who—who—is you-o-o?" rang through the room again. He stared about him, when, lo, perched on the foot of the bed was the owl he had left for dead.

"Who—who—is you-o-o?" came once more from the throat of the terrible bird.

There was no doubt about it. It was impossible that eyes and ears could deceive him. There was the bird flush with life, the wide eyes glaring at him like globes of fire. He sprang from the bed, shrieking: "O Lawd, have nussy! Help me ter git out er heah, good Lawd! O Master, help me ter see daylight once mo'—des one mo' time!"

A few neighbors who were up late saw a white robed figure speeding through the night, and terrified sought their cabins, crying, "Oh, Lawd, judgment come, en de dead raise up!"

Uncle Moses never returned to his domicile. "De debbil wuz in dat owl!" he said afterward, "and I des give him a dead ter de whole place."—Chicago Times-Herald.
