Amusement Credited For Quiet Halloween

SOURIS - One of the quietest Halloween nights on record was reported at Souris and surrounding districts of Eastern Kings Saturday night. Helping to keep Halloween vandalism at a minimum were the masquerade dance at the fire hall sponsored by St. Mary's Parish Hall, constant patrolling by the RCMP, and the inclement weather. Among the few instances of vandalism in the town was a half-dozn soft drink signs and the United Fund thermometer in front of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce was also knocked down.

After over 60 years, members of a clan from opposite corners of the globe were united here during the weekend. Dr. H. S. Swan of Auckland, New Zealand, en route to Vancouver as part of a three-month trek around the world, met with members of the Dewar clan throughout the Island yesterday.

DR. H. S. SWAN

He was the first member of the New Zealand branch of the family to do so since his grandfather's visit in 1863. Among highlights of Dr. Swan's stopover here were a family reunion at the Dewar clan throughout the Island yesterday.

Dr. Swan, whose curiosity about his grandfather's birthplace was stimulated by family history told by his 86-year-old mother, the last surviving member of Alexander Dewar's family, arrived here Friday evening. VISITS ISLAND DEWAR'S The first member of the clan he contacted here was Lincoln Dewar, vice president and secretary of the P.E.I. Federation of Agriculture. Dr. Dewar arranged meetings with other Dewars throughout the Island, and a tour of the Europe and North America, also visited the Rehabilitation Centre here. He leaves today for Vancouver, and from there will call at San Francisco and Hawaii before returning to New Zealand.

NORTH RIVER STEERS ARE CHAMPS

Prince Edward Islanders have been doing exceptionally well at the various competitions at the Atlantic Winter Fair in Halifax, this week. Shown above are Fulton Sanderson and Johnny Sanderson of North River with their champion yearling steers. The two steers gathered a total of $2,691 for the father and son Sanderson team. Fulton's steer weighed 379 pounds and Johnny's weighed 360 lbs. This was the age of the Charlottetown Steer Show.

Hallowe'en Driver Damages Three Cars

MONTAQUE - Hallowe'en damage at Montaque Sunday night was considered to be of a minor nature. The usual taking down of signs, turning over side walks, and the letting of air from tires was all that could possibly be blamed on the young gobblers. Town policemen said that the police are investigating a tow and received numerous truis. These treats seemed to be mostly apples, bars, potato chips and candy.

Murray Hbr. Native Dies In Mass.

MURRAY HARBOR - Word news been received by relatives here of the death recently of Clifford Bell, Arlington, Mass. Mr. Bell was born in Murray Harbor February 25, 1880, to the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bell, Murray Harbor. Besides his wife, the former Zea Jackson, formerly of Beach Point, P.E.I., he leaves to mourn three sons, Robert, Jackie, and George all residing in the U.S.A., a son William, predeceased him.

Home Damaged By Fire, Water At Five Houses

ST. PETERS - Fire early Saturday evening resulted in an extensive fire and water damage to the home of Mrs. Frank Macdonald at Five Houses on the Fortune Road. The fire is reported to have been discovered at about 6:30 p.m. by Mrs. Macdonald and her son, who were asleep in their beds. Preliminary investigation revealed that the fire broke out in the kitchen around the fire stove. Mrs. Macdonald with the aid of her other three sons, who live across the road, managed to remove all furniture and effects.

Jaycees Study Small Business Night Courses

The organization of small business night courses, proposed at a recent dinner meeting of the Charlottetown Junior Chamber of Commerce by Ronald Storey, is being studied by the club. The group presented a gift to Frank Pellerin, retiring manager of the Charlottetown Steer Show.

ISLANDER TO BE HONORED

Rev. Dr. Cuthbert A. Simpson, a native of P.E.I., will be one of four Maritimers to receive honorary degrees at the convocation of the University of King's College, Halifax, N.S., on Nov. 20. Dr. Simpson is pastor of Christ Church in Oxford, England, and a well-known speaker. He is also past president of the International Society for Old Testament Study.

that the Island has a team in it. The Souris East boys will be pulling on Friday night. It will be something new for them as the pulls here call for the last man to be pulled across the starting line before a victor is declared. On the Island we pull six, eight, and that's that.

Accused Remanded For Forgery

On a charge of forgery, Earl Joseph Campbell Charlottetown, was remanded until Nov. 2 by Magistrate A.J. Haslam, QC, in city police court Saturday morning. A charge of forgery against the accused was withdrawn.

ISLAND

One MacMillan cow I'm watching closely is MacDon Dewar Pansy. And that name takes me back to Mad's Pansy, one of the best cows the late Edna and Match, North River ever bred, and he was the top breeder and showman in the Maritimes for many years. On top of that he had two grand male champions at the Royal in a many years, in 1953 and 1964, a precedent for a private breeder.

George's cow is a direct descendant of the original Pansy who was a daughter of Dreamers' Maid, an equally prominent show cow of the late 1940s and early 50s.

Irving Macdonald, York, took the major winnings in Angus cattle here a year ago and Boyd Dixon, Clyde River was runner-up. Both are back this year along with Leo Melnick, a strong competitor in 1963 and several newer entrants.

There are several results from the weekend's poultry. Frank Costello, Charlottetown was first in the foundation around the English Black, and was third for females on same breed. Mr. Costello has first and second entries in the English male, any other variety. He had first and second in the female of the same breed.

Irving Boswell, Marshfield placed second with a Toulouse pander and first with a Toulouse goose.

A banquet for 4-H members from the Maritimes Province will be held at the Charlottetown Hotel Saturday when prizes were awarded for livestock judging.

One of the winners was Diane Laughlin, of Prince County, Prince Edward Island, who took top honors in sheep judging. The winning team came from Cumberland County, N.S. Holstein, Jersey, Angus and dual purpose Shorthorn cattle were shown here today and Tuesday. The rest of the cattle including Ayrshires, Guernseys, Scotch Shorthorns and Herefords will be shown on Thursday and Friday.

Key Contests Viewed In U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) - The spotlight is on the presidential race in Tuesday's U.S. election, but across the country there are a number of key contests for governor and senator. In many cases, they are intertwined with the presidential race. In brief, they are:

Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus seeks an unprecedented sixth straight two-year term. Winthrop Rockefeller, brother of New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, is making a determined bid to become his adopted state's first Republican governor in a century.

Illinois Governor Otto Kerner, a Democrat, seeks a second term. Charles H. Percy, fresh from a successful business career, has been campaigning since July 1963. A victory could push him into the future Republican presidential picture. Percy has endorsed and campaigned for Goldwater.

Michigan Republican Governor George Romney is shooting for a second term on the claim that his administration helped improve the state's economy and financial picture. Representative Neil Slaughter, the state's Democratic congressman - at large, contends the improved economy is due to a better national economy.

Even though Romney has repeatedly refused to endorse Goldwater, Slaughter has tried to link the governor and the presidential nominee. Key to the race could be whether many of those who vote for President Johnson - who is favored to win in Michigan - will switch to Romney.

New York Vote-switching also is expected to be a factor in New York's Senate election between Republican incumbent Kenneth B. Keating and former attorney-general Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the late president.

Kennedy has drawn large and often emotional crowds since plunging into the campaign in a state which he hasn't lived in since childhood. Keating has been hammering on this "carpetbagging" issue.

Some Democrats have said they'll vote for Keating because of his liberal record and refusal to endorse Senator Goldwater.

Ohio Representative Robert Taft Jr. is challenging Democratic Senator Stephen M. Young's bid for a second term at the age of 75. Taft, 47-year-old son of the late Senator Taft, is making his move after one year in congress - at large and several years in the Ohio legislature. A victory could well launch him on a later try for the presidential nomination which eluded his father.

Young, a staunch supporter of the Kennedy-Johnson administration, has sought votes by seeking linkages with Goldwater. Taft has endorsed the Republican nominee and campaigned for him, but has pointed to differences in issues, notably civil rights.

Oklahoma This is the first big game for Bud Wilkinson since he quit a successful career as football coach to plunge into Republican politics. The Republican nominee is a 41-year-old young state Senator Fred Harris for the two remaining years of the term of the late Democratic Senator Robert S. Kerr.

Each man strongly supports his party's presidential nominee.
