

Agricultural.

Haying.—This important work will soon be upon us? In fact the old fields, with their June grass already in blossom, are now in the best condition to be cut. More grass is injured by standing too long than by being cut too soon. Use a mowing machine whenever you can, for it saves a great amount of hard labor. Men are so scarce in haying time that it is of the highest importance that every hour's work should be saved that can be. See all your haying tools are in the best of order, and when you begin haying drive the work along as fast as possible in fine weather.

Witch Grass.—This is a great pest to the farmer and gardener, and it should not be tolerated. It is difficult to get rid of it after it has once obtained entire possession of a field, and can only be done with great pains and expense. When it has made its appearance in patches in the garden, the best way is to dig it out with a fork, rake up the roots, and take them away. If in a field suitable for cabbages or potatoes, manure heavily, and plant them rather near together, so that the crop will cover and shade the entire ground, and most of the witch grass will be killed out the first year. Where this cannot or has not been done, let it lie fallow through the summer, occasionally running the cultivator over it, and ploughing and harrowing it in hot, dry weather, and in this way drag out the roots to be killed by the sun. It is a nuisance and should be abated.

Feeding Horses.—At this season of the year it is very important to look well after the health of your horses. Many horses are allowed to gorge themselves with grass, and then, if driven, especially in a hot day, will suffer and sometimes die from the effects. The horse is very fond of new grass and new hay, but if he is required to work constantly he should be allowed to eat but sparingly of it. Feed with old hay as long as you can get it, or certainly until the new crop has got well cured, so that it will not scour or otherwise effect the horse unfavorably. Feed regularly, and keep the stall and feed-trough clean and sweet.

Animals.—Cows at pasture must not lack pure and fresh water—stagnant pools are a poor source of supply. No stock ought to be forced to drink from them, and, at least of all, milch cows. Calves are better pastured by themselves than with other stock. Young horses often get the bad habit of running after, and striking them, if they feed together. An old horse will take care of himself among cows, but colts, of one or two years old, are heedless, and, if pastured with cattle, may be hurt by their horns, without any real malice on the part of the cows. Working stock should not lie over night in the pasture. It is very well for them to have a few hours, in which to graze, during some of the day, but both cattle and horses work better on good hay, and some provender, corn and oats, rye-shorts, and the like. The amount of feed may be graduated in accordance with the average amount of work required, but it should be uniform. All animals, not at pasture, should have some green feed—perhaps one-third of all they eat. This should be cut, wilted, and brought to the yard or stables for them, and be ready when the day's work is done.

Weeds.—Suffer none to go to seed, is easily written, but very hard to carry out. Still, the nearer we can live up to this injunction, the easier will it be to carry it out, year after year. Many weeds, pulled or cut up in blossom, will ripen seed while dying, but few, the seeds of which are not fully mature, will survive the hog pen, in root or seed. It is never too late to pull weeds in mowing. Canada thistles, cut a few times below the surface, will disappear. Carrots are biennial, and, perhaps, in a few cases, will live a third year, if they cannot blossom the second; and we have strong faith, though not positive assurance, that the seeds will not germinate after the third year. So, two years' cultivation will almost always clean them out.

Grain Harvesting.—Barley should become nearly ripe before it is cut, and it ought to be bound and shocked the same day, and protected from dews and rains as much as possible. Thus the brightest and most marketable grain is obtained. Oats ripen so unevenly that it is often best to cut them while many are hardly out of the milk, to save those that are getting too ripe. The best time is when the kernel is in the dough state. What is lost by early cutting, in the grain, is gained in the straw. Wheat ought to get nearly ripe, according to the latest doctrine, to give the greatest weight of grain and the best quality. The happy medium between sufficient ripeness and liability to shell out is the point to be sought in determining when to cut. The older and perhaps safer theory, favored cutting while the grain was in the dough. Make all preparations early, engage extra hands to be ready to cut, and harvest at the right time; have sharp and good tools.

Turnips after corn.—With the last hoeing of corn, if the soil be tolerably deep, and the culture flat, turnip seed may be sown and hoed in lightly. (A potato hook, or "claw hoe," is the best thing to hoe corn with, especially the last time, if there are not many weeds to cut up. It leaves the surface in excellent shape.) The corn is cut up and removed when the kernels are glazed, and the turnips often make a good crop, having six weeks to grow.

Sheep are distressed by the gad-fly this month and next, and should be protected by tarring their noses. Daub the tar on their noses, extending up, where they will not rub of in feeding. The fly lays eggs in the nostrils, which hatch, and the worms ascending, cause the "grub in the head."

Hogs.—Provide swine with roomy pens to work over all the litter and weeds that can be gathered, besides sods, muck etc. The amount of excellent manure made is enormous.

Miscellaneous.

THE ART OF BEING POLITE.—First and foremost, don't try to be polite. It will spoil all. If you keep overwhelming your guests with ostentatious attentions to make themselves at home, they will very soon wish they were there. Let them find out that you are happy to see them by your actions, not by your words.

Always remember to let bashful people alone at first. It is the only way to set them at their ease. Trying to draw them out, has sometimes the contrary effect of driving them out—of the house. Leading the conversation is a dangerous experiment. Better follow in its wake, and if you want to endear yourself to talkers, learn to listen well. Never make a fuss about anything—never talk about yourself, and always preserve composure, no matter what solacisms or blunders others may commit. Remember that it is a very foolish proceeding to lament that you cannot offer to your guests a better house, furniture or viands. It is fair to presume that the visit is to you—not to these surroundings. Give people a pleasant impression of themselves, and they will be pretty sure to go away with a pleasant impression of your qualities. On just such slender wheels as these the whole fabric turns. It is our business to keep them in perfect revolving order.—Life Illustrated.

ONE STITCH AND THEN ANOTHER.—A lady called at a house, and saw a little girl sitting by her mother, knitting.

"What are you knitting, Bessie?" asked the lady. "A stocking for me," said Bessie. "A stocking!" cried the lady; "how do you expect to knit a stocking?" "O," said Bessie, "by just taking one stitch and then another."

Much good is done by patient, quiet doing, day by day. One brick upon another, and the highest house is made; One flake upon another, and the deepest snow is laid.

A well known doctor, who has a literary as well as a professional reputation, recently complained to his publisher that the printers made horrible work with his manuscript. "Ah, Doctor," replied the publisher, who is noted for his wit, "You Doctors have a great advantage over the poor printers. All their faults are exposed to the eye, but those committed by you are buried with the patient."

Present to an ordinary man the maxim, "Love your enemies;" you may hear him sigh as he answers that the saying is divine; and he fears that he will never practice it. The reason is that he has an enemy and fully understands what it is to love him, and also what it is to hate him.—Ecco Home.

Happy are they who have a lyre in the heart, and in the mind a music which their actions execute! How many people make themselves abstract to appear profound! The greatest part of abstract terms are shadows that hide a vacuum.

Almost every man wastes part of his life in attempts to display qualities which he does not possess, and to gain applause which he cannot keep. Nature has made two kinds of excellent minds: the one to produce beautiful thoughts and beautiful actions, the other to admire them.

Instead of complaining that the rose has thorns, I congratulate myself that the thorn is surmounted by roses, and that the bush bears flowers.—Anon.

A HINDOO PROVERB.—A thrifty father may have an extravagant son; but a diligent father rarely has an idle son.

A GOOD MAN'S FAULTS.—"If the best man's faults were written on his forehead, it would make him pull his hat over his eyes."

DOCTOR. "Well, Madam, how's your husband to-day?" WIFE. "Why, Doctor, he seems no better."

DOCTOR. "Did you get the leeches?" WIFE. "Yes; but he only took three of them raw; I had to fry the rest."

An Irishman, carrying a heavy burden upon his shoulders, was riding on the front of a Boston horse car, and was asked why he did not set his load upon the platform. "Be japers," was his reply, "the horses have enough to do to haul me; I'll carry the bundle."

A green 'un who had never before seen a steamboat, fell through the hatchway down into the hold of the Winfield Scott, and being unhurt, loudly expressed his surprise: "Well, if the darned thing aint holler!"

The following toast was given at a printer's supper: "The Printer—independent as a wood-sawyer's clerk, proud as Lucifer, poor as Job's turkey, and the personification of intelligence."

At an agricultural dinner the following toast was given: "The game of fortune; shuffle the cards as you will, spades must win."

"How well he plays for one so young," said Mrs. Partington, as the organ-boy performed with a monkey at her door; "and how much his little brother looks like him, to be sure!"

MRS. WINSLOW, An experienced Nurse and Female Physician, presents to the attention of mothers, her SOOTHING SYRUP, FOR CHILDREN TEETHING.

which greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—will allay all pain and spasmodic action, and is SURE TO REGULATE THE BOWELS

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and Relief and Health to your Infants.

We have put up and sold this article for over thirty years, and can say, in confidence and truth of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—never has it failed in a single instance, to effect a cure, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this manner "what we do know," after thirty years' experience, and pledge our reputation for the fulfillment of what we here declare. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skillful nurses in New England, and has been used with never failing success in thousands of cases. It not only relieves the child from pain but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve GRIPING IN THE BOWELS, AND WIND COLIC, and overcome convulsions, which, if not speedily remedied, end in death. We believe it the best and surest remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhea in Children, whether it arises from teething, or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—do not let your prejudices, nor the prejudices of others, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be sure—yes, absolutely sure—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None Genuine unless the face-smile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.

Sold by Druggists throughout the world. Principal Office, No. 48 Dey Street, N. Y. Price, only 35 Cents per Bottle.

New Triumphs of Roger's Medicines. Run your eye over them and tell your afflicted neighbor about it.

PARRSBOROUGH, CUMBERLAND CO., June 22, 1863. MESSRS. ROGERS & Co.:

Gentlemen—I hereby certify that about twelve years ago, a small lump began to grow on my breast, and continued growing until 1859. It attained the size of a small hen's egg, and began to ulcerate, causing great pain, and reducing my body to a mere skeleton, rendering me altogether unable to do my work. I applied to the two resident doctors at Pugwash (where I then resided), both of whom recommended a surgical operation. Feeling reluctant to undergo the suffering of such an operation, I applied to a man who called himself an Herb Doctor. I used his plasters until I became satisfied that they were of no use to me. I then applied to and procured some of your medicine to take inwardly. After a few months trial, I began to get better, and the ulcer on my breast commenced healing so fast that in seven months from the time I commenced using your Ointment and medicine, I was enabled to attend to my ordinary occupation; and now I am happy to say I am healthy and well. I have no hesitation in saying that, under God, I owe my present state of health to your treatment. If this simple statement will be of any service to you, you are at liberty to make it public, as every word of it can be vouched for by those who know how I suffered. I remain your much obliged servant,

ANGUS MCGILVERIE, Master Shipwright, WALLACE RIVER, Cumberland Co., May 20, 1863.

Messrs. ROGERS & Co. I feel it a duty I owe to you, and to suffering humanity, to state that your medicine has effected a cure of a very severe case of Cancer in the breast of my wife. The cancer began to appear about five years ago, and continued to grow slowly, and during last January it began to grow very rapidly, with darting pains through it. We concluded to try your medicine, and in a few days pain subsided and it began to improve. This was about the first of last February that I am happy to say that she is entire. After using your medicine a few days the cancer ulcerated, and it continued to improve until it was cured. You ought certainly to make your medicine known to the public.

W. I. ALGIVINE, Pugwash, June 8, 1863.
