SLIM OR SWIRLING

Today, we declare an exciting fashion dividend—two silhouettes in one couture pattern, and both by that master shape-maker ESTEVEZ. Take the slim and narrow path to spring allure — or follow the rounded curves of his wide-and-wonderful skirt. If you can't make up your mind, make both dresses. A dramatic play of color contrasts in the Originals points up the striking seaming of the bodice. Choose pique, shantung, silk faille, or linen — and prepare to turn all heads your way wherever you go in your exclusive Estevez.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Imagination Holds Sway As Closets Are Explored

"Will this be an early cropping?" we overhead a visiting farmer query of James today.

"By the signs, we might think so," he replied. "The roads are remarkably dry for the time of year and the fields are firming."

The visitor nodded. "Did you ever see better roads!".

"No, not that I can recall. Strange too, after so much frost . . .But we'll get delaying weather yet", James smiled.

"We can't hurry things", the other farmer offered.

"Nor would we want to—not with so much chioring these times", James said. "We needn't worry however. It will come, all in good time."

"Make it a boiled dinner today, Ellen" he suggested this morning appetite a little fanciful from the less active existence he suffers these days. So, in with the piece of beef in time and turn went vegetables of Jeanie's gardening: the carrots and turnip, the parsnip and onion, the cabbage and potato, all of which contributed to a nutritious and flavorful meal. And after it was over and the dishes washed and put away, we went with Granddaughter to tidy the far upstairs closet, which with "open" rafters runs the length of the spareroom there.

"This is quite as interesting as an attic, isn't it?" she commented with a near-thirteen smile helping us turn out its contents to be dusted and reset.

What quaint articles that closet disclosed, relics, souvenirs of the bygone years. Grand-daughter giggled as she held up old black gowns tucked and pleated and lengthy.

"Now who would wear the like of that?" she exclaimed of a once-modish dress.

Other items were there, among them a heavy runged wooden bed.

"Now I wonder" she quieried, "who slept on that?"

"Dear knows," we replied, "Probably Tecumseh" we laughed.

"Now don't be silly" she commented. "You should know your history better than that!"

An interruption to our tidying appeared in mid-afternoon when Mack called up the gentle rise of stair to inquire "Where are those molasses cookies?" when he and (cousin) Gage would seek to stay until suppertime young stomachs a-hunger from some boyish pastime out about.

The day has fled. The week too come up to that pause which brings Sunday's rest. It has been an encouraging week at Alderlea. It finds James bettering of his fall, and looking now to return presently to his round of work again.

"Whatever you are doing" one says in Old Writ, "Let your hearts be in your work, as a thing done for the Lord." In a comforting couplet another says of our spiritual round, emphasized through it may be on our Day of Worship, "Whoso draws near to God one step through doubting dim; God will advance a mile in blazing light to him."

Until Monday — — — Diary, Good-night.

MARKS VISIT

A new five-cent stamp, dark red in color, will be issued by the post office department in honour of the visit of the Queen and Prince Philip this summer. The design of the stamp includes a likeness of the Queen taken from the well-known painting by Italy's Pietro Anniboni. The stamp will go on sale June 18th, the day the Royal Couple arrives at Torbay, Newfoundland, for their Canadian visit. (CP Photo)

MEADOW BANK W. II.

The ladies of Meadow Bank W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Pearl Scott on the regular date. The Mary Stewart collect repeated in unison opened the meeting.

The roll call was answered with waist measure in pennies, brought fourth humor and also added to the funds. Minutes were read, followed by a report of card party which showed a goodly sum realized.

Owing to illness among members the banquet which was to be held, was postponed until a later date.

The committee reported on plans made for same. Several items of correspondence were received and each was dealt with as the members saw fit. The sum of $3.00 was voted to send a delegate to the conference in Edinburgh, Scotland, also $1.00 towards the Home Economics Scholarship fund.

The sick committee was active during the month, attending to their duties, they visited our Honourary member, at the Easter Season, and left a pot of tulips, which Mrs. Hyde gratefully acknowledged. They also sent a gift to a polio victim, and forwarded bills covering those purchases. Red Cross convenor received several articles of sewing completed since last meeting.

Mrs. R. Crosby and Mrs. P. Scott were heard in readings, also a demonstration of Swiss embroidery. Institute News were distributed among the members

Mrs. Elmer Frizzell, schoolteacher of the district kindly invited members to her home for May meeting. Mrs. Stewart Miller and Mrs. Dingwell MacFadyen will serve refreshments. Roll call will be an exchange of flower slips.

An interesting paper on Home Economics by Mrs. P. A. Cutcliffe was read by Mrs. Charles Hyde. On motion the meeting was adjourned and lunch was served by committee in charge.

LONG RIVER Y.P.U.

CANOE COVE W. I.

Due to the April meeting of Canoe Cove W.I. being postponed to Wednesday, April 8, there was a greater than usual amount of business.

The president, Mrs. Dougall MacLean presided, and opened the meeting with the Creed. Roll call was answered by nine regular and one new member, with articles for bazaar and $1.22. One member paid dues. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. School committee reported nothing needed. Sick committee reported treat given to child then at polio clinic. Card committee reported two sympathy cards send. Correspondence was read - or circulated regarding Rural Beautification, Scale of Salaries for Teachers for 1958-59, Patterns, A.C.W.W. Conference, Handicraft Van Red Cross Report, Easter Seal Campaign and Home Economics Questionnaire.

The local Blood Donor Clinic Chairman, Mrs. John MacCannell, reported that there would be a Blood Donor Clinic at Canoe Cove Hall in August and it is hoped that all in this area will keep this in mind and plan to attend the clinic in their own area and so make sure the quota will be attained if not exceeded.

It was moved and seconded that we give $1.00 for Home Economics scholarship, and also $1.00 for Easter Seals. It was decided the season was too busy to have Handicraft Van in May. It was also decided to buy an enamel kettle. Bills were presented and paid. $3.75 was taken in for remnants.

Next meeting at school. Roll call to be answered with a sympathy or get-well card. Meeting closed by singing God Save the Queen.

HIGHFIELD W. M. S.

The Highfield W. M. S. held its April meeting at the home of Mrs. Lea Toombs. Mrs. W. B. Creed took her theme from the Missionary Monthly.

The Scripture reading was taken from Micah, 4th. Chapter verses 1-7 followed by the Hymn Behold the Mountain of the Lord," and prayer by Mrs. Creed. Each member read a passage of Scripture in conjunction with the theme. This period was closed with a hymn.

Roll call was answered by five members and three visitors. Friendship Secretary reported 16 Easter Cards, two get-well and four sympathy cards sent. There were sixteen home calls made.

Two delegates were appointed to attend the Presbyterial meeting in Heartz memorial hall, April 25th.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Stillman Frizzell. The word for the verse will be Kingdom. Devotional leader, Mrs. Frizzell.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

IT WAS ALL MY IDEA!

"I had seen Guardian-Patriot Want Ads work before. At the office we had used them time and again to find competent help . . . and with good results, too. And then there was Bill Dixon. Bill not only sold his car through a Guardian-Patriot Want Ad, but got the very price he wanted . . . What's more, he picked up a beautiful lathe through the 'For Sale' columns a short time later.

"That's why I recommended using a Guardian-Patriot Want Ad when Mary suggested we part with our old furniture to make room for a new set. Mary agreed and when the ad appeared we were swamped with calls. As a matter of fact, we sold the furniture immediately and the cash we received came in mighty handy in paying for the new set.

"Believe me, Mary is sure sold on Guardian-Patriot Want Ads."

be sure you use GUARDIAN-PATRIOT WANT ADS

. . . the Island's TOTAL SELLING Medium

Whether it's finding help, selling spare articles, renting rooms, or any of a thousand and one jobs, you'll get quick satisfactory results when you put Guardian-Patriot Want Ads to work. That's because Guardian-Patriot Want reach such a tremendous audience and are so thoroughly read day after day that they pay off regularly when put on the job.
