All-Out Drive To Save The Pound Sterling

LONDON, Jan. 22 - (CP) - The countries of the British Commonwealth which deal in sterling pledged Sunday night to cut their gold trade flows by late this year in an all-out drive to save the pound sterling. A statement issued after a week-long conference announced that the commonwealth partners agreed to spend less, earn more and work harder to give back to sterling the strength it needs to continue as a widely-used currency.

Canada, as a dollar country, was the only member which didn't make the pledge. She was represented by Finance Minister Abbott. Decisions reached by the Commonwealth finance ministers conference were outlined in general terms because in most cases budgetary action will be needed to implement them. Nevertheless, there were signs that the sterling area partners were ready to put their 500,000,000 citizens on austerly ration if necessary to get their money system back into the black.

Outlining longer-term measures designed to prevent future crises, the ministers promised to work progressively towards their "definite objective to make sterling convertible." If that goal is reached it would mean sterling would be so strong and stable that other countries would want it as much as they today want American dollars and Swiss francs. The sterling area partners moreover would be in a position freely to swap money for any other foreign monies because they would have gold and dollar reserves big enough to meet any demands.

Nine countries took part in the talks. They were Britain, Australia, New Zealand, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, South Africa, Canada and South Rhodesia.

E. A. Butler, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, who presided over the conference, told a press conference the talks gave "a new lease of life to the sterling area."
