THREE RING CIRCUS IN VISTAVISION HALLED AS MARTIN AND LEWIS' BEST

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, during their amazing film careers, have unleashed their unbridled brand of buffoonery on golf courses, while on a spree in New York, at the race track, in the Army, the Navy, and while cavorting through some haunted houses. In each of these fun-loaded packages of celluloid joy, Dean and Jerry made frontal assaults at the funny bones, sang some lulling songs, kissed a bevy of beautiful girls and generally left strewn in their path millions of completely satisfied theatre patrons. Now advance notices have it that "you ain't seen nothin' yet." The two invaders of the best entertainment this side of heaven have moved on to the big top for their new Paramount Vista Vision film in Technicolor, "Three Ring Circus," which is due to open Monday at the Prince Edward Theatre.

Heralded as the team's best picture yet, "Three Ring Circus," has them as two ex-GIs who decide to make their future by working for a circus. It is Jerry's ambition to become a clown. How he accomplishes this lofty position in the circus and how Dean's usual romantic entanglements are finally solved make up the crux of the enticing story.

Supporting them in these engaging enterprises is a large cast headed by lovely Joanne Dru, the stunning Zsa Zsa Gabor, Elsa Lancaster and Sig Ruman. "Three Ring Circus" was produced by Hal Wallis, one of Hollywood's most outstanding craftsmen, and it was directed by Joseph Pevney. This latest Martin and Lewis fun fest is eagerly awaited.

Returns from many districts show increases over last year and notable among these are Kensington where $394.59 was collected by a committee again headed by Mr. Ivan Darrach, and Souris where $380.70 was raised by the Junior Ladies' Aid of the Souris Hospital, as well as Montague where the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion collected $395.65.
