THE DAILY EXAMINER.

FEBRUARY 25, 1896.

THE CREAMERY AND COLD STORAGE.

It is a pleasant sight, in these last days of February, to see tons of fresh milk running in a stream into our Central Creamery, passing into a vat in which it is instantly warmed by the steam, thence running into the separator, by which the butter fat is abstracted, and thence through pipes back to the cans in the farmers' sleighs. Given encouragement and facilities, our farmers are, it is evident, willing to co-operate and to do their part.

But the want of a creamery station, having good drainage and thorough ventilation, is more and more felt. This ought to be supplied in connection with the proposed cold storage warerooms. We hope that action will, without further delay, be taken towards the supply of this felt want. If we had sufficient storage room, we should be able to ship cheese, butter, pork and other products direct, and thus avoid those delays in payment of which complaint is now being made by some persons.

THE DRESSED MEAT TRADE.

Professor Robertson explained fully to the Committee on Agriculture, a few days ago, the details of his scheme in respect to dressed meat for the English market. He said it was proposed to ask Parliament for an appropriation of $300,000 to permit the scheme being carried out. The intention is to purchase weekly an average of 500 head of cattle at Montreal, where they will be killed, dressed, chilled, put up in attractive wrappers and shipped to depots in Great Britain. In about ten weeks' time, the returns from the first shipment will come in. The proposed vote of $300,000 will, he assured the Committee, all be returned to the Government as the business progresses. He said that he hoped in winter time that the trade would be continued from St. John and Halifax. The members of the Committee were, it is reported, greatly taken with Professor Robertson's proposals and unanimously endorsed them. It was decided to print 150,000 copies of his evidence to circulate among farmers.

THE COAL TRADE.

In the course of his speech on the Budget, Mr. McDougall, M. P., pointed out that the trade of the Maritime Provinces with Western Canada amounted to only $2,000,000 at the time of Confederation, while last year the east and west-bound trade of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island was $60,000,000. Taking up the coal trade, he showed the wonderful benefit the N. P. had been to the miners of Nova Scotia. Before the inception of the N. P. coal market, Nova Scotia practically had no home market. Under reciprocity the exports to the United States increased to 500,000 tons, but in 1867, when the United States put on a duty of $1.25 a ton, this fell off to 15,000 tons. When the United States reduced the duty to 75 cents per ton, the United States mines had been so developed that Canadian coal could not regain the market. The coal trade was in this condition when Sir Charles Tupper outlined the policy of protection for coal. The miners were in such poor circumstances then that government aid had to be extended to them. That was the last time the miners had to ask for assistance. Through the National Policy they now have homes and money and live as well and comfortably as any other class in the land. In 1878 the production of coal in all Nova Scotia was but 770,000 tons, while in 1894 it was 2,109,000 tons. Quebec, which in 1877 took only 33,710 tons, took 877,000 in 1894. This great development has been of incalculable benefit to P. E Island as well as to Cape Breton; for we have, as a result, very largely increased our shipments of farm products to our neighbor Island. Mr. McDougall was, without doubt, right in his contention that the development of interprovincial trade is a justification of the N. P. and of every dollar expended in obtaining means of transport and communication.

REV. D. J. MACDONNELL.

The Presbyterian Church of Canada, as well as the Presbytery of Toronto, has suffered a very heavy loss by the death of this gifted clergyman. Of him it was that a writer in The Week a few weeks ago, quoted the following:—

"If you were to idealize a clergyman none would come nearer to your ideal than Rev. D. J. McDonnell, B. D. The elements so requisite in a minister of the gospel, and yet so rarely combined in one man are possessed by him in an eminent degree. Ministers there are even in the narrower circle of his own denomination who are more scholarly, greater pulpit orators, more famous evangelists, but there are few, if any, in his own or in the sister churches who have drawn so deeply from all the sources open to the human mind in preparing for the high duties of the Christian ministry. He has been endowed with mental faculties of the highest order, and had he turned his mind to one or two special subjects he would have easily stepped into the front rank. But he had chosen his life work early, and was wise enough to know wherein the great strength of his profession lies. Of a most tender and sympathetic nature he turned his gifts into the field of the pastorate, and it has been there, in ministering unto the sick, in comforting the distressed, in relieving the needy, in guiding the young and counselling the old, in breaking Scripture truth to give each one his and her portion of daily spiritual bread, in moulding a high and patriotic and unselfish character the reflection of his own pure soul—it has been in such noble work that his aspirations have had their fulfilment and his ambition its reward, the devotion and devotedness of his daily life he brought with him into the pulpit and re-imparted them to his people in his sermons, which were models of practical thought and persuasiveness of style. He aimed not at distinction as a preacher, but his native genius he could not suppress, and often there rang out bursts of eloquence chastened by a holy earnestness which nothing could resist. His characteristic as a preacher has been the appropriateness of everything he said and did. He always rose to the occasion, said what seemed to all to be exactly what was necesssary and no more or less. He stands to-day one of the most faithful and outspoken of pastors, yet with a heart so large that failings and failures in profession and practice bring more sorrow than rebuke from its depths. As a public man he has few peers. A patriot born, with strong national feeling, and that love for home and country derived from his Celtic race, he has been ever ready to stand in the breach when the path of duty was clear."

Such was the man whom the Presbyterian Church of Canada now mourn.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—The Rev. Isaac Murray declares that it was not personal attachment to Sir Charles Tupper that made him uphold the constitution, but the knowledge of its beneficent operation in days gone by.

—Word comes from Toronto that Mr. H. A. Massey, the millionaire manufacturer and head of the great agricultural implements works of Massey, Harris & Co., is dead. It is said that within the past few years Mr. Massey has given over $300,000 to educational and religious objects.

—The Russian Ministry of Public Instruction has decided to establish mining schools on a large scale in the mining districts, especially in the province of Ekaterineslav. The schools will cover all branches of the subject, and the idea will be followed up to a considerable development if the results are sufficiently encouraging.

—It is remarked by the Independent that the Venezuela case is now in a fair way for a satisfactory settlement, in which the right of Great Britain will be acknowledged and established, the territory belonging to Venezuela secured to her forever, and the principle of the Monroe doctrine firmly maintained. How much trouble this will save us in the future no one can possibly estimate.

—St. John Sun: The Orange Grand Lodge of the province stands by Mr. Wallace against remedial legislation. But the Orangemen are no more united on these school questions than other people. They disputed over the resolutions eight hours, and made their declaration by a majority vote. The Orangemen who were in the minority at Newcastle are probably not convinced of their error by the fact that the larger vote was against them. Let us hope that they will not adopt the Cartwright formula and talk about "brute majorities."

—The Patriot squirms under our criticism of Provincial finances and says: "Turn the light on your Ottawa friends Mr. Examiner." We reply that the light is already turned on. Month after month a statement of receipts and expenditures is published by The Examiner and other newspapers and the people know how their money paid into the Dominion treasury is going as well as they know that the burden of their taxation is not increasing. But in the Provinces the people are kept in the dark until the end of the year, when they are compelled to take upon themselves the increasing burden of an annual deficit. The grits prefer darkness because their deeds are evil.

—In a letter addressed to the Halifax Chronicle, the Rev. Dr. Murray, referring to the position he took in the recent contest in Cape Breton says:

"I objected to the existence of separate schools; and as firmly expressed my opinion that the constitution, irrespective of creed or race, must be upheld in its integrity, as also all covenants or compacts sacredly observed.

Dr. Murray's position in the school question is that of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and thousands of other conscientious Protestants. They would rather not have separate schools but a bargain's a bargain; separate schools have been guaranteed the minority in Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba, —and the compact must be kept.

—Commenting upon the prospects of Sir Donald Smith's negotiatons concerning the Manitobe question, the Winnipeg Tribune says: "It is difficult to see how Mr. Greenway can make any concessions that would satisfy the minority. With a fresh mandate from the people to stand by the national school system, no one would surely be bold enough to expect that he would commit political suicide by sacrificing the schools. If there is any truth in the report that Mr. Greenway may make an offer to the Dominion Government to secularize the schools we do not apprehend that any serious opposition to such a step will be afforded in Manitoba. The fact is the schools should have been made secular from the start, which was provided for by the Hon. Mr Martin in the original draft of the bill."

—Commenting upon the loyal address recently passed by the Parliament of Canada, the Independent, of New York, says:

"We do not suppose that the Canadian people are in any sense disloyal to the British Government. We think too well of them to believe for a moment that they would turn against their own flag in any issue between Great Britain and another country. The resolutions and addresses which have recently come from their representative bodies and representative men show clearly enough that they are sincerely attached to the Government of the Queen. We have considered them as a little bit closer to us in feeling and sympathy and interest than are the people of England; but in the event of war between Great Britain and the United States, which we are glad to believe impossible, there is no doubt that the great majority of them would support the British flag.

THE BUBBLES WINKING AT THE BRIM.

It is now beyond all cavil. The test has been made. The results have been satisfactory. You can have a good wine for a trifle. Wine has made glad the heart of man from time immemorial. It has made him eloquent; it has cheered him in despondency. But the masses could not get it, at least in countries into which it had to be imported. The Bordeaux Claret Co., will sell you an excellent wine at $3 and $4 per dozen quarts. This they have been doing for some time past to the whole people. All are delighted. The orders are pouring in. A sound wine, thoroughly wholesome, making blood and muscle. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital Street, Montreal. 246.

Smokers Notice.—On your way up to the rink to-night drop into our up town store and get seven Robin Hood cigars for 25c., or a bundle of ten Sweet Havana cigars for 35c. These are special snaps to-night. Tickets for the races for sale at Johnson & Johnson's.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Terrible Experience of Mr. Jas. Cantwell.

(Special by Telephone.)

Mr. James Cantwell, the Scott Act bailiff, was in Souris yesterday collecting some money that was due on the fines, and started for his home, some six miles distant, about nine o'clock last night, having collected about $100. The night being fine he drove slowly, and about three miles distant, so he saved himself, as there was no one else present, nor with him. He saw three men a short distance ahead walking. As Mr. Cantwell approached them, one man stood on each side of the road, and the other came behind him and pulled him out of the sleigh. At the same time he was violently struck on the head. After this he remembered nothing, but after lying unconscious for about fifteen minutes he came to and found that his clothes had been almost torn to pieces, and every dollar taken from him, and no one in sight, the robbers having escaped without recognizing who they were. The citizens of Souris feel greatly excited over this matter, and are all of the same opinion that the desperadoes should if possible be caught and severely punished. The general opinion seems to be that it was the money, not Cantwell's life, they were after.

W. R. Kerr, late postmaster at Calais, Me., who is short $2,100 in his accounts, is supposed to be in Canada.

Corbett has challenged Fitzsimmons to fight anywhere on earth, in public or private, for from $5,000 to $20,000 a side.

There are 19 leprosy patients in the hospital at Tracadie, 13 males and 6 females. Three of the number are dying.

It is said that the Scott Act is being so vigorously enforced at Newcastle and Chatham that it is practically impossible to buy liquor at either place.

Mrs. Strong, the Toronto woman who impersonated several female electors in the late municipal election, has been fined $200. In default she will serve sixty days in jail.

A bank at McLouth, twelve miles north of Lawrence, Kan., was entered by burglars a few nights ago and $35,000 was taken therefrom. The safe was blown open.

The trade journals for January show a gratifying increase. The exports augmented $3,342,000, of which one million dollars was the produce of Canada. The duty collected increased $553,000.

London is about to build a seventh lunatic asylum. There are 12,000 certified lunatics now kept at the public expense, without counting those in private asylums and those that are loose.

France is going to spend $200,000 for a fitting representation at the coronation of the Czar on May 12th. The head of the extraordinary mission will be Gen. de Boisdoffre, Chief of the general staff of the French Army.

The Union Station of the consolidated railway at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire early on Friday morning. The railway company's loss is roughly placed at $25,000 with $15,000 insurance.

The family of Jacob Jacodi, living near Chicago, were asphyxicated a few nights ago by gas from a coal stove. Annie Jacodi a daughter is dead. Jacob Jacodi the father will die, but Mary Jacodi the mother may recover.

A man named Chatelaine died the other day at Cornwallis, Ontario, at the age of 109 years. He leaves a widow who is over 100 years old. The couple have been married over seventy years and it is said that here are fully 275 descendants.

Albert H. Foster, of Concord, N. H., for five years tax collector, is under arrest at that place. Foster admits embezzling $16,000 of the funds received by him. He says he lost the money in a bucket shop in Boston. It is feared that the shortage is much larger than $16,000. Foster's bond is $60,000.

The report comes from Kansas that 5,000 persons were unable to get into the church where Mrs. Lease preached her first sermon on a recent Sunday, but the report fails to give the size of the church. The number of persons who fail to get into the churches on Sundays, even when there is to be no star preaching, is frequently immense.

In the British House of Commons on Friday, Sir Charles Dike asked the government what the position of affairs was in relation to Newfoundland. The undersecretary replied that the British and French governments had agreed to renew for the approaching season the lobster fishing modus vivendi. No negotiations were proceeding regarding the general question of the treaty rights.

According to the Star's London cable the bill to finally exclude imported live cattle, which was read for a first time in the British House of Commons last Friday night, was practically unopposed. Even General Laurie, ex-member of parliament in Canada, while arguing that Canada was free from disease, approved of the bill as ending an uncertainty and likely to induce Canadians to export dressed meat instead of stockers.

Sir G. S. Baden-Powell, Conservative member of parliament from Liverpool, who acted as Canadian Commissioner on the joint commission to the condition of seal life in Behring Sea in 1891, writes to the London Times that before England agrees to a joint commission she should ascertain how Venezuela would be bound by its decision, and what degree of responsibility the United States assumes in the control of Venezuela.

WHAT TO TEACH BOYS.

A philosopher has said that the true education to boys is to "teach them what they ought to know when they become men."

1. To be true and to be genuine. No education is worth anything that does not include this. A man had better not know how to read—he had better never learn a letter in the alphabet, and be true, genuine in intention and action—rather than be learned in all sciences and languages, to be at the same time false in heart, and counterfeit in life. Above all things teach the boys that truth is more than riches, more than earthly power or possessions.

2. To be pure in thought, language and life—pure in mind and body.

3. To be unselfish. To care for the feelings and comforts of others. To be polite, to be just in all dealings with others. To be generous, noble and manly. This will include genuine reverence for the aged and for things sacred.

4. To be self-reliant and self-helpful, even from childhood. To be industrious always, and self-supporting at the earliest proper age. Teach them that all honest work is honorable, that an idle life of dependence on others is disgraceful.

When a boy has learned these four things, when he has made these ideas a part of his being—however poor or however rich—he has learned the most important things he ought to know when he becomes a man.—Parish Visitor.

MUCH TROUBLE SAVED.

After the endless piecing necessary in working with hair cloth or canvas, it is a treat to handle Fibre Chamois. Its great width, 64 inches, and the fact that it must always be cut across the goods make it easy to get out the fullest sleeves or most flaring capes with hardly a join. Always have its wrinkles run around your garment, never up and down.

Prohibition in the Commons.

Sir Donald Smith's Opinion.

A BETTER MIND AT WINNIPEG

The Prospect of a Settlement.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.

In the House of Commons yesterday Hon. Mr. Dickey informed Mulock that the site for a Dominion reformatory had been purchased in the township of Lochiel, near Alexandria. A hundred acres of land had been secured at a cost of $5,000. Plans for one wing of the proposed building, to cost $100,000, had been prepared and tenders called. The remaining buildings are to be erected by convict labor.

Mr. Flint resumed the debate, begun some weeks ago, on his prohibition motion, which was continued by Mr. Craig, who seconded the resolution, and others. A motion to adjourn the debate was carried, which puts the motion at the bottom of the order paper.

Sir Donald Smith has returned from Winnipeg. To your correspondent he said: "I found an unquestionably better feeling prevailing in Winnipeg. The people there seemingly realize the gravity of the situation, and I have every reason to believe that an entirely satisfactory settlement of the school difficulty is possible.

Mr. Greenway is expected in Ottawa shortly. The impression is that the Manitoba Government has receded from the harsh and unyielding position which has brought about the present condition of affairs. This opinion is strengthened by the news which comes from Winnipeg of yesterday's doings in the legislature. A private despatch says that Attorney-General Sifton has given notice that he will submit a resolution calling upon the legislature to deprecate Federal interference in local educational concerns, and expressing a willingness to remedy anything in the existing school law which bears upon the Roman Catholics of the Province.

Lieut.-Colonel Stark, of the 3rd Victoria Rifles, is commandant of the Bisley team for this year. The Adjutant will be a Toronto man.

P. E. Islander Killed at Springhill.

Springhill, Feb. 25.

A fatal accident took place in No. 3 slope at Springhill yesterday. Whilst the men were working on the hoisting slope one of the ropes broke and ten full boxes of coal crashed to the bottom, killing Lawrence Gallant, of Rustico, P. E. I., who has been working at the mines only a short time, and injuring another.

Mr. Gallant left his Island home about three months ago. He was twenty-two years of age.
