ALONG THE GREAT DIVIDE WITH KIRK DOUGLAS, DUE

How five men and a girl make their way across the sun-baked, wind-swept Mojave desert, braving the elements and battling the vengeance of an outlaw mob, forms the background basis for "Along the Great Divide." Warner Bros. much-heralded western epic which begins its local engagement at the Capitol Theatre today.

Kirk Douglas, in his first outdoor role, essays the part of a U.S. Marshal forced to escort his prisoners through the blazing sands rather than turn them over to a lynch-hungry mob of cattlemen. Because the script calls for Douglas to be called upon to engage in some of the hardest battle royals since he made "Champion."

On the distaff side, lovely Virginia Mayo is seen as the girl who must choose between love for her father and the man sworn to bring him to justice. It is this conflict which brings about the suspenseful climax of the new drama. John Agar, the lieutenant in "Breakthrough," plays the marshal's loyal deputy while Walter Brennan supplies much of the film's wit and humor, a talent for which the veteran actor has won three Academy Awards.

The new refinery, covering 200 acres, will use everything but the "smell" of crude oil in processing it, through this maze to tanks and tubes, into gasoline, fuel oil, and end products for the chemical industry and for the manufacture of synthetic rubber. The refinery rates as a defence plant, contributing not only essential chemical war scarce, but in its capacity to produce fuel for jet engines. To Prince Edward Island

Oh! Friendly Isle, upon whose breast Such loads of nice potatoes rest, And in whose shining lakes and streams The blue of heaven ever gleams. Your red, red roads so gaily run Among your green fields in the sun, But, risk your anger here, we must, We cannot learn to love your dust.

Your mighty ocean deep and wide Is filled with fish from side to side But, we confess, we find the fishes At times a little bit capacious.

Your "Golfers' Dream" is at our door, We hear the plea, "just nine holes more!" The fairways and the velvet greens Are part of many lovely scenes.

Your miles and miles of golden beaches Are filled with folk who stick like leeches. Until the sun goes down at night, They go home red who came down white.

At meal time we sit and gorge, Our entertainment is by George (Andrew). For healthy, happy times just try A holiday in P.E.I.

We came with smiles, we leave with tears, Fond memories we'll keep for years, Oh friendly Isle, though we must part, You'll live forever in my heart.

Kathleen Lucas Montreal.

Farewell

(Written enroute to U.S.A. from Montague where I attended the funeral of my beloved brother Francis (Frank) Vessey, on August 26, 1952).

Fare thee well dear Isle of beauty, 'Tis from my heart a sad farewell, An answer to a call of duty, God willed it so and all is well. A new made grave today you'll see Near St. Mary's quiet shade, There his earthly home will be, Close beside his loved ones laid. No more we'll walk the old pathways, My brother dear and I, No more upon the river gaze Or loiter there to wave sea-going vessels bye. No more we'll roam the sunny hills, Or saunter around the sandy shore Where the memory of his presence fills. The Autumn breezes wafting o'er, With sorrow filled, my heart is bowed, An' after those hills a gloom is cast, Altho' no voice is heard aloud There comes an echo from the past. Our foot prints on the sandy shore Are blotted by the silvery tide, His friendly voice is heard no more. Please God in Heaven may he abide. On the sun kissed hill his cottage stands, The white birch trees on guard, The river view it still commands, I pray that none will this retard. Upon the Abegweit's deck I stand Returning to my home in Maine From receding shore, like a waving hand Bespeaks the wish "Come back again."

—Lena Vessey

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ALLAN FINLAYSON

There passed away in her home in Grandview on September 11th Mrs. Allan Finlayson in her 62nd year. She had been in failing health for about three years but the end came quite suddenly. Mrs. Finlayson was a lady of most lovely Christian character. Because of her cheerful optimistic disposition, her unflinching kindness and thoughtfulness, her devotion to every duty and her constant capable support of every organization in the church and the community, she was greatly esteemed by all who knew her. She knew the Bible, and loved the Word, with its message of redeeming love, but she was at her best in her own home, and in this Christian house the friend and the stranger received true Highland hospitality. She will be sorely missed. The funeral services were held on September 14th, with a short service in the home, at Orwell Head Church and were conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. C. Fraser assisted by Rev. D. Wallace MacPherson. Favourite hymns were sung and the choir rendered a selection, "The Home of the Soul." The many floral tributes and the large attendance which more than filled the church bore silent testimony to the worth of a friend well beloved. Besides her husband Mrs. Finlayson is survived by one son, Robert Finlayson, of Port Hope, Ontario, who always spent his yearly vacation with his parents and was home for the funeral; one daughter Olive Finlayson, at home; also one brother J. Hector MacKinnon, and one sister, Mrs. Peter MacPhee, both of Boston, Mass.
