that the Royal Gazette, when published by me, was conducted with as little consideration for private feeling and as little respect for private character, as have characterized its editorial columns since it passed into the hands of Mr. Whelan. I cannot, therefore, I think, justly be censured for presuming to notice, through the public press, in the most temperate and respectful manner, for the purpose of correction, Your Excellency's apparent misapprehension on this subject—a misapprehension which, if it really exist in Your Excellency's mind, can have been induced by nothing but the most unscrupulous misrepresentations on the part of Your Excellency's "confidential advisers."

Whilst the Royal Gazette was published by me, it was very seldom that its political articles partook of a decidedly controversial or party spirit: and, certainly, none of them were ever disfigured by the conceptions of individual malice, or, in any way, calculated to disturb the public peace. As respects such considerations, how completely do they differ from the reckless, rabid, and ferocious spirit, manifested in most of the editorials of, and in the communications to, the Royal Gazette, whether directed against a party or against individuals, since it has been conducted by Mr Whelan!

That such has been the general character of its editorial and communicated articles since it has been edited by Mr. Whelan, has been abundantly testified by the indignant voice of many of the most respectable and deserving members of this community. And this voice, it is presumed, did not fail, in some degree, to influence Your Excellency; for it was well known, and it is still well remembered, that, at the time when public sentiment was most indignantly excited and indecently outraged by the scandalous and unrestricted virulence of Mr. Whelan's editorials, "PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY" as broadly set forth in the heading of the Gazette—of that shield he was suddenly deprived, by Your Excellency's interference as the public generally believed, and plainly given to understand, "that he was to be responsible for all articles published in the Royal Gazette unauthorized by the Government."

According to public opinion, such interference on the part of Your Excellency, was most loudly called for; and many—perhaps not without good reason—are of opinion that, since then, your Attorney General might, with the greatest propriety have been instructed to call him to account for the unwarrantable licence with which he has presumed to employ his pen and his press. In any private individual it is justly esteemed a misdemeanor, worthy of the infliction of a legal penalty, to bring, or to attempt to bring, a constitutional government into contempt among the people. But how much more worthy of punishment, I take leave to ask, must a man be, who, although not only a government official himself, but actually a member of the government, has, by the vilest prostitution of the Government Press, exposed, not only his colleagues in Council, but, in some degree also, the Head of the Government, to the personal hatred and contempt of a very considerable and respectable portion of the community!

With respect to the publication of the Royal Gazette, your Excellency has said, that you, at one time, wished and suggested that, although it should be published separately, you afterwards, for reasons adverted to, felt that it was not your province, to urge upon the Government, at an additional expense to the Colony, any departure from the practice which had been long sanctioned by the confidential advisers of your predecessors.

That the apprehension of additional expense to the Colony, from the adoption of Your Excellency's suggestion, was, however, very ill-founded, and—if urged by Your Excellency's confidential advisers, as, I think, I have room enough to infer it was—was most unfairly urged, is, I respectfully beg leave to observe, an opinion, the correctness of which, it is by no means difficult to prove.

If the course pursued by me—the rejection of all libellous and inflammatory communications, and the observance of due moderation and forbearance, in the editorials of the Royal Gazette—had been honestly represented to Your Excellency, you would, I think, at once have perceived how easily that course could have had ingrafted upon it a new principle—a principle inperfect accordance with the spirit of Your Excellency's suggestion, and which would neither have interfered, in any way, with or circumscribed the legitimate province of the Gazette, nor have added one farthing to the public disbursement. This would have been to have directed that no original political matter, or articles, unauthorized by the Government, should appear in the Gazette; and that, besides general news, foreign and domestic—the Government and other advertisements—literary and scientific selections and communications no editorials, except such as, thoroughly irrespective of the confined interests of mere party, sect, or creed, should be honestly intended for the furtherance of the general interests of the Colony.

This is, pretty nearly, if not altogether, the course pursued with the Bermuda and Newfoundland, as well as some other of our Colonial Royal Gazettes; and such, it seems to me, would have been—with, perhaps, a slight modification—the course prescribed for the management of the Royal Gazette of this Colony, if Your Excellency had been allowed to carry into effect, with respect to it, the dictates of your own judgment, unbiassed by any considerations but such as arose from your desire to direct the public service, in every branch, in such a way as you believed would most directly tend to the promotion of the public weal, and to the enhancing of the credit and reputation of your Government.

There will not, I trust, appear, to Your Excellency, either in the observations made by me, in this letter, or in the mode in which I have presumed to present them at once to the notice of Your Excellency, and of the public, whom they chiefly concern, any forgetfulness, on my part, of that high respect in which Your Excellency ought to be held in this community.

So far, however, as my strictures affect the character of another individual—to whom, indeed, they chiefly apply—I am quite indifferent as to the light in which he may view them, or the manner in which he may choose to reply to them. His abortive calumnies, insults and abuse, I have hitherto despised: and should he continue "to malign and rail," even with greater virulence and audacity, than have heretofore characterized his "Billingsgate," his malignity and ribaldry will never—at least so far as they respect myself—be regarded by me with any other sentiments than those of supreme contempt.

I have the honor to be, with high respect,
Your Excellency's,
most obedient humble servant,
JAMES D. HASZARD.

RECREATION GROVE,
Dec. 12th, 1853.

Sir;

I beg to acknowledge receipt of the sum of £30 being the amount Insured with "The Mutual Fire Insurance Company" on one of my Cottages in the Royalty lately destroyed by fire. The promptitude which has been manifested in paying my demand after a careful investigation into the matter, has inspired me with a further assurance of the benefit derived from "The Mutual Insurance Company"—I feel well satisfied that it will become one of the most beneficial Institutions in the country, and being one among its earliest prompters, I have much pleasure in its prosperity.

I am Sir, Your most obt. servant,
JAMES D, HASZARD.

To Henry Palmer, Esquire, Secretary and Treasurer, Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

WE have much pleasure in giving insertion to the letter from Rustico, signed "A Friend to Improvement." The establishment of a School Library—the first, if we mistake not, in the Island—is creditable both to the people of Rustico and the master of the school, Mr. Roberts; and we trust will prove but a beginning of one of the greatest aids to the education of the people that can well be devised, and that School Libraries will be as common as they deserve to be, throughout the Island.
