MR. AND MRS. ALBERT P. FOGARTY

August Nuptials Unite Couple At Holy Redeemer Church

The church of the Most Holy Redeemer, Charlottetown, was the setting for a lovely wedding in August when Judith Dianne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McCabe, Charlottetown, was united in marriage with Albert Preston Fogarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Fogarty, Cardigan, P.E.I. Rev. F.J. Maloney, CSsR, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. William Campbell, organist, accompanied Frank MacIntyre as he sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" prior to the ceremony and "Panis Angelicles" at the offetory and "Just for you Today" during the signing of the register.

Mixed flowers decorated the church and the guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was attired in a floor length gown of white organza over satin, featuring a fitted bodice with dropped waist line, long lily point sleeves and a scalloped neckline.

Her elbow length veil of nylon net was held in place by a tiara of sequins. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Andrea Redmond as maid of honor wore a full skirted pastel green nylon over net dress with matching shoes and headdress. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Joan McCabe, sister of the bride, and Miss Barbara MacQuaid, bridesmaids, wore identical dresses of yellow nylon. Their bouquets were white roses.

Brother of the groom, Phillip Fogarty, was best man. Ushers were Joseph Fogarty and Adrian Sullivan.

Cheryl Fogarty, niece of the groom, was flowergirl. She wore a mauve dress with matching headpiece, and carried white carnations.

Donald Sullivan, nephew of the groom, was ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. McCabe chose a three piece navy and white linen suit with white corsage and white accessories.

Mrs. Fogarty wore a mauve and white silk dress with white accessories.

Followingthe ceremony a reception for 60 guests was held at the Community Centre. The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake decorated with silver leaves and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Father Maloney asked the blessing. The best man proposed the toast to the bride, with the groom giving the response.

Miss Lois Fogarty, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Fogarty left on a honeymoon trip to Ontario where they visited relatives of the bride.

For travelling the bride wore a powder blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Prior to her marriage the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Jules Reathy. On their return the couple were guests of honor at the home of the groom's parents where a reception was held.

Out of province guests included Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Fogarty, Dorchester, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy MacKenzie, Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. Emery Gillan, Dorchester, Mass.; Miss Laura Fogarty, Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Huth, Kitchener, Ont.; Miss Andrea Redmond, Somerville, Mass.; Miss Mary Redmond, Halifax, N.S.; Mr. John Kenny, Halifax, N.S.

Mr. and Mrs. Fogarty are residing at Montague where Mr. Fogarty is employed at Montague Regional High School.

Consumers Are Well Protected

"The Canadian consumer is probably the best protected in the world," P.G. (Gar) Rylott, President of Packaging Association of Canada said in a recent interview.

"A much more permissive attitude toward manufacturers is adopted on the Continent than is the case here. In a recent visit to France and Germany we found, for example, that packagers meet legal requirements on packaged food weights by averaging a stated weight on a line, obviously, with this system, some packages will be underweight. Here in Canada no underweight is permitted."

"In the U.S. an attempt is being made to provide consumers with the same kind of labelling information and protection we already have in Canada."

Mr. Rylott pointed out that here in Canada a multiplicity of agencies serve to provide continuous protection to the consumer. Federal departments administering protective legislation include:

Department of National Health and Welfare (Food and Drug Directorate), Department of Agriculture (Production and Marketing Branches, Fruit and Vegetables Division, Health of Animals Division and Dairy Products Division); Department of Fisheries (Inspection and Consumer Services); Department of Trade and Commerce (Weights and Measures Division). Certain provincial departments also play a watch-dog role.

Travelling inspectors from these various departments keep a constant check on standards at both manufacturing and retail levels. Food and Drug has 37 such inspectors currently employed in Ontario alone.

He went on, "One hears a lot about deceptive packaging. Maybe some of it exists, but if it does, the odds are heavily against it being of Canadian origin. In its GUIDE FOR MANUFACTURERS AND ADVERTISERS, the Food and Drug Directorate sets down: 'Packages for foods or drugs must not be deceptive in design, fill or any other manner which misleads the consumer as to the true nature or content of the package.'"

"Industry polices itself, as well. Enlightened and reputable manufacturers have too much at stake to risk their reputation with goods that will offend or annoy a purchaser and result in the loss of the 'repeat business' which is their lifeblood."

Organizations such as Packaging Association of Canada work regularly with Government to achieve improved methods of serving and protecting Canadian consumers.

Canadian consumers, both as individuals and through organized groups like the Consumers' Association of Canada, make known their needs, wishes, problems, and complaints. Are they listened to? Well, as one manufacturer said the other day, "If we don't listen to them, we're just cutting our own throats. The producer most attentive to consumer needs and opinion is the one who usually gets the most business".

Turkey Supper Slated For 21st

The regular monthly meeting of the Stanhope WI was held at the home of Mrs. Harry MacLauchlan. The meeting opened with the singing of the Island Hymn and the collect repeated in unison. Roll call was answered by nine members. The minutes were read, approved and signed.

Mrs. Harry MacLauchlan reported on the "Get Acquainted Tea".

The various committees gave their reports and new committees were appointed. The treasurer gave her report. It was moved by Mrs. Alvin Misener and seconded by Mrs. Pat Horgan that one copy of the history of the Island Institutes be bought. The motion carried.

It was moved by Mrs. Harry MacLauchlan and seconded by Mrs. Walter Marshall that a miscellaneous auction sale be held at the next meeting to help sister institutes in the north. The motion carried.

Tickes for the hot turkey supper, to be held in the community hall on Sept. 21 were distributed among the members.

A special meeting is to be held at Mrs. Ralph Carr's on Sept. 10 to make plans for Senior Citizenship Party and the 35th anniversary celebration of the Institute. Mrs. Bruce Ellis moved that the meeting be adjourned.

Lunch was served by the hostess and committee in charge. A social half-hour followed.

Mechanical Judge Tests Food Before Marketing

EXCITING news is coming from the busy U.S. Department of Agriculture. Now it concerns the new scientific measuring instruments that automatically grade and judge the quality of food before it goes to market.

"That old cliche 'You can't tell a book by its cover' applies equally well to determining the quality and characteristics of many foods," commented the Chef.

LOOKS ARE DECEIVING

"Par example, you can't always tell by looking at a tomato that it's going to have the color and quality that makes good tomato juice. Or by looking at a potato, you can't see that it's good all the way through."

"That's right," I said. "No matter how good the judgment of an inspector or grader may be, there's always the human element that may cause a mistake.

"Here's where the Department of Agriculture comes in. The Marketing Service has developed a wide variety of instruments for testing, sampling and evaluating foods.

DETERMINES TENDERNESS

"There's even a tenderometer that can measure the tenderness of peas. And a new mechanical thumb that can determine the firmness or ripeness of apples or other produce so gently it won't injure the fruit."

"Very different from the pinch - test the ladies use," chuckled the Chef.

FOOD 'SNIFFERS'

"The new 'sniff' instruments," I continued, "that can accurately determine the quality are being used in flavor research with fruits, vegetables and processed foods."

"Oh, la la — the robot nose knows," chuckled the Chef again. "Soon all types of food purchasing will become a cinch."

MOCHA CREAM CAKE

1 pkg. sweet cooking chocolate
½ c. boiling water
1 c. butter or margarine
2 c. sugar
4 egg yolks, unbeaten
1 tsp. vanilla
2½ c. sifted cake flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking soda
1 c. buttermilk
4 egg whites, beaten stiff

Coffee Whipped Cream

Melt chocolate in boiling water. Cool.

Mix butter and sugar until light and fluffy.

Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating after each. Add vanilla and melted chocolate and mix until smooth.

Sift flour and soda with salt. Add alternately with buttermilk, beating after each until batter is smooth. Fold in egg whites.

Spoon into two 8" x 8" x 2" square pans, bottoms lined with paper.

Bake 45 to 50 min. in a mod. oven, 350 degrees F. Cool.

Split each layer horizontally, making 4 layers.

Spread Coffee Whipped Cream between layers and over top of cake.

Refrigerate 30 min. or more before serving.

COFFEE WHIPPED CREAM

3 tsp. instant coffee
2 c. heavy cream
4tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. vanilla

Place coffee, cream, sugar and vanilla in a chilled deep bowl.

Beat until the cream holds its shape.

Makes 4 c.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

If whipped cream is to be spread between cake layers or atop cakes or pies for more than an hour, before whipping, add for each cup of heavy cream 1 teaspoon of unflavored gelatin dusted onto 1 tablespoon cold water, then disolved by standing it in boiling water.

MARY HAWORTH

Critic's Malicious Gossip Causes Woman To Suffer

Dear Mary Haworth: First I must give you great praise for your column, which I find both interesting and educational. But I never thought that I would be writing to you.

Here is my problem: I am 64, married to a wonderful man. Twenty-nine years ago I had an affair, which I had supposed, after so many years, was buried in the past.

But no; the man was visiting in our neighborhood and soon my secret was noised about, all over my street. I have already told my husband about the episode and he was most kind and considerate. He told me not to worry about it.

But now as I walk down the street the tongues start wagging and the looks and stares I get I can feel right through me.

I am desperate; I really don't know what to do. I would like to move away from all this idle gossip but my husband wouldn't hear of it.

Should I ignore them or fight back? Any advice you can offer will be greatly appreciated. — D.S.

Dear D.S.: If it is indeed true that a man with whom you had an affair 29 years ago has noised the story about recently in your neighborhood, then he is a character beneath contempt. And whatever he says should be ignored by responsible persons.

Furthermore, any neighborhood gossips who may be trying to grind down your self-respect and trample your good name in the mire, since getting wind of the man's scandal- mongering, are themselves committing a worse transgression in the sight of God than the sin of which you are accused.

Theologians tell us that sins of the spirit, prideful sins especially, such as smug self-righteousness and gratuitous scorn of the frailties of fellow beings, are more offensive to God (who is Love) than are pitiful sins of the flesh, so-called.

Holy Writ makes the point time and again. For example, in Our Lord's parable of the self-satisfied Pharisee and the contrite Publican. Also in the instance of the woman taken in adultery (punishable by death in that society) and hustled to Jesus for judgment by crafty men, who hoped to trap Him in a dilemma between legality and mercy.

According to the ancient code, the woman's captors were entitled to stone her to death on the spot. Jesus, weighing the matter while reading their hearts, said in effect: "He that is without sin amongst you, let him cast the first sone at her."

The account continues (John 8:9-11): "And they which heard, being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last. And Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

"When Jesus saw none but the woman He said unto her: 'Woman, where are those thine accusers? Hath no man condemned thee?' She said 'No man, Lord.' and Jesus said unto her: 'Neither do I condemn thee. Go and sin no more'."

There you have a yardstick of absolute justice to repair to, in evaluating the moral worth of the gossips' malicious judgmentpassing attitude. As you can see, they haven't a leg to stand on, in trying to make you feel guilty, ashamed and inferior to them. The fact is, they should be ashamed of themselves.

Your mistake of the past is none of their business. The reckoning is between you and God. As your husband knows the story and sensibly advises you not to worry, you should face the public with dignified tranquil composure. The "hearsay" yakyaking is downright silly and simply couldn't matter less.—M.H.

UCW To Supply Clothing Needs

Mrs. Nathan Irving presided at a meeting of the United Church Women held in Murray Harbour. Proceeds from a recent supper amounted to $60.94 as reported by Mrs. Carl Richards, treasurer. It was decided to send thank you letters to Mrs. Julia Cohoon for her donation to the UCW and to Carl Richards for carpenter work done. It was also decided to pay for a sheet of plywood for church hall kitchen.

Mrs. Nathan Irving was appointed to contact MacLeod and Greene re the drilling of another well for the church hall.

A letter was read from Mrs. Bryer Jones, Supply and Social Assistance Secretary for P.E.I. Presbyterial. She stated that warm clothing was needed at the church depot, especially at this season of the year. She also asked that the Murray Harbour UCW supply three baby nightgowns for Presbyterial needs. Mrs. John Machon was asked to order Flanelette for these.

Mrs. Charles Collier conducted the worship on the theme "Friendship". Hymns sung were "What a Friend we have in Jesus" and "Blest be the Tie that Binds". Mrs. James Darby presented the offering for dedication. Worship closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

Groups were formed for the study of Chapter 5, parts 1 and 2 of "The Word and The Way", and then discussion was shared.

The next meeting will be held on September 19 with Mrs. Lloyd Herring leading in a study of one of the countries of Southeast Asia.
