Boost Aid To Children Of War Dead

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Thursday introduced legislation designed to broaden eligibility and boost some assistance rates in the higher education of children of war dead.

Given strong Commons support from all parties, the amendments to the Children of War Dead Act were given second reading.

The act was passed in 1953. Veterans Affairs Minister Brooks, introducing the new bill, said its basic purpose is to guarantee that no child misses a higher education because of his father's death

FARM REVOLUTION

Nearly everyone realizes that agriculture has, during the past ten years, undergone changes which almost amount to a revolution.

What may not be so well realized is the fact that these changes were delayed for many years. Forst of all, the depression of the thirties very effectively held back the normal changes and developments which should have taken place. Following the thirties, World War II due to scarcity of manpower and material also held up for a period adjustments and changes. Thus the last ten years has packed into it much of the developments which should have normally taken place during the previous twenty.

OLD AGE PENSION

The inclusion by the United States of farmers in a compulsory contributory old age pension plan has created some interest in Canada on the possibility of something similar being put into effect. While it is quite unlikely that the present general system of old age pensions will ever be done away with for many years to come, yet there is the possibility that a plan might be devised which would give pensions from 65 to 70 provided that certain contributions had been made.

Interest exists on the part of the government to the extent that an investigation into the whole field of old age pensions is being carried out.

JOB INSURANCE

At the last annual meeting of the Federation of Agriculture a special committee was named to study the question of Unemployment Insurance for farm workers. This committee reported to the semi-annual meeting held in Port Arthur this week. It is quite evident that the strongest demand in this matter is coming from the sections of agriculture which hire seasonal labour and which must compete with other industries for it. While there may be a gradually increasing demand for a general application of Unemployment Insurance, yet the Board of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture is not convinced that farmers are ready to accept inclusion of the whole industry.

C.F.A. policy on the matter is that arrangements should be made which will permit Unemployment Insurance in certain clearly defined areas and sections of agriculture where the need is apparent and when the majority of the group makes a demand for it.

Blood Donor Clinics Planned

With the naming of Mr. Elbert Orr as Chairman for New Glasgow where a Clinic will be sponsored by the Junior Farmers, arrangements are now complete for the third series of 1958 P.E.I. Red Cross Blood Donor Clinics to be held during the week of August 24th.

In five of the eight centres, the sponsoring groups will be the Canadian Legion Branches with the following names as Chairmen—Mr. Bert Blacquire for North Rustico; Mr. Lester MacRae for Eldon; Mr. Alban Brothers for Cardigan, Mr. Joe Hennessey for Souris; and Mr. George A. MacCannell for Montague. Mr. George Ferguson has accepted the Chairmanship for Murray River where there has not been a Clinic since 1951.

The Clinic schedules have been set up so that Murray River and Montague will be on the same day. Murray River in the afternoon and Montague in the evening. This will give residents of this Southern King's County area the opportunity of attending one or the other of these Clinics— whichever is more convenient.

The same will be the case with New Glasgow and North Rustico where a friendly competition is being promoted between the Junior Farmers' organization in New Glasgow and the North Rustico Canadian Legion Branch to see which can exceed the quota set by the highest percentage. The Clinic in New Glasgow will be the first of its kind to be held there.

Mrs. John MacCannell, R. N. is heading up a Committee for a Clinic to be held at Canoe Cove Hall. In previous years Clinics for residents of this area have been held at Long Creek or New Dominion so this will be the first Clinic ever to be held at Canoe Cove.

Mr. F.A.S. Jones, Provincial Chairman of the Red Cross Blood Donor Committee said last evening that the objective for the four days of Clinics will be at least 1100 donors. He remarked that with the enthusiasm being displayed by the chairmen in the different centres he is confident that this minimum objective will be exceeded.

for causes attributable to military service.

More than 1,100 children—more than first estimated—have been granted assistance since 1953, he said.

Tuition fees up to $500 annually have been provided plus an allowance of $25 monthly for each academic year or 36 months—whichever is the lesser period—to children following approved courses satisfactorily. The age limit is 25. One change is to increase to $60 from $25 the monthly allowance for children over 21.

Broadened eligibility measures include these groups—none of them large: Children past 21 who already were pursuing a higher education course at the father's death; children bereaved by a specific peacetime military duty; children of compensation from other sources such as a Workmen's Compensation Board; and children whose fathers directly after discharge came under veterans affairs department treatment and died during it.

THOUGHTS FOR OUR TIME

BY HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL MCGUIGAN

HELPING OTHERS

The world is full of lonely people. You see their faces as they pass you on the street; you ride daily with them on the subway and streetcar; you see them on park benches, and even in church pews. Their touching letters appear frequently in the newspapers.

Loneliness is one of the great and hard facts of life. We all suffer from it to some degree, but some are called upon to bear a more than ordinary share of this affliction. And it is truly a hard cross. To feel that no one is interested in you, to feel that if you were suddenly to die no one would care—such a feeling it is surely one of the most painful that man can experience.

The fact is, of course, that ultimately each of us is alone. Each of us is an individual person. Our personality is at once our glory and our despair; our glory because it makes us unique in the universe—God has created each of us personally and no two of us the same; our despair because it leaves us radically alone, fundamentally isolated in our self.

Love is the means by which we attempt to break out of this isolation. It is love which unites us to others, the means by which we enter their lives and they enter ours. Love is the great unifying force in a world of unique individuals. And yet even love—at least ordinary human love—can only go so far; it can never completely overcome our isolation. Much of the great love poetry of the world has been written on this theme.

NARROW PATTERN?

For most of us, the pattern of our human love involves a rather mainly from European countries—has played a larger families (especially of farmers), and a longer life expectancy have played the major role.

All provinces have shared in the increase in population in the last 38 years, but they have not shared evenly by any means. Two-thirds of the increase took place in the now mainly industrial provinces of Ontario and Quebec. At the other end stand out still mainly agricultural provinces of Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan. They reported a very slight increase in population.

Since 1951 the decline in numbers of people on the farm has been particularly striking in the Atlantic Provinces. There the decline of people farming in the last six years alone amounted to 14% percent as against a 7 percent decrease all over Canada.

WILL PREACH

might do well to undertake some form of charitable work. The hospitals, old people's homes and mental institutions of this city are literally full of lonely people, people who are enduring not only the extremes of loneliness, but often besides, the extremes of physical pain; people who are desperately craving human sympathy, who would cherish the tiniest gesture of interest; an "outsider," who would overwhelm with gratitude anyone showing them the least sign of understanding.

Here is an opportunity for the lonely to put their loneliness to work. By looking outward instead of inward, by extending the sympathetic hand of Christian charity to the less fortunate, they might find that their own lives were enormously enriched, their own horizons broadened; perhaps even their own loneliness forgotten.

Lonely people would perhaps do well to evaluate their condition in the light of Christian principles. First of all they should realize that their own form of loneliness, while unique in the sense that they alone experience it, is nevertheless not a unique state. It is shared by thousands in the world. In other words, the lonely are not alone in their loneliness. Such people, if they are able,

Find Ticks On Fighting Bulls

WASHINGTON (CP)—Six Mexican fighting bulls ordered for "bloodless bullfights" at Lindsay, Ont., have been found infested with ticks and may not be permitted to pass through the United States to Canada.

U.S. agriculture department officials said an inspection at a U.S. station on the Mexican border revealed the ticks on the animals.

The bulls have been ordered returned to Mexico for chemical dipping to dispose of the ticks and will be presented to the border again, probably Friday. If found to be tick-free, the
