RECALL DAYS TOGETHER AT SEA

Stories of their days together at sea brings smiles to the faces of Lieutenant Michael Hennessey of the local Reserve Naval Division and bearded Lieutenant-Commander C. D. Gillis, R.C.N., commander of H.M.C.S. Chignecto, one of the six Bay Class minesweepers that docked at the Railway Wharf yesterday.

Hennessey also obviously enjoys the conversation between the two officers, who in 1951 served together aboard H.M.C.S. Llewellyn. Lt.-Cmdr. Gillis is a native of Point Prim, P. E. I. The photo was taken during a reception in honor of the visiting officers held last night in the wardroom of H.M.C.S. Queen Charlotte.

With the construction of three new double-sided curbs on the enlarged Market Square, parking facilities in Charlottetown's central shopping district will now hold an additional 78 vehicles.

Each side of the new curbs will accommodate 13 vehicles. Staff Sergeant A. J. Dowling stated yesterday adding that they had been placed in such a way as to allow 16 feet for parking on either side and still leave a 14-foot driveway between each line of parked vehicles.

Cars will be parked at opposite angles on either side of the driveway. The Officer in charge of the City Traffic Detail noted; motorists entering from the east being required to park to the left and those entering from the opposite direction being required to park to the right.

Since the two original curbs on Market Square can service 17 vehicles each and a further 13 can park in the section immediately behind the Public Library, the entire area now provides sufficient space to park 125 vehicles, Staff Sgt. Dowling said.

The curbs are constructed of wood with cement ends, are about three feet wide with a clay filled centre that will later be seeded out.

In order to protect the pedestrian and prevent traffic from entering the parking area in an indiscriminate manner from Queen Street, a wooden traffic framing, and the aluminum alloy framing, and the superstructure is of aluminum alloy. This the navy explains, provides a saving in top weight, permitting an increase in space available for equipment and quarters.

The ships will be open to the public on both Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5 o'clock.

stop has been placed to the west of the Square inside the sidewalk.

A driveway approximately 20 feet wide lies between this stop and the ends of the parking curbs.

The new parking space has been of "immense help" in solving the downtown parking problem, particularly during busy shopping periods, Staff Sergeant Dowling remarked.

Prior to the opening of this new parking area, metered places filled up rapidly, and motorists were forced to drive round and round in search of a parking space," he said.

"Now it is not uncommon to see a half-block parking area empty," he added.

Staff Sergeant Dowling observed that the Police Committee intended to make provision for truck parking in that section of the Square nearest Richmond Street, adding that he had been given to understand that this work would be commenced at once.

The government may also decide to set up new legislative chambers in the building, Mr. Smallwood said. The two top floors of a 12-foot tower could be made into one high-ceilinged room which would make it "the assembly hall of any of the 10 provinces."

British P.M. Ends Visit To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower ended three days of talks Wednesday without agreeing on precisely how to counter Russia's economic cold war.

"Perhaps in the course of this year as we continue to analyze the problem," Macmillan told the National Press Club, "we may see how we can agree how to do the things we want to do."

The prime minister attended a luncheon at the club after nearly two hours of consultation with State Secretary Dulles. He then went to the White House to say goodbye to Eisenhower before flying to Ottawa, where he will spend two days before returning to London.

Macmillan held wide-ranging talks in Washington. Economic-financial matters were the prime topic.

Macmillan told the press club he and Eisenhower want a summit conference with Russia, but only if two conditions are met: First, a "reasonable chance of some success," and, second, a broad range of world issues must be open for discussion with no Soviet veto.

Macmillan said the West's military power is so effective that "no armed aggression against us is likely." But he added: "I wonder if we are equally well equipped and organized to meet the challenge of Soviet propaganda, subversion and economic penetration, now gaining volume and momentum."

NEW MONETARY FUND — Officials reported a major proposal considered was to create a $1,000,000,000 special international fund. Long-term, easy-pay loans would be made out of this fund to needy powers trying to develop their economies.

Macmillan said that although general agreement was reached on the need for more economic aid, "I do not pretend to know exactly how we should do this."

The prime minister sounded a gloomy note about chances of reaching a cold war settlement.

"There can be no real understanding and friendship until the Soviet Union has achieved sufficient self-confidence to abandon control and censorship of communications," he said.

No formal statement on the Eisenhower-Macmillan talks was issued because, the White House said, they were informal.

The prime minister made these other points to his press club audience:

1. Now is not the time for a formal U.S. - British - French summit meeting. He said he is ready any time to talk to the new French premier, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, but de Gaulle is too busy right now for a formal conference. The state department announced a little later that Dulles will go to Paris July 5 to see de Gaulle.

2. Any d's a rmanent agreement, such as to suspend nuclear tests, must include Communist China if it is to be effective.

3. Britain supports free world efforts to keep war-useful goods out of trade with the Communist bloc but believes any blanket ban on such trade will fail.

4. There was a "sound, honorable and justified" need for Britain and France to launch their military operation against the Suez Canal in late 1956, but its tactical military failure was a tragedy.
