Increased U.S. Tariffs On Lead, Zinc Recommended

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (CP)—The tariff commission Thursday called for higher duties on imports of lead and zinc in a decision that appeared certain to intensify economic friction between Canada and the United States.

The six-man board reported to President Eisenhower that it found imports of the strategic metals, the bulk of which come from Canada, are causing serious injury to the depressed American lead and zinc industry.

It recommended higher tariffs but was divided on how high they should be. Three members who support the traditionally high tariff Republican party favored the maximum permissible under present U.S. law. The three Democrats on the commission came out for more moderate boosts.

The three Republicans also recommended annual quotas of 221,700 short tons for unmanufactured lead and 325,600 short tons for unmanufactured zinc. This would cut imports by 50 per cent. The other members opposed quotas.

The final decision now is up to the president. Under U.S. law, he has 60 days in which to accept a commission recommendation, reject it, modify it or ask the commissioners for a further study. In 1954, when the commission last suggested a tariff increase on the two metals, Eisenhower turned down the recommendation.

Thursday's report followed a long study which the commission undertook when U.S. lead and zinc producers declared they were being injured by foreign imports.

Canadian producers, opposing tariff action at a public hearing here last November, said the industry's economic problems resulted from a world-wide surplus of the metals.

More than 30 countries, including Canada, Mexico, Australia, New Zealand, Yugoslavia and Venezuela, ship lead and zinc to the United States. Canada is the biggest supplier, and the principal sufferer if the recommendations go through.

In 1956, the last year on record here, Canada shipped 68 per cent—$4,578,978 worth—of her total zinc production to the United States and 24.5 per cent—$12,650,000 worth—of her lead output. The metals and mined in Newfoundland, New Brunswick, northwestern Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia.

Domestically, the recommendations come at a time when the usually buoyant U.S. economy is treading water in the worst post-war recession and when politicians, ever willing to foster domestic considerations over foreign interests, are preparing for a fall congressional election.

an enjoyable experience. The speaker as a third point emphasized the need for generous giving, especially as it applies to the Missionary and Maintenance fund of the church. We must not think of our givings in terms of dollars and cents but rather in the light of what our money will provide, he said.

SUNDAY WORSHIP
In conclusion, Mr. MacLean stressed the importance of Sunday church attendance. He said it can be pretty well assumed that, "if we are not doing the right thing on Sunday, we will not be doing the right thing on Monday and on the other days of the week."

The meeting took the form of a banquet in which the ladies of the charge were the guests of the men who waited on the tables.

A hearty sing-song followed the dinner. Wendell Lea of Charlottetown was song leader. Mrs. K. S. Rogers was accompanist. Roy Smallman was heard in two de-

MEN'S RALLY
In a few brief remarks Allison MacKinnon, President of the Maritime Council of Men of the United Church congratulated the St. Peter's Association for the progress they have made since their formation less than a year ago. He reminded them of the men's rally which is to take place May 4 in Charlottetown.

A toast to the ladies was proposed by Walter Dingwell and responded to by Mrs. Percy Robbins. The toast to the Men's Association by Leth Sanderson, responded to by the President, Gordon Coffin.

Devotions were led with scripture reading by Melvin MacLaren and prayer by the pastor Anthony Ware. The thanks of the Association was extended to the guest speaker and visiting artists by Everett Webster.

DAILY SHORT COURSES
Both dairymen and consumers have an indirect interest in the dairy short course which is being staged at Amalgamated Dairies the first of the week. The making of cheese is more of an art than a science, if the quality of the product is good that fact is found in the producers' returns and the consumer's acceptance of the producer's returns and the consumer's acceptance of the product. All those involved in the course are to be commended on a feature which should be of marked value to our cheese industry.

DIARY DISPLAY
On Monday and Tuesday at the A.P.E.C. Food Show in Moncton Prince Edward Island dairy products will be on display for the appraisal of Maritime food buyers.

This booth is made possible through co-operation on the part of the Dairymen's Association and officials of the Dairy Division of the Department of Agriculture, these officials are assuming the responsibility of setting up the booth and attending to it during the show. The Association is financing the project and carrying out much of the planning involved. The whole Food Show, it is expected, will serve a very useful purpose in publicizing to buyers the quality and variety of food being produced and processed in the Atlantic area.

SUBSIDIES AND CURBS
More and more people are becoming interested in and attempting to form an understanding of the economics involved in price supports, deficiency payments and attempts to control or curb production. The United States is frequently pointed to as a classic example what happens when price supports are fixed at levels which encourage production. That country, of course, presents the interesting spectacle of appearing on the one hand of doing something that encourages farm production and on the other hand trying to discourage it through soil banks, acreage allotments, etc. to the average observer taking a short term view of the question it doesn't appear reasonable to be encouraging production, when it is not required.

Long term requirements, however, may fully justify and indicate the need of maintaining land in production and of maintaining a sufficient labour force on the land to supply future needs. So far as curbing production is concerned no farmer ever planted a crop hoping that he was going to harvest a light one. The farmer by instinct wishes to produce abundantly and is not likely to view with favour attempts artificial or otherwise to limit production even though he may realize that there may be more money in a small volume of production.

So far as Canada is concerned taxpayers may take some consolation in the fact that Canada's expenditure on price supports and subsidies for agriculture have ters of mutual interest. There is nothing like sitting down together and ironing out common problems. The Montague Council is quite satisfied with all our relations with the Provincial Government. We have always appreciated the assistance and support given us by the Provincial Government in the past and we look forward to the continued maintenance of our friendly relations built up over the years."
