HE MADE A MISTAKE!

"I made a mistake," the old man said.
"To spend money on Shoes like those."
And a trickling tear escaped from his eye
As he looked at the holes in the toes.

He will never make such a mistake again, for hereafter we will buy GOFF BROS' Solid Leather Boots. feb20

MANY NEAR SIGHTED PERSONS who come to us to have their eyes tested cannot see the above size letters ten feet off. Some cannot see letters more than twice the size at that distance, and yet never wore glasses. This is a great mistake, as progressive Myopia, or Near-Sight, leads to blindness. By the proper fitting of Glasses when first required, and attention to advice which we give free, further progression in near-sight is prevented and the Myopia sometimes disappears.

A Reputation of Five and Twenty Years Standing

THE GREAT INVIGORATING TONIC,

CAMPBELL'S QUININE WINE.

INVALUABLE in cases of Loss of Appetite, Weak or Painful Indigestion, Malaria, Lowness of Spirits, Fevers of all kinds, and as a general Strengthening of the System when weakened by changes of the season.

It is necessary to remember that there are many so-called Quinine Wines, but that the GREAT ORIGINAL is "Campbell's," and that the genuine bears our signature upon the label. The best proof of its value is the fact that its sale at the present time is larger than ever before.

The following certificate shows how CAMPBELL'S QUININE WINE is appreciated. Having submitted two samples of Quinine Wine, imitations of the genuine, along with a sample of our own, to the Public Analyst, we received the following reply: "CAMPBELL'S is the only genuine Quinine Wine of the three samples examined at Messrs. Kenneth Campbell & Co's. request."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

False Statements Corrected.

SIR,—In this County we are blessed with civil and religious liberty, and we hope to enjoy the same for all time to come. It seems that there are certain newspapers printed in Charlottetown which leave their columns open to untruthful comments on the conduct of clergymen who are attentive to the best interests of their people and country. Better sense, a clearer judgment and a more correct knowledge of things should preserve the men in charge of those papers from allowing such unworthy stuff to appear in public, for by doing so they bring public odium on themselves, and certainly it is not in accord with civil and religious liberty.

In the Weekly Patriot of the 23rd inst. appeared a letter signed "Scrutinizer," that was a very poor compliment to the author; and other letters have appeared, both in the Patriot and Guardian, in the same unworthy strain, referring to clergymen in a very uncalculated and insulting manner. Let those parties beware, because there are limits beyond which they cannot go.

In the parishes of these clergymen there are many persons who are able and willing to testify that those comments on the conduct of their clergymen are false, and so insulting as not to be tolerated.

In St. Teresa's parish, both Liberals and Conservatives can testify that the remarks by "Scrutinizer" concerning Rev. M. J. McMillan are deliberate falsehoods.

The assertion that Father McMillan went up East to reconstruct a "Grit family of six" is as great a falsehood as could be advanced, for it is well known by the people of his parish that he endeavored to encourage and develop virtue and principle on both sides of politics, and is as anxious to have good men on one side as the other. Last Christmas Father McMillan, of St. Teresa's, promised to visit Father McLean about the 1st of March to assist him with the Easter Confessions and to visit Father Walker, of Rollo Bay at the same time. He was previously acquainted with a respectable family at Bear River Line, and had been at different times asked to visit them. When he went up East he met one of the young men of that family at Bear River Station, who asked him and accompanied him home, for it was too late and stormy to go to St. Margaret's that night. When they arrived at the house there was a kind and cheerful welcome, and two hours were spent in friendly conversation. Father McMillan did not know what side of politics they supported, and did not bother himself about it; being intelligent men and able to judge for themselves they were not asked, and therefore did not refuse to change their politics. Before returning home Father McMillan called to Souris on business that had no connection whatever with politics, and the assertion of "Scrutinizer" that he was introduced into a Tory caucus is as false as is his other statements.

Why should a newspaper, which poses as the organ of a respectable political party, slander the actions of gentlemen who are true and faithful to honor and principle and to the best interests of their people and country.

KING'S COUNTY LIBERAL.

April 30, 1891.

Matched Horses.

Farmers do not realize what an advantageous field lies before them in the direction of rearing horses that will match, or if not situated for this, through not having brood mares looking exactly alike and bred alike, then by exchanging with the tailors call a "mishit" for an animal or animals from other farms, thus getting together a double team which all buyers will want on sight. There are in this direction great opportunities lost to farmers and great gains made by dealers, says the New York Mail and Express.

Horses may look alike while standing side by side, but nothing short of being bred alike will insure matching in action, matching in speed, matching in temper and spirit. If alike in all these, size and carriage of head and tail being alike, they will sell, the price being governed by style, size, speed and the priceless qualifications that come under the head of "qualities." This means, in part, being well broken, kind, safe, and in fact all the qualities combined necessary to give character. This gives that trustworthiness that insures a feeling of safety in the minds of those riding behind such a team.

Exact matching is never fully accomplished. It is known of the South Africans that they can distinguish their horses from those of another tribe by what would appear to outsiders as indistinguishable differences. So, also, shepherds know each animal in a given flock. Wild animals and fowls have many chances of being apparently alike all others in the same flock or herd because bred together—inbred of the same strain. To the absence of the regular and long continued breeding we can charge the irregularities which creep into the formation of our domestic animals. It is for this reason that it is so difficult in any neighborhood, even where a good many horses are bred and reared, to find two young horses of like age and color that in other countries meet the requirements of a matched pair.

There is no good reason why township or neighborhood clubs cannot be formed, through the agency of which a uniform description of horse stock could be established, it being possible at all times to select pairs to go forward to the best market as matched teams. It has been true of late that farming and stock-growing have not been profitable. If there is an exception in favor of any branch carried on on the farm, this exception points unmistakably towards the horse, and most of all towards the better class of draft and driving horses for the city. Teams that match far outsell horses of like characteristics when these horses are offered singly, simply because, for the reasons given, under the present system, or rather the absence of system, it is so difficult to find matched teams for park and road driving.

For this reason horses of dissimilar color are tolerated being hooked to the same pole. This is not because of any innate fancy for mismatched pairs or pairs that are driven as such, but because of the great comfort derived from driving two horses together which travel as smoothly as would a single horse. Two horses that vie with each other in "giving up on the bit," each the equal of the other in style, gait and endurance, so that after an hour's sharp exercise they still remain even, not one requiring a touch from the whip, while the other pulls ahead, will for all practical purposes pass better for a matched team, even though entirely unlike in color, and though dissimilar in other regards than the pair exactly alike while standing still, yet when in motion they may be likened to an engine with driving wheels, one side larger and fed with more steam than the other side.

But the purpose of this short summing up is to invite attention, as hinted, to call for system in the matter of neighborhood horses breeding, that the horse of a given neighborhood may be like the swine of a given district—all alike, or approaching reasonably near to this.

What a (Story)!

For Neuralgia, a novel cure—which we can hardly believe to be true, will ever become popular—is vouched for, it is said by the New York Sun. An Irish girl in Paterson, N. J., had suffered from Neuralgia of the head and face until almost frantic with pain; actually beating the wall with her head to cause insensibility. Her employer having heard that a Dr. Terc had cured rheumatism by the sting of a wasp, asked the girl if she would try it. With courage born of despair, she exclaimed "Any other torture would be pleasure beside this." A yellow wasp was obtained, and vexed into stinging her face. Within a few moments the pain ceased, the girl fell asleep, and strange to say, never again had an attack of neuralgia. Well, we don't blame her. The remedy was probably too heroic for a second dose. A learned specialist when told this yarn remarked, "The pain may have stopped temporarily, but it could only have been temporary." Continued he. "It is a fact that a sudden shock to inflamed and painful nerves will stop pain," but the remedy is worse than the disease, as many unthinking people in after years find out, who apply fiery and dangerous compounds externally to stop Neuralgia and Rheumatism. They only continue to shock their nervous system, ignorant of the fact that, as in the morphine or alcohol habit their mental and moral nature is thus gradually being destroyed. "Make haste slowly if you expect to cure any nerve disease" was the advice to a lady by a friend who had been cured of chronic neuralgia by using for some time Johnson's Anodyne Liniment inhaled, taken internally, and applied externally, as advised in the wrapper around every bottle. Neuralgia is a fever or inflammation of the nerves, and only by degrees can any inflammation be cured; and then only by an anodyne treatment. Old Dr. Johnson had this in mind when he devised his Anodyne Liniment; a remedy now known to every one, as it deserves to be. Surely a medicine without real merit could not have survived for eighty years, as this one has done.
