"ARE YOU READY?"—Head Beer Bros. ad. We understand the Barren Co. have sold out their Grain Street store, and will not sell at auction as advertised.

HEART'S HALL.—Miss Gaik will conduct the services at Heart's Hall, East Royalty, to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock.

A GOOD CHRISTMAS NUMBER.—The Christmas number of Gripback is a splendid affair. It is for sale at R. H. Mason's news stand.

THE SOCIAL TUESDAY evening in the Brick Methodist Church promises to be quite a success. Look out for the programme in Monday's paper.

CHRISTIANITY AND AGNOSTICISM.—Rev. James Simpson will tomorrow evening deliver the last of his excellent course of lectures on Christianity and Agnosticism.

LAUNDRY AGAIN.—The steam ferry boat Ellen, which was lately undergoing extensive repairs under the supervision of Mr. Amable Coffin, of Mount Stewart, was successfully launched this forenoon.

CHIRIATY.—The many friends of Miss Robertson, of Bonshaw, were pained to learn of her sudden death last evening. Though ill for some time, up till yesterday she was entertained of her recovery. Perhaps no one in the community will be more generally mourned for. Kind and affectionate in disposition, she lived for others and, sustained by unflinching trust in Him who doeth all things well, has thus early passed on to her reward.

MASONS' CONCERT.—The Masonic concert in connection with the Ladies Exchange and tea, which is to be held in the Opera House next Thursday, 20th, promises to be the grand musical and literary treat of the season. The finale of the first and second acts of the opera Olivette will be performed by a chorus of thirty voices, with recitations, readings, vocal solos, and the grand march by 24 young people, will be along with the price of admission. Popular prices 22 and 25 cents. Programme on Monday.

IN MEMORIAM.

On December 3rd, 1894, there passed from earth to her heavenly home—in a strange land, yet surrounded by many loving friends—Fanny Mutch, the beloved daughter of Henry and Margaret Mutch, of Southport.

About fifteen months ago, in the best of health and full of a laudable ambition to lead a useful and honorable life, she left her home and loved ones to take a position in Elliot Hospital, in Manchester, N. H., of which Miss Lizzie Barr, of this city, is the matron.

After entering upon her duties as a nurse, she devoted herself with great zeal to her important duties, dedicating her sweet young life to alleviating the pain and distress of her suffering fellow-creatures.

One short year sufficed to win the love and esteem of her fellow workers and the confidence of the medical faculty of the institution to such a degree that she was entrusted with critical cases in the homes of the patrons of the hospital, from whom she received the highest testimonials.

While attending one of these cases she was stricken with fever which, in a few short weeks, terminated fatally in spite of all that the best medical skill and kind, loving friends could do. Her remains were brought to her native place, and on Saturday the 31st inst., were laid in the grave to await the last summons. "Come, ye blessed of my Father, for I was sick and ye visited me, enter them into the joy of thy Lord."

Since her decease many tributes have been received by her sorrowing parents from the trustees and staff of the Hospital and speaking of the very high place she had won in their affection.

The trustees showing their appreciation of her noble self-sacrificing labors by furnishing an elegant casket and sending the remains home by express, all at the expense of the Institution.

A beautiful pillow of flowers bearing the motto "classmate 1891" and other floral gifts spoke of the love of her fellow workers in Elliot Hospital.

An analysis of the industrial census of 1891 is being made by George Johnson, statistician. The report, when completed, will show how unfounded is the complaint that the industrial development of the decade was magnified by the inclusion of civil industries in the category of industrial establishments.

DR. MORRISON'S LECTURE.

Rev. Dr. Morrison was greeted by a packed house in the A. O. H. last evening. The discourse on the "Life and Times of Daniel O'Connell" was a capital one. The lecturer gave a graphic description of the disabilities under which Catholics labored prior to the days of emancipation, and of O'Connell's superhuman efforts in facing a hostile parliament to listen to the just and reasonable demands of the Irish people to be represented in parliament by their co-religionists.

Rev. M. J. McMillan of St. Teresa's, in moving a vote of thanks, paid a glowing tribute to O'Connell, as always being a friend of the poor and oppressed of all countries. The motion was seconded by James H. Reddin, Esq., and carried unanimously. The President, Mr. P. McGuigan, occupied the chair.

THE LATE MAJOR JARVIS.

The following tribute of respect in memory of the late Major Jarvis, whose death we recorded a short time ago, and which was written by a brother officer, appeared in the Calgary Tribune of 5th December. It will be the feeling of many that the writer became acquainted with the late Major Jarvis in the seventies, and had the advantage of being a brother officer in the Winnipeg field battery until 1878.

In 1883 the relationship was again resumed, the difference being that Lieut. Jarvis had become a Major and had command of the battery. As an organizer and commander of men, so far as he was tried, Jarvis was not surpassed by many. His personal courage was tried to the full many times, and always with the one result, that of benefit to his battery and credit to himself. His thoughtfulness on the march, in camp, in quarters, and in action, for the comfort, welfare and safety of his command are known to all who had the honor to serve under him in 1885.

His later life in the N. W. M. Police has been passed at Regina, at Wood Mountain, at Maple Creek, and at Calgary, in command of various divisions of that force, and in that capacity the writer has again had the advantage of being at times associated with him, and has found him on the plains, as on the Saskatchewan, a kind friend, a good comrade and a good servant of Queen and country.

To-day two ex-comrades, who had served under him in the police, and one who had been his orderly in the battery in '85, called on me anxious to hear the latest news as to the illness of one they respected and loved.

So through all ranks the anxiety of the anxiety of the last few days, has spread, and to-night the sorrow is not alone at the barracks in Calgary, but all through the West where comrades of '85 or of the plains are to be found.

Major Jarvis formerly resided in Winnipeg, and for years practiced at his profession there, that of a civil engineer, subsequently entering into partnership with W. J. Macaulay in the lumber business. When the C. P. R. was first projected Major Jarvis spent a winter in the Rocky Mountains making exploratory surveys, and later visited Hudson's Bay on a similar mission.

Deceased was a son of the late Chief Justice Jarvis, of Prince Edward Island, and was born in Charlottetown in 1846. He received his education in England and Germany.

Miss Dwyer, who was throughout the past summer a visitor at Government House, the guest of the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Howland, has returned to her home in Kingston.

Rev. Father Burke has been spending a few days with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Howland. He left for Alberton this morning.

Our Conundrum Was Answered Correctly by the Following:

1st—Master J. J. McLEOD. 2nd— " J. G. McPHAIL. 3rd— " JOHN LIGHTIZER.

Master Lightizer says in his answer that we are giving a larger discount than 23 per cent under competitors' price. We must confess Johnny is right, as we do not want 40 per cent. profit on our goods, therefore the discount we can sell at below competitors will be greater than 23 per cent. Call and get your prizes, boys.

BIG RUSH still coming our way. It makes us laugh sometimes to see how easy it is to sell goods at our prices; still at other times we feel sad to see good goods selling so cheap, but then such is life.
