

UNIQUE COLLECTION AT THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA

During the past century or two many ingenious types of mechanical coin banks have been devised and sold by different craftsmen throughout North America. The theory behind their invention was to teach children the thrift habit of regular savings. The amount of time, thought and effort that went into the creation of these banks were prodigious in relation to their original cost of $1 to $3 each. Among those who first started a collection of these unique savings devices in the United States was Walter P. Chrysler, millionaire auto-industrialist. The only known Canadian collection belongs to Percy Jack of Toronto. Mr. Jack has loaned his entire collection to the Bank of Nova Scotia and some fourteen models are now on display at the local branch here. Seen examining the coin banks are two members of the Bank's staff: Mary Ledwell (left) and Jean O'Brien. Miss Ledwell looks over a type of bank in which the coin is placed on the end of a soldier's musket and when a lever is pressed it is shot into the container. The type examined by Miss O'Brien has something of the same idea. In this case the coin is placed in the artillery man's hand. When the mechanism is released the coin drops from the hand into the mouth of the cannon which in turn fires it into a fort. All pieces on display are in good working order and are most interesting to see.

Ham Operators To Hold Trials

The Lieutenant - Governor's cottage at Holland Cove will be the scene of a ham radio operators' field day to be held June 22-29. Governor Hyndman, an ardent amateur radio operator for many years, has made his cottage available for the occasion and if his Governmental duties will permit he will no doubt be present to participate with some 25 operators throughout the Province. The field day is an annual event and is sponsored by the Keith Rogers Memorial Radio Club of Charlottetown. From five o'clock Saturday evening until five o'clock Sunday evening they will communicate with other operators in Canada and the United States as well as in other countries of the world. In addition to the twenty five licensed ham operators on the Island there is a large body of student followers who receive tuition from their seniors from time to time. Ham radio operators throughout the world enjoy a most interesting hobby which has proven its worth in times of emergency. Most notable of such emergencies that are recalled on Prince Edward Island are hurricane Edna and the sleet storm of 1955.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—An Argentine airliner with three engines on fire ditched in the surf near a Brazilian island Tuesday. All 22 aboard leaped out and waded ashore. As they raced up the beach away from danger, the plane exploded and burned. Some were injured, but none dangerously.

The four-engined DC-6 of the Aerolineas Argentinas developed engine trouble soon after leaving Rio's international airport for Buenos Aires on a flight from Europe. It then was reported landing in the shallows off Ilha Grande, about 75 miles southwest of Rio de Janeiro. Brazilian Navy boats took part in the rescue operation. Broad Plans For Development Of Canadian North Outlined OTTAWA (CP)—Broad plans for development of the Canadian far north and other aspects of resources exploitation and conservation were outlined Tuesday by Resources Minister Hamilton.

The minister told the Commons mines, forests and waters committee that:

1. The federal government plans to maintain full sovereignty over the farthest - north Arctic reaches and utilize them fully for commercial, research and other purposes.

2. New regulations for oil and gas exploration in the Northwest Territories, aimed at giving incentive to companies and also preserving much of these resources under public ownership, may be expected in two or three weeks.

3. A proposed national conference on resources conservation probably will not be held until next winter, though originally planned for the fall.

4. The federal government has reached "complete agreement in substance" with British Columbia and Saskatchewan on the joint financing of access roads to new resources, and also has authorized Manitoba to go ahead with two roads pending signing of formal agreements. B.C. and Saskatchewan projects are under review.

5. The government plans to collect all available data on resources south of Great Slave Lake, so that the railways can choose the route offering the best possibilities for a line to the south shore of the lake at Pine Point, N.W.T.

needly lands develop their economies and to step up world trade. "I hope this afternoon we will be able to break some new ground," Dulles told a press conference before meeting with Macmillan.

A key plan before them, it was learned, proposes that the United States, Britain, West Germany and other Western powers set up a fund from which long - term easy-pay loans would be made to underdeveloped countries.

Impetus for this idea apparently came from new Soviet successes in economic penetration of underdeveloped areas.

Attendant

"This is a challenge to those responsible," he added, "but with the co-operation of all, the public will not be disappointed."

VARIES LITTLE

An examination of the hospital's records during the past 100 years revealed that "percentage-wise" the ratio of admissions to discharges varied but little each year, he said.

During the early years of his administration as Minister of Health in the Province the Premier recalled that at one time there were on the hospital's staff only one doctor and two R.N.'s and for one whole year there was no doctor.

"We took a chance and got by," he observed.

IN DAILY CONTACT

The nursing attendant is the one person in "day-to-day contact with the patient", Dr. Gilbert said, adding that in this way he or she becomes the "significant other person" in the patient's life.

Through the nursing attendant the mentally ill patient gains a "new knowledge of reality" the Ottawa psychiatrist added.

The guest speaker declared that it was most important that the attendants steer clear of the "foreman" idea.

"They should live with and participate in the various activities of the patients," he asserted.

UP 119 PER CENT

Between the years 1948 and 1956 first admission to mental hospitals in Canada rose by 119 per cent he stated.

This appeared to be an "enormous increase" he said, but did not take into account such factors as better care facilities, more trained personnel, and the improved "social acceptance" of psychiatry.

Mental health cost Canadians better than $79,000,000 in 1957 he said adding that at December 31 last, 71,000 patients were still under treatment in various Canadian centres.

Ten years ago only "therapeutic neediness" or "custodial care" was in effect in most Canadian institutions he declared.

The recent development of tranquilizers compared favorably with the discovery of anesthetics in the last century, the Ottawa expert noted, adding that by their use more mentally ill patient became "amenable" to treatment.
