who were employed by the CPR. In contrast, CNR officials at Toronto report about 50 men are being hired in Toronto yards since some Ontario yardmen went on a five-day week Oct. 1. Others would be hired at Stratford and Belleville.

In Alberta, the CNR said further layoffs can be expected if the decline in railway traffic continues. All Alberta layoffs were reported to be temporary.

Not Permanent W. E. Robinson, general manager of the CNR's Atlantic region, said he hoped the 40 Montreal layoffs will not be permanent. He said those dismissed included 23 in the shops and 10 in the roundhouse. If traffic picked up the men could go back to work in December.

The CPR said the men at McAdam will probably be rehired for the winter shipping season. About 2,200 would get jobs then in various New Brunswick centres.

Only temporary workers were laid off at Charlottetown. Sixteen section men and 20 in the CNR's bridge and building department were affected.

Britain Plans New Pact In Southern Asia

By Arthur Gavshon

LONDON, (AP)—Britain soon will launch a project for an Allied defence, political and economic council in southern Asia, diplomatic officials reported Tuesday. They said the idea is to clear the way for an eventual wider Pacific alliance, bound by mutual pledges of defence and economic co-operation.

Prime Minister Churchill is understood to be sponsoring the project personally. At its core would be such Commonwealth countries as India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Australia and New Zealand. Eventually the aim would be to enrol the United States, France, possibly Japan and other countries in the area.

Although still in its formative and planning stage, the Foreign Office has been sounding out some countries about the idea.

Spokesmen of the foreign office would say only discussions about this sort of thing are going on, but are confidential.

Arraigned At Geo'town Yesterday

*Sherman Raymond Sanderson, 19, of Midgell, was arrested and arraigned yesterday afternoon at Georgetown before Magistrate J. W. MacDonald on a charge of falling to stop at the scene of an accident. He was remanded until Monday, October 19th.

The case arose out of an accident which occurred late Monday afternoon when a light coupe driven by Mr. P. J. McKenna was sideswiped by a truck allegedly driven by Sanderson. As a result of the accident, Mrs. McKenna, wife of the coupe's driver received serious chest injuries and is now a patient in the King's County Hospital at Montague. Her husband received minor injuries to his head.

The accident was investigated by the Montague R.C.M.P. detachment.

Five Provinces

means that they could still draw from their 1953 allotments. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have not asked for any federal funds yet, the general said, because they believe they should be allowed to raise their "matching" funds in any way they see fit. The federal government reserves the right to approve or reject the ratio of provincial and municipal contributions. Normally, this split is fairly even. He cited a typical case:

"The province decides on a $30,000 civil defence project. We will pay $15,000 and the remainder is usually shared by the province and the municipality concerned."

New Brunswick and Nova Scotia want to handle their own financial arrangements without any federal "interference," he said. The case of Prince Edward Island is different, the general said. Although the province has on paper a $7,874 yearly quota in federal funds, it has decided the amount is so small that it can be raised locally without federal assistance.

80 Per Cent

Of the other five provinces, British Columbia and Alberta have utilized their full quota of federal funds. Saskatchewan and Manitoba have requested and received about 80 per cent and Newfoundland about 40 per cent, the general said.

The annual quotas for the 10 provinces, totalling $1,445,650, are: Newfoundland $32,978; Prince Edward Island $7,874; Nova Scotia $85,696; New Brunswick $45,956; Quebec $433,081; Ontario $492,008; Manitoba $83,367; Saskatchewan $66,538; Alberta $85,545; and British Columbia $132,616.

Gen. Worthington, commenting on the Ontario and Quebec contention that all civil defence expenditures should be shouldered by the federal government, said:

Responsibility

"We feel there is a distinct responsibility at each level of government and with every community. The responsibility must entail a financial outlay as well."

Civil defense officials had agreed that Second World War experience in the United Kingdom showed that public co-operation is greatest when local communities are given a high degree of responsibility for their own defence.

The marriage age for most girls in old French Canada was about 14 or 15.

Montague Town Council Meeting

"The regular monthly meeting of the Montague Town Council was held in the council room last evening with Mayor Yeo presiding. Present were Councillors Reynolds, MacGowan and Greene. Following the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, the bills for the month were read and passed. A delegation from the fire department led by Fire Chief Doug Coffin presented a request for taking on three more men in the fire department and equipping them with rubber clothing. Also to be added to the department was the need of more hose, axes and other equipment. It was moved that the fire chief be granted permission to add more members to the department, and investigate the acquisition of the required equipment.

Reports were heard from the different committees, streets, lights, police, town building and sanitation.

It was moved that Mr. Kenneth Clements be appointed as dog tax collector and to receive 25 per cent of the taxes which he collected. The collection of this tax has provided some difficulty in the past and it was thought desirable to attempt a new method to have it collected.

Considerable discussion ensued with reference to the additional coating of paving given to the streets which were paved last year, and it was agreed that a good job had been done, and that a new program would be undertaken next year to have other streets in the town paved if possible.

Following a discussion of several other correspondence matters, the meeting adjourned.

had arrived for the East Grafton street repair work and would be installed as soon as possible.

Councillor T. Roy Cudmore did not believe that members of the Council should have to go around their various wards looking bad street conditions. He thought this should be done by city employees in their ordinary routine. Councillor Storey agreed and said the members had to receive altogether too many trivial complaints that should be attended to by the City Hall staff.

Mr. M. A. Farmer after presenting the Police report stated that there was presently a great deal of minor vandalism in the city. Part of the cause was failure of victims to lay formal complaints, but he thought a great deal was caused by lack of proper parental control. He did not like the idea of bringing youngsters into court, but if conditions continued he thought it might become necessary to hire outside detectives to handle the matter Mayor J. D. Stewart suggested that the parents of children causing damage be called into court.

Kidnap Claims

Then they set about collecting the ransom. It took six days of writing and phoning representatives of the family before the $600,000 was tossed over a bridge to be picked up by Hall, Robert Ledlerman of Tulsa, Okla., a business associate of Greenleaf, said the $5-penny money bundle had been thrown out once before but the kidnapers couldn't find it and he had to go back and get it himself.

And at least 15 different persons tried to muscle in on the money, Ledlerman said. They represented themselves as the kidnapers and demanded ransom of $5,000 to $250,000. The demands totalled $1,500,000.

The legal procedure to try Hall under the Lindbergh law, and possibly put him in the gas chamber was already in progress. Calling a grand jury lessened any chance of a legal slip-up.

The same was planned for Mrs. Heady as it became evident she had more than a helper's part in carrying out the plot. William Rosenhal, Mrs. Heady's lawyer, has not indicated what defence he plans. Hall still has no lawyer.

Kidnap Killer

Mrs. Heady would get off lightly. There are federal kidnapping charges, Missouri State kidnapping charges and murder charges in Kansas either filed or soon to be filed against both Mrs. Heady and Hall.

A federal grand jury was summoned here to speed along an indictment and trial.

Mrs. Heady, in whose flower garden at St. Joseph, Mo., the boy's body was buried, said she put the finishing touches on the kidnap plan. Hall said he had spent at least two years hatching his scheme.

Three Shots

Why the kidnapers killed the little boy never has been revealed. The text of their confessions has not been released. Presumably, since only the two were involved, they felt they couldn't or didn't want to guard him during negotiations with the family.

Little Bobby never had a chance from the time Mrs. Heady posed as his aunt and whisked him away from the Notre Dame de Sion School to a waiting grave.

Hall shot him three times, missing twice before the fatal shot. It was one of those bullets, imbedded in the floor mat of Mrs. Heady's station wagon that finally brought a confession from them.

Police Court Revenue

City Recorder K. M. Martin, K. C., stated that the greater revenue accruing to the Police Court came as a result of convictions under the new Criminal Code provisions where those convicted of driving vehicles while their ability is impaired are "cheerfully" paying $100 fines rather than spend seven days in jail.

Several members agreed with Mr. Cudmore that if some houses are condemned as unfit for human habitation, as has been suggested as a health measure, the people now living in them would have no place else to go.

The matter of having the War Memorial on Grafton street cleaned up for attention again was expressed by the belief that the work could be done by Bruce Stewart Company. It was decided to investigate and attempt to have this done before November.

At the same time the annoyance of children running and yelling during the ceremonies at the Monument was discussed. Councillor Farmer suggested that in future such children be taken to the Police Station and kept there during the services or until their parents called to get them.

for the biggest mass demonstration so far against the British-American decision to turn zone A of the free territory of Trieste over to Italy.

"Give us rifles," the crowd cried. "We will beat up the Italian thieves. Down with Italy. Down with premier Pella, the dog. We want Tito to be consulted. We will give our lives, but we will never give up an inch of Trieste."

The demonstrations showed signs of increasing, rather than slackening, after disclosure of the Anglo-American decision last Thursday.

President Tito has proclaimed publicly this country's determination to take over the Trieste Telephone Company and the Public Utility Board. It was also agreed to ask expert advice from the staff of the Experimental Farm.

Another resolution proposed by chairman of the Tender Committee, Mr. Elmer MacDonald, called for the acceptance of the tender of Mr. E. R. Ruthart for the new roofing job to be done on the City Hall. The amount of the tender was $2,726.50.

Few Deer Exist On Island

Very little has been heard of late regarding the deer population in Prince Edward Island. There are still some in existence borne out by the above picture taken in the vicinity of Bunbury. The doe here bore the number 139. It proved very tame as can be observed on the approach of Tom Davies, Jr. In the background is Keith Sticking.—(Photo by David MacDonald).

Expect Britain To Renew Pressure For Top-Level Talks

By STANLEY PRIDDLE LONDON, (Reuters)—Britain is expected to renew its pressure for top-level talks with Russia when U. S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles comes here this week to meet the British and French foreign ministers.

Prime Minister Churchill made clear in a speech Saturday he still favors a get-together with President Eisenhower and Premier Malenkov.

Russia has not yet agreed to the offer of a meeting, but neither has she turned it down. The West is due to make a new bid for the conference in a note which is being drafted in London this week. The talks will take place here Friday and Saturday.

With the question of the future of Trieste high on the agenda for the meeting, it was considered possible here that Tito was considering the advisability of placing Yugoslavia's position before them by sending a representative from this country.

Russian Notes

A special edition of the newspaper Borba, voice of the ruling Communist Party here, editorially registered a protest against what it termed an attempt by "the big powers to impose their will against small countries."

The British and American information services here remained open for business despite the atmosphere of tension. Russia's entry into the dispute in notes to the United States and Britain and in the United Nations touched off immediate speculation over its diplomatic—and possible military—implications. Its potential significance rested upon the fact Tito would find it hazardous to carry out his warning of military action to bar Italian troops from Trieste unless he can discover what Russia would do then.
