

MR. AND MRS. HUBERT ROCH

Double Ring Ceremony Performed At Basilica

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Dunstan's Basilica when Anne Doris Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Morrison, Charlottetown, became the bride of Hubert Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arseno Roch, Chedoke, Cape Breton.

Rev. Austin Bradley, cousin of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass. During the Mass appropriate hymns were sung by Messrs Frank MacIntyre and Wilbur Blanchard. Mrs. Joseph Dougan presided at the organ.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her step-father, looked charming in a street-length dress of royal blue wool, with white hat and matching accessories. She carried a white prayer book enhanced by red and white roses and white satin streamers.

Miss Noreen Mullen, attended the bride and looked attractive in a rosewood wool dress, with pink feather hat and matching accessories and carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Robert Inkpen, friend of the groom, was best man. Messrs Frank and Emmett Bradley, brothers of the bride, were ushers. The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding a rose knitted suit, topped by a black seal cape and accessories in black.

Immediately after the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for fifty guests was served at the Queen Hotel. The bride's table decorated with floral bouquets and centered with a three tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom, was very attractive.

Mr. Wilbur Blanchard was M.C. and the toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Austin Bradley to which the groom responded. Other complimentary remarks were made by Messrs Thomas Bradley and Andre Lacasse. Mr. Al Blanchard, at the piano, supplied very pleasing music during the reception.

Following the reception, the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Cape Breton and Boston, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Roch will reside in St. John, N.B., where the groom is a civil engineer, employed with the Federal Government.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was guest of honour at the home of Miss Joyce Dockendorff, at a shower given by friends of the Royal Bank, where she was formerly employed.—Photo by Margaret Mallett.

Manageress Of Thousands Is Island Woman's Job

The following well deserved tribute appeared in a recent issue of the Halifax Herald, and we are happy to have it mimeographed as a result of requests for copies.—This wrote Roy Grant, secretary of the Maritime Federation of Agriculture.

"Manageress for Five Thousand Farmers" is the heading of the article written by Clarence Johnson. The following is the article.—Agriculture Federation secretary - treasurer Mrs. Nadine Archibald runs a widespread organization of many masters with untrusting energy, a hand that is firm and a heart that is close to the soil.

Unique in the farming industry of Canada is the position held in the Nova Scotia Federation of Agriculture by a 44-year-old native of Prince Edward Island, Mrs. Nadine Archibald.

For many years now a resident of Truro, this dynamic person has since 1950 held the position of secretary-treasurer of the federation and has been one of the guiding forces behind many of its policies and achievements. She has served as well in other capacities which lend her the honor of being one of the leading women agriculturists, not only in Nova Scotia, but in all Canada. These include Secretary-Treasurer of the Nova Scotia Milk and Cream Producers, and Secretary - Treasurer of the Nova Scotia Co-operative Abattoir Limited.

A busy person indeed, Mrs. Archibald conducts all the affairs of the five thousand-man Nova Scotia Federation of Agriculture from her office in Truro. Working under the direction of the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors, Mrs. Archibald publishes a monthly news letter, sends out numerous bulletins and information pamphlets, supervises a group accident insurance program for members, carries on liaison with the Maritime and Federal federations, tends to the finance of her organization and a host of other duties too numerous to list. In other words, she is unofficially manager as well as Secretary-Treasurer. Serving five thousand employers of conflicting opinions is not an easy task and particularly so in this so far a woman. She refuses to be a yes-woman with any of them, doing instead what she feels to be in the interests of the organization as a whole. For this reason it can be expected that she has her enemies but her frank, fearless and straight-forward approach, her refusal to be pushed around by any individual with personal selfish interests, and her ability to talk to farmers on their own level has won for her the respect of the majority of the big organization.

In the national field, too, she has had an active association with the profession she loves. She served for a time as woman director of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, and was a member of a National Committee named by the C.F.A. to review organization and program methods of that body. At the present time she is secretary - treasurer of the Eastern Agriculture Conference.

Born on a farm at Royalty, near Charlottetown, Mrs. Archibald was the third child of Mr. and Mrs. James Roper. Early in life she learned the rudiments of farming, for her father operated an 80-acre mixed farm, with his particular interest being purebred Guernsey cattle. Until she was 14 Mrs. Archibald went to a rural school. "I don't believe I was interested in much else but farming," she recalls. "The whole activity of my family centred around the family farm. We had little other interest."

In 1926, the Roper family moved to Princeport, a fine farming community some 12 miles from Truro, where her father had accepted the position of manager of the Beech Hill Farm, then operated by the late F. W. Swindells. Her brother, Howard, was herdsman at the farm.

Mrs. Archibald continued to make her home with the family and after the death of Mr. Swindells, her father and brother purchased the farm which they operated for many years. Here she learned much about the industry which now has her whole attention.

She studied at the Halifax Ladies College and took classes at the Maritime Business College in Halifax. On completion of her course there, she accepted her first position with the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture as Secretary to Dairy Superintendent W. J. Bird. She held this position for ten years until in 1939 she was married to Orison Archibald, Truro, a graduate of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College. Mr. Archibald following a brief period of farming at Princeport, joined the R.C.A.F. in 1941, serving on the Canadian West Coast. Three children were born of the marriage, Holly, 17, Thomas 15, and Mary 12.

Her marriage a war casualty, Mrs. Archibald was faced with the problem of rearing three small children alone. She returned to the field of agriculture, this time as secretary to the Board of Directors of the then Nova Scotia Farmers' Association. The following year, because of her interest and experience in agriculture, she was named its secretary treasurer.

Since taking over her position, Mrs. Archibald has become one of the strongest supporters of farm forums. It is her opinion that these forums are the only means by which a sound farmers organization can be built with informed members and the right type of leadership. Of the co-operative movement, which she states is one of the chief means by which people in the Maritimes can strengthen their economy, she is a strong supporter.

Perhaps no other member of the farmers' organization has the faith in the present co-operative abattoir exhibited by Mrs. Archibald. As secretary-treasurer of this body, she has worked tirelessly in its promotion, being one of the prime movers and closely associated with all stages of its development. She has shown throughout implicit faith that ultimately the construction of a modern $1,500,000 slaughtering, processing and cold storage plant in Halifax will become a reality.

That the establishment of the abattoir, linked with an orderly marketing program, will mean a higher net return for livestock producers and greater utilization of our grasslands, community pastures, and other promotional programs for greater farm production, for which a ready market in this province is already assured, is the firm belief of Mrs. Archibald.

Mrs. Archibald is not one who likes to live in the past. But she does like to recall her younger days on the home farm. She re-

ELLEN'S DIARY

He Is The Nicest Baby In The Whole Wide World

Continuing the mild weather, another new week dawned for us goldenly this morning, behind the burnished tips of the trees down on the hills to the east. A nice week... bright, promising, "the best yet" it came to mind, fresh, unspoiled and unlined.

Leading, we remembered, those who may not enjoy as much as do we the "unknown" ways of the Winter, to the sunshine and loveliness of the lilac time, the golden-green grass and the blossoms of Spring.

"There's a good month and a half yet of winter" James nodded, eyeing a calendar when we were at supper this evening at the edge of dusk.

"There's only a good month and a half to Spring" we chuckled. "I suppose," he smiled "there are two ways of looking at it... Well this" he offered "was surely a great day for our work in the bush Ellen. We couldn't have had any better."

"Did you take much?" we asked.

"A nice lot" he replied. "Yes, a right nice lot for a beginning. The power saw... and good help" he nodded. "You should have seen Gage and Mack at work there after school. They were off to a corner by themselves, each one felling and limbing and chopping into lengths his own tree. Like a pair of beavers they were," he said chuckling at the memory.

And it's surprising how well they accomplished—and how well they can swing an axe."

"It's dangerous work for them" we commented.

"It is" he agreed. "But they are used to handling an axe. So I warn them to be careful—and leave them to themselves."

ST. CATHERINES W.I.

The monthly meeting of the St. Catherines W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Alex MacQuarrie on December 11, 1957. The president presided and the meeting opened by repeating the creed in unison. Roll Call was answered with the exchange of Christmas gifts.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Correspondence was read and discussed. It was moved and seconded that all bills be paid. One member contributed to the birthday box. This gave a total of $3.63 for the year. It was moved and seconded to send Christmas treats to the sick and shut-ins, in the district.

Next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. F. W. Stretch. Roll call for the year is to be decided on at this time. Mrs. W. R. Shaw is in charge of the programme.

Meeting adjourned, and a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

members particularly the community spirit which existed in those days when neighbors met together and depended upon their own initiative for entertainment—when people in rural areas worked and played together. "Those days are gone forever," she reflects, "but we must devise some means of holding our rural communities together. The farm family must be able to maintain the same standard of living for effort and investment as those engaged in other professions."
