

WATERGATE Aquatic Centre

Summer Side and Prince County Students Greatly Needed

The life saving display was given by six of the young people who have successfully completed the junior life saving course held at the "Y" this winter. They demonstrated in a realistic manner three life saving breaks and carries and three methods of artificial respiration.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

"Prince Edward Island is experiencing a mass exodus of young, healthy, and intelligent people for the summer jobs. It is a great benefit to the province if we could be encouraged to stay," said Mr. Murphy.

"These people, and I am talking very much to students looking for summer jobs, find it very difficult to find employment in their own province," he said.

"I am firmly convinced that if many, many more openings are available for summer employment, many more students would be available to fill them."

"One of the reasons I think that young people are not being hired is that they are not being trained in their own province. This course is completely unworkable for the students who are workers, they have to be, for they must make enough money to live on through a school year."

Mr. Murphy also pointed out how the summer season is certainly the busiest of them all on the island and the need for more workers is great, but still there is this reluctance to hire high school and college students.

NO COMPLAINTS He said that he has never heard where an employer who had hired summer help had ever complained, in fact most hired year from the teaching staff and the board of trustees. Hector MacKenzie, Cansco Cove, moved to the island with Brent C. Wood for his untiring efforts in getting the school building under operation.

Mr. Murphy did, however, name possible job sources such as: soft drink stand, creameries, summer resort hotels, construction work, and service stations. He said that these were the old established sources of employment for students and the positions were filled each year. He also explained that a e a year many students came to his office looking for help a a each year many have to be turned away, most due to the lack of money. He said that the first impression was not good. He emphasized the importance of a appearance and good manners when looking for work.

"A lot of fellows come in here in groups of five or six, joking and laughing, and it doesn't look as though they were really serious about the whole thing. It pays to come alone," he said.

When job hunting he felt it was important to seek out the right man, preferably the personal manager. References he thought were not too important in summer work because anyone with the desire and ability to work through St. Dunstan's and Prince of Wales and similar institutions certainly would be given good enough reference in it.

FEW POSITIONS When asked about positions he was aware of at the present time, Mr. Murphy said that he had seen many new ones had appeared in recent years but not nearly enough to fill the need. The island has no industry to speak of and the wages are about as low as they can get, but he said there could be many more openings if employers would only realize it is a potent working force we could have.

Mr. Murphy did, however, name possible job sources such as: soft drink stand, creameries, summer resort hotels, construction work, and service stations. He said that these were the old established sources of employment for students and the positions were filled each year. He also explained that a e a year many students came to his office looking for help a a each year many have to be turned away, most due to the lack of money. He said that the first impression was not good. He emphasized the importance of a appearance and good manners when looking for work.

"A lot of fellows come in here in groups of five or six, joking and laughing, and it doesn't look as though they were really serious about the whole thing. It pays to come alone," he said.

When job hunting he felt it was important to seek out the right man, preferably the personal manager. References he thought were not too important in summer work because anyone with the desire and ability to work through St. Dunstan's and Prince of Wales and similar institutions certainly would be given good enough reference in it.

FEW POSITIONS When asked about positions he was aware of at the present time, Mr. Murphy said that he had seen many new ones had appeared in recent years but not nearly enough to fill the need. The island has no industry to speak of and the wages are about as low as they can get, but he said there could be many more openings if employers would only realize it is a potent working force we could have.

Mr. Murphy did, however, name possible job sources such as: soft drink stand, creameries, summer resort hotels, construction work, and service stations. He said that these were the old established sources of employment for students and the positions were filled each year. He also explained that a e a year many students came to his office looking for help a a each year many have to be turned away, most due to the lack of money. He said that the first impression was not good. He emphasized the importance of a appearance and good manners when looking for work.

"A lot of fellows come in here in groups of five or six, joking and laughing, and it doesn't look as though they were really serious about the whole thing. It pays to come alone," he said.

When job hunting he felt it was important to seek out the right man, preferably the personal manager. References he thought were not too important in summer work because anyone with the desire and ability to work through St. Dunstan's and Prince of Wales and similar institutions certainly would be given good enough reference in it.

FEW POSITIONS When asked about positions he was aware of at the present time, Mr. Murphy said that he had seen many new ones had appeared in recent years but not nearly enough to fill the need. The island has no industry to speak of and the wages are about as low as they can get, but he said there could be many more openings if employers would only realize it is a potent working force we could have.

Mr. Murphy did, however, name possible job sources such as: soft drink stand, creameries, summer resort hotels, construction work, and service stations. He said that these were the old established sources of employment for students and the positions were filled each year. He also explained that a e a year many students came to his office looking for help a a each year many have to be turned away, most due to the lack of money. He said that the first impression was not good. He emphasized the importance of a appearance and good manners when looking for work.

"A lot of fellows come in here in groups of five or six, joking and laughing, and it doesn't look as though they were really serious about the whole thing. It pays to come alone," he said.

When job hunting he felt it was important to seek out the right man, preferably the personal manager. References he thought were not too important in summer work because anyone with the desire and ability to work through St. Dunstan's and Prince of Wales and similar institutions certainly would be given good enough reference in it.

FEW POSITIONS When asked about positions he was aware of at the present time, Mr. Murphy said that he had seen many new ones had appeared in recent years but not nearly enough to fill the need. The island has no industry to speak of and the wages are about as low as they can get, but he said there could be many more openings if employers would only realize it is a potent working force we could have.

Mr. Murphy did, however, name possible job sources such as: soft drink stand, creameries, summer resort hotels, construction work, and service stations. He said that these were the old established sources of employment for students and the positions were filled each year. He also explained that a e a year many students came to his office looking for help a a each year many have to be turned away, most due to the lack of money. He said that the first impression was not good. He emphasized the importance of a appearance and good manners when looking for work.

S'SIDE LIONS CLUB ENTERTAINS

The Summer Side Lions Club was host to a group of senior citizens at the third annual event of its kind held Wednesday evening at the Legion house where a banquet was enjoyed. Following the dinner are, left to right: Mrs. J.E. Morris; Miss Princes Edward Island, M.I.S.

Beryl MacInnis, who was sponsored in the lobster carnival conducted by the Lions Club; Mrs. C.E. Kelly and Mayor J. Ernest Morrison.

Summerside — 18-year old Brian Chappell of Summerside had a narrow escape from possible serious burns Thursday when a bottle of gasoline exploded in his face while he was burning garbage.

Brian lost a few inches of his forehead and eyebrows but otherwise escaped unharmed. Apparently a bottle of gasoline had been left in the porch after painting and housecleaning and was swept up with the other refuse.

Fortunately he was wearing a heavy sweater which prevented the flames from igniting his clothing.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

Charles Linkletter Heads S'side Red Cross Branch

SUMMERSIDE — The annual meeting of the Summerside branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held in the Summerside Armory yesterday afternoon, presided over by the branch's president, proceeding, Mr. W. S. McGowan. The meeting was attended by approximately 25 members and guests with the following officers: Miss Louise Gifford and a treasurer's report by Miss W. S. McGowan.

The women's work committee report was given by Mrs. John Linkletter. In the past year 1,923 finished articles had been sent to the Summerside branch for distribution. The group's work included 22 new articles and supplies to 283 sickrooms. Mr. Linkletter commented that the "backbone of the Red Cross was supplied by the women's work."

FIRE VICTIMS AIDED Even Nicholson reported the activities of the disaster services committee, stating that two major fires were reported in the area in the past year, both cases the Red Cross provided aid. He said that eight children had been left homeless in a fire at Linkletter Road and a family of three at Redwood Road in a similar condition. Additional aid was given to other needy persons he said.

Arthur Johnson, inspector on water safety and swimming, said the Y's Men's swimming program cost $892 last year.

Miss Barbara Gordon, gave a report on Junior Red Cross activities at Summerside High School. She said that a chocolate fund for gasoline exploded in his face while he was burning garbage.

Brian lost a few inches of his forehead and eyebrows but otherwise escaped unharmed. Apparently a bottle of gasoline had been left in the porch after painting and housecleaning and was swept up with the other refuse.

Fortunately he was wearing a heavy sweater which prevented the flames from igniting his clothing.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

Boy Singed By Gasoline

SUMMERSIDE — 18-year old Brian Chappell of Summerside had a narrow escape from possible serious burns Thursday when a bottle of gasoline exploded in his face while he was burning garbage.

Brian lost a few inches of his forehead and eyebrows but otherwise escaped unharmed. Apparently a bottle of gasoline had been left in the porch after painting and housecleaning and was swept up with the other refuse.

Fortunately he was wearing a heavy sweater which prevented the flames from igniting his clothing.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

The routine consisted of some of the modern swimming strokes and those used in swimming competitions.

The water pageant followed the theme of an Indian legend, where two Indian lovers of two different tribes were united in the dance of the life-savers performed by the juvenile girls. The ten little ducks and yellow girls) were seen next as they dived ducks in various postures for the life saving display.

The pageant ended with three medleys from the intermediate class carrying the Indian Dianne McLean and Jimmy Webb away.

The next act was a synchronized swimming display by the senior girls. This was the first time the "Y" had been performed at the "Y" and was composed of six girls, Mary Bell, Mary Agnes, Rebecca Giddings, Mary Giddings, Mary Cullen and Sandra Johnston.

Island Native In B.C. Town

CRAPAUD — William Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. B.C. Wood, of Capraud has entered pharmacy business in Osoyoos, B.C. where he has acquired part ownership in the town's leading drug store.

A pharmacy graduate from the University of British Columbia, Bill is a native of Crapaud, P.E.I., and began his pharmacy career in Charlottetown with the Hughes Drug Co. He was employed also with a complete hospital bed.

Dr. Harold L. Palmer, past provincial president, and Miss Patricia Green, secretary, were present at the meeting.

The state of officers re-elected for a number of years was Charles Linkletter, president; Miss Gladys Holman, first vice-president; Mrs. W.F. Strong, treasurer; and Mrs. Harold Walsh, chairman of the women's committee.

SUMMERSIDE — The 84th annual meeting of the Summerside branch of the Granit Kirkpatrick award given to the club having the most membership in 1962 took place at the club on May 21.

The announcement was made Thursday at the regular meeting of the Summerside club, where reports were made by Alex Campbell and Malcolm MacLean of the attending Y's Men's convention at Fredericton, N.B., on May 19 and 20th, and attended by eighteen couples from the Summerside club.

Dr. Hillard Clark presided at the meeting. Guests included the Rev. Charles Rogers, pastor, and Floyd Gates.

Allison MacLean was a song leader and a number of devotions were led by Ralph MacFarlane.

The semi-annual meeting of the P. E. I. Tourist Association is scheduled for next Wednesday, May 29, at the Charlottetown, it was announced yesterday by Charles Linkletter, Summerside, president.

The meeting will be built around a presentation of "Struck by a Car while crossing the street, Dan Christie, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Christie, 70 Upper Queen Street, was reported last night to have suffered only minor injuries.

The accident occurred at about 5:15 yesterday afternoon when the child was crossing the street on Green Street through a 1961 model European car, driven by Miss Rachel F. Simpson, 28 St. Johns Street.

The vehicle was moving south on Upper Queen at the time and the vehicle is coming here from Queen Street, was reported last night to have suffered only minor injuries.

The accident occurred at about 5:15 yesterday afternoon when the child was crossing the street on Green Street through a 1961 model European car, driven by Miss Rachel F. Simpson, 28 St. Johns Street.

The vehicle was moving south on Upper Queen at the time and the vehicle is coming here from Queen Street, was reported last night to have suffered only minor injuries.

The accident occurred at about 5:15 yesterday afternoon when the child was crossing the street on Green Street through a 1961 model European car, driven by Miss Rachel F. Simpson, 28 St. Johns Street.

The vehicle was moving south on Upper Queen at the time and the vehicle is coming here from Queen Street, was reported last night to have suffered only minor injuries.

The accident occurred at about 5:15 yesterday afternoon when the child was crossing the street on Green Street through a 1961 model European car, driven by Miss Rachel F. Simpson, 28 St. Johns Street.

The vehicle was moving south on Upper Queen at the time and the vehicle is coming here from Queen Street, was reported last night to have suffered only minor injuries.

The accident occurred at about 5:15 yesterday afternoon when the child was crossing the street on Green Street through a 1961 model European car,