SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — The Anglican General Synod of Australia has approved by a large majority the trial use of a controversial revised version of the Lord's Prayer.

The co-adjutor bishop of Melbourne, Rt. Rev. P. R. Arnot, moved that revision of the 1962 Prayer Book should proceed in stages and the trial use of draft services should be encouraged.

The draft services include a new version of the Lord's Prayer which has come under criticism in Australia and other countries.

The most criticized phrases are "our bread of the morrow give us this day" instead of "give us this day our daily bread" and "do not bring us to the ordeal" for "lead us not into temptation."
