was one of the first examples and for a long time was the only effective town planning scheme in the Maritimes.

He added that without sound planning there is no continuity in the growth of a community and no adequate provisions for schools and churches which are essential to the life of any community.

Cites Admiral Houghton

Mr. Tibbs also mentioned the ideas expressed by Rear Admiral Frank Houghton, Civil Defence Director for Halifax, who spoke to the N. S. Division of the C. P. A. C. and stated that dispersal of industry and population was the only effective way of rendering us less vulnerable to atomic attacks.

The Admiral also said that provision of open spaces within cities - plenty of parks, playgrounds, etc. - is important in reducing density and that expressways were needed to speed traffic flow. He predicted that in the distant future we may see our cities spread out as endless ribbons or as concentric circles with wide, clear spaces in between.

Following the organization today of the P. E. I. Division delegates will be named to represent this Province at the annual general meeting to be held in Toronto on October 29. Approximately 75 people from this Province will attend today's conference.
