Livestock show features Canada's best animals

The agriculture show at the Provincial Exhibition is the major feature of Old Home Week so far as many of this province's show visitors are concerned. And this is not surprising, as agriculture is the basic economy of this province. Its products bring the most dollars to make the island's economy function efficiently.

The big show provides an opportunity for home folk and visitors alike, to view some of the best cattle, hogs, sheep and horses, for example that Eastern Canada can provide.

By the same token the coming together of so many people to view exhibits provides a common meeting place for many thousands of old friends and acquaintances.

Veteran showgoers here have said a person could meet more old friends just by standing still in a selected spot at the provincial exhibition and Old Home Week, than could be seen in many months of travel in most any other setting.

Horses have long since lost the top rating they once held on Island farms but there are still enough show up at the exhibition here to please horse lovers, and many of these find their way into the big Coliseum to watch the horses judged on the line.

There are also harness horses showing in silks, with the drivers wearing their colorful shown to harness are the real attraction of any fair. There are always a few good teams to be seen at the big show here.

Maritime cattle breeders there will be cattle from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, show president Allison Profit reveals, have entered 63 head of Scotch Shorthorn cattle. In need the beef entries as a whole have increased this year from that of 1965.

There are 60 Hereford entries, and 51 Angus cattle will be competing for top honors.

There are 167 beef cattle entries in all. F. George MacLeod, a New Brunswick man who was president of the Maritime Winter Fair, is coming with some Shorthorn cattle, so is a Windsor, N.S. cattleman whose name was not immediately available.

Holsteins are down this year and one reason is the absence of any Mainland herds. Gordon Dickie had a most impressive record last year with his Truro Holsteins. There are 84 Holsteins entered this year, and this compares with 104 a year ago.

There are 81 Ayrshires entered this year and 10 of them are coming from the Truro area, Mr. P. H. ...

The ... show ... and this is the same number that showed in 1965. There are 47 Guernseys entered, slightly less than the 1965 entry list.

But the colorful draft teams for two years, including matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays. Producer David Merrick will give her two weeks off each year for good behavior.

And Universal wants me for a picture the first summer," she said.

"He'll release me from playing matinees so I can make the movie in New York in the daytime and in the second summer I get off to shoot a film in Hollywood."

If the auguries of proven talent are any indication, Miss Moore will indeed serve her two year term. Breakfast at Tiffanys has the best of auspices: Producer Merrick, author-director Abe Burrows, songsmith Robert Merrill, choreographer Michael Kidd—hit-makers all.

SHOW CONFINING
Would two years in a Broadway show be any more confining than five years in The Dick Van Dyke Show?

"Oh, yes," she answers. "On the series we only worked four days a week, had a week off after every six weeks of shooting and three months summer vacation."

"Besides, we shot the series in California, and I am a confirmed Californian. The living is so easy here. You can throw on a sack and a shirt and go to a place like Hamburger Hamlet and order a cocktail. Where could you do that in New York?"

But New York is where her husband is, and being the dutiful wife she is moving her home and career there. Her husband is Grant Tinker, recently transferred to New York in the important post of director of programming for NBC.

"Does this sound as though Mary Tyler Moore expected to suffer in her Broadway debut?"

Don't you believe it. "It is the fulfillment of my lifetime ambition," she says.

"I never thought of being an actress—always a dancer. The thing I wanted most was to dance in a Broadway show. Naturally I expected to be in the chorus."

JUDGE TAKES CLOSER LOOK

Agrees with John Lennon

LONDON (AP)—The president of Britain's National Secular Society agreed today with Beatle John Lennon and said the mop-haired musicians are more popular than Jesus.

"In his own day Jesus may have been a great preacher," said David Tribe. "Today he is an ancient bore with nothing to teach."

"The Beatles, at least, entertain. Religion is declining. Pop music is booming."

The National Secular Society is a group of free thinkers. Their publication, started in 1881, is called For the Free Thinker and Tribe is one of his managing directors.

In a printed statement Tribe said: "But even if Lennon were a talking nonsense he has a right to it. If it were blasphemy he has a right to blaspheme. Blasphemy is a worn-out crime."

Lennon's statement has led to the banning of the Beatles records from some radio stations in the U.S. and other parts of the world. At least one Canadian station has followed suit.

"Whatever the context of Lennon's remarks," said Tribe, "the Beatles are more popular than Jesus. It's not a question

New uses for hearse

TORONTO (CP)—In the market for a used hearse? A local carlot specializes in them, with three makes and in prices from $1,000 up.

There's quite a market outside the undertaking business, says manager Lloyd Burdick, for used hearses as camping vehicles and utility trucks. One rock 'n' roll group found it "real cool" for moving musicians and instruments.

In summertime, when the undertakers trade in their old hearses on new models for up to $35,000, the Burdick lot often has a dozen second-hand models on display.

An elderly neighbor doesn't like this. "Get those things out of there," she shouts from the porch. "I'm not ready to die yet."

A five-year-old hearse can be a good buy, Mr. Burdick says, because they have seldom been driven far or fast.

Is ready for an outbreak

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters)—Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia said today his country is ready to deal with any renewed outbreak of Communist rebellion following the weekend ambush of a Malaysian-Thai police patrol.

"We are prepared for a new state of emergency," he told reporters after a meeting of the federal cabinet.

Ten members of the 15-man police patrol were killed in Sunday's ambush just north of the Thai border.

It was the first big attack by a Communist group since 1960 when the 12-year rebellion officially was declared ended.

Malaysian, Thai and Commonwealth forces have been conducting precautionary operations since then against an estimated 500 hard-core party members still in the jungle border area.

Actress's life is no cinch

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I feel I'm about to enter a prison—comfortable, self-imposed, but still a prison."

That is the view Mary Tyler Moore takes of her forthcoming Broadway debut in Breakfast at Tiffany's.

There is reason for her feeling. The show is a hit, she will play it eight times a week
