The expectant bride is a pretty girl of attractive ways, while the young man who is to be her husband is said to be about 22 years old. The ceremony is to be performed without delay.

THE "STAR" CHRISTMAS NUMBER.—Those who have had a peep behind the scenes say that the coming Christmas Number of The Montreal Star is something marvellously beautiful, completely eclipsing every illustrated number issued from the Star office, and putting the London Graphic and News completely in the shade. The publishers have already spent nearly twenty thousand dollars in its production.

SKIPPED OUT.—William L. Davies, who runs a readymade clothing store in Halifax, has disappeared, and the officers of the law are looking for him. Miss Hattie Sheldon acted as bridesmaid. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Ford, assisted by Rev. E. Hickson. The newly married couple left for Prince Edward Island by the night train followed by the good wishes of all their acquaintances.—St. John Globe.

POISONED.—On Thursday night, says the St. John Telegraph, a child of Mr. K. K. Graham, who lives in Pond street, drank, unnoticed to his parents, the contents of a bottle of eye-water. Soon after the child was seized with convulsions and remained in a critical condition until Wednesday morning, when the symptoms were less serious. In the meantime Drs. James Christie and White used emetics and other means by which the poisonous substances were drawn from the stomach of the child. By Thursday night the child had almost recovered from his illness.

LABOR STATISTICS.—The report of the bureau of statistics of labor for the State of New York for the year 1887 shows that 1,604 strikes took place during the year, but of this number only 694 were successful in their object. Of the remainder 696 were unsuccessful, 190 were compromised and 24 were undecided. The total number of strikers was 50,726, of whom 8,176 were refused work after the conclusion of the strike. The loss in wages was $2,013,229; the labor organizations paid out $217,070 in relief and the employers place their loss at $1,102,577.

B. Wiggins and Sharp A. Baker were ordained ministers of the new denomination by Rev. Messrs. McDonald, Kinney and Kinghorn. Rev. Mr. Kinney preached the sermon. According to his view, a minister must be an intelligent, educated, converted gentleman, called of God and wholly sanctified. Among other features the covenant of the new church prohibits the use, sale or manufacture of tobacco, as well as intoxicating liquors, and throws the ministry and all other offices alike open to men and women. Open communion prevails and immersion is not obligatory. Entire sanctification instantaneously wrought is the central doctrine.

The Presidential Election

CLEVELAND INTERVIEWED.

SOME OTHER OPINIONS.

Standing of the Parties.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.

The Herald's Washington correspondent interviewed Cleveland yesterday for the purpose of ascertaining his views on the election. The President was calm and self-possessed, and appeared like one who had a good night's rest. The President said: "I dislike to see my name figuring in set interviews in the daily press. I have no objections to answering a few questions, but prefer that our talk should take the form of a brief, informal chat. You desire to learn, you say, to what cause I attribute the loss of New York. I answer, I don't know. I should say," and the President laughed quietly, "that it was mainly because the other party had the most votes. Your remark when you first entered the room indicates that you regard me as indifferent to the result. I am not indifferent. I look upon the situation from a practical and common sense standpoint. It is not a personal matter. It is not proper for me to think of it either as my victory or my defeat. It was a contest between two great parties battling for the supremacy of certain well-defined principles. One party has won and the other has lost the day, and that is all there is to it."

"Do you think, Mr. President, that Governor Hill, of New York, acted in good faith toward you?" The President laid down a bundle of papers he had been holding in his hand, and, with more earnestness than he had previously displayed, said, "I have not the slightest doubt of Governor Hill's absolute faith and honesty in the canvass. Nothing has ever occurred to interrupt our kindly relations since we ran the ticket together here, as Governor and Lieutenant-Governor."

Chairman Bryce, of the Democratic National Arbitration Committee, concedes the election of Gen. Harrison.

The Evening Telegram says:—"The air has now cleared so completely that the Presidential vote can be fairly seen. So sweeping, indeed, has been the Harrison victory, that his majority in the Electoral College will be at least 65. He has carried not only New York but Indiana, Wisconsin and California by safe majorities, according to the latest returns. In other words, he is elected President even without the vote of New York. This settles the case beyond all possible dispute and shows the size of the Democratic defeat."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. This afternoon Secretary of the Senate Edward McPherson said, "Information obtainable justifies the opinion that the next house will consist of 173 Republicans and 152 Democrats."

A Mormon Settlement.

OTTAWA, Nov. 8.

In conversation to-day they assured their interviewer that they did not intend to violate the laws of the country. They complain bitterly of their treatment in the States, where they say the laws were made retroactive in order to punish the Mormon believers.

The Parnell Commission.

LONDON, Nov. 8.

The Parnell Commission spent the whole day hearing witnesses of outrages. Harrington objected to the interpreter prompting Irish witnesses. Justice Hannen cautioned the interpreter. The police testified that a large force was occupied in protecting boycotted and threatened tenants.

Sir John and Hon. Mr. Foster Interviewed.

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.

Considerable interest is naturally felt in the result of the Presidential election.

On Monday Sir John Macdonald expressed the opinion that Harrison would be elected.

To-day, when asked his opinion on the result, he said he had none to offer.

"There is an impression that the Government favored the return of Cleveland," was remarked.

"Not at all, not at all," said the Premier emphatically.

"What secured Cleveland's defeat, do you think?"

"I cannot tell the cause which won the election for Harrison."

As to the international difficulty he replied, "President Cleveland remains in power until March next, and what course he will adopt I cannot say. I have no reason to believe that the Republicans are hostile to Canada. They favor adoption of a protective tariff not unlike our own. There is no great urgency in settling the fishery question. The fishing season is over for this year, and operations will not be resumed until next year."

"Are you hopeful of a settlement of the difficulty?"

"The treaty negotiated last year is dead," the Premier replied. "It was rejected by the United States Senate, not by the Canadians. Of course, if negotiations were resumed a new treaty would be framed on the same terms. At any rate, all negotiations will have to be commenced anew; but I cannot forget that the Washington Treaty of 1872 was negotiated by a Republican majority only in the Senate. It is not reasonable, therefore, to suppose the Republicans will manifest in 1889 the same spirit which actuated them in 1871."

Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Finance, said: "So far as the election goes I have no decided sympathy with either party. It is, as impossible, he remarked, to forecast what line the Republicans will adopt in their relations with Canada, as it was impossible to learn from the contradictory course of the democratic party during last year what its policy would have been for another administration, had it been successful. The different lines put forth seem to have been more to influence the presidential election than an indication of a settled policy which should rule after the election was over. I have no reason to think that the administration of Harrison will be anything else but friendly towards Canada, and that opinion is backed by Harrison's letter of acceptance, in which he took reasonable ground. One thing is certain, that is the emphatic endorsement of the American policy of protection. Though I do not think that the Democratic party on the line of the Mills bill went at all in the direction of free trade, yet probably the changes they deemed proper were chiefly instrumental in defeating Cleveland in New York State. I don't believe that the West letter or anything arising from it had any effect in changing voters one way or the other. It is significant that the republicans, with a strictly protection cry, made large gains in the rural districts, thus indicating it is not true that the farmers take no stock in protection."

Mr. Foster, in conclusion, said he thought the United States should take the initiative in negotiating a new fishery treaty.
