Opening lead—three of clubs. Some bricksbats may be flying this way tomorrow from two directions as a result of this piece. One of the controversial questions frequently asked is whether men or women play better bridge. My answer would have to be that of the 35,000,000 people in this country who play bridge it will be found, on the whole, that women are the better bridge players. On the other hand, though, if you go to the very top of the bridge heap, there is no doubt, as the record shows, that the men stand out. Not more than two or three women

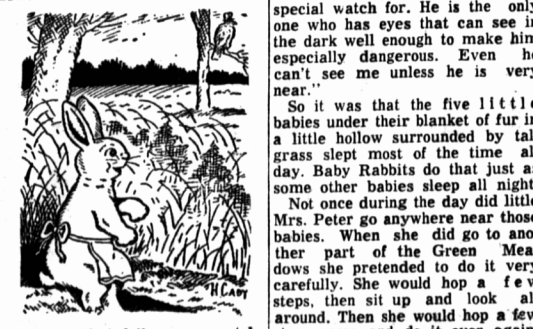

BEDTIME STORIES

Foxy Little Mrs. Peter

Blest is he with ready wit,
Always making use of it.
—Old Mother Nature.

Mrs. Peter Rabbit is a quiet little person. She is a timid little person. That is what Peter thinks anyway. This is because she does not take the chances that Peter does. She is too wise for that.

Mrs. Peter keeps her own counsel. This means that she keeps to herself what she thinks and what she plans to do. So it is that few of her neighbors know how really smart she is. Folks who are smart and outwit others are said to be foxy. You know, Reddy Fox is considered the smartest, slyest of all people on the Green Meadow. Mrs. Peter was being foxy right now.

"I knew that fellow was watching," said she to herself.

Out in the tall grass on the Green Meadow she had a secret. It was a very precious secret. Not even Peter knew it. It was an open-air nursery in which were her five precious babies only a few days old. Not even the Merry Little Breezes had yet found out that secret. From the time jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun started to climb up in the blue, blue sky each morning until at the approach of night he went to bed behind the Purple Hills, Mrs. Peter kept away from those babies. She did this because she knew that the sharpest of sharp eyes, belonging to certain hungry folk, were always searching the Green Meadows. Those eyes belonged to several of the Hawk hawks. Either the Crow or Reddy Fox. She knew that they knew she probably had babies hidden somewhere because at this time of year there always were babies.

"They'll be watching me all the time," thought Mrs. Peter. "They'll watch to see where I go. So it won't do for me to go near those babies while any of those folks are about. I will have to visit them after dark. Then Hooty the Owl is the only one I have to keep special watch for. He is the only one who has eyes that can see in the dark well enough to make him especially dangerous. Even he can't see me unless he is very near."

So it was that the five little babies under their blanket of fur in a little hollow surrounded by tall grass and ferns were safe all day long. Baby Rabbits do that just as some other babies sleep all night.

Not once during the day did little Mrs. Peter go anywhere near those babies. When she did go to another part of the Green Meadow, she pretended to do it very carefully. She would hop a few steps, then sit up and look all around. Then she would hop a few steps more and do it over again. At a certain place she flattened herself down in the tall grass and there she slept most of the time all day. After the last visit she saw just what she had thought she would see. Out from a tree at the edge of the Green Forest flew Redtail the Hawk. He flew straight over to that place she had visited. There he circled above it. Mrs. Peter chuckled. "I knew that fellow was watching," said she to herself. "He thinks he knows now where my babies are. He thinks he is smart, but he's got to be smarter if he finds out my secret."

Mrs. Peter chuckled again as she watched Redtail fly back to the tall tree on the edge of the Green Forest and start watching again. Foxy little Mrs. Peter.

BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

70 Canadians Will Fly To Milan For Chamber of C.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canadians, increasingly active in the affairs of the International Chamber of Commerce, will have a substantial round of speaking engagements and other official activities at the chamber's May congress in Naples.

They will also see a lot of Italy. The Canadian representation will number more than 70, including 39 delegates, many of whom will be accompanied by their wives and 34 of the group will leave Montreal April 22 for Milan by chartered plane.

In Milan they will meet with Italian business men, visit the international trade fair and be guests at a reception given by the president of the Milan Chamber of Commerce.

R. C. Berkinshaw of Toronto, president of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and president of the Canadian Council of the Chamber, and Paul Bienvieux of Montreal, president of Cattell Food Products, will speak in English and French for the delegation and a presentation will be made to the Milan Chamber.

Following the Milan visit, a large part of the group will tour northern Italy including visits to Venice and Florence.

They will spend May 1 to May 5 in Rome, where meetings of the senior administrative bodies of the International Chamber will be held, and the Congress proper will be held in Naples May 6-11.

The theme of the Congress will be New Factors of Economic Progress. Major discussion subjects will include international co-operation for economic development; problems of insufficiently developed countries; obstacles to free flow of trade; the common market for Europe; economic repercussions of automation; and world monetary and trade problems.

CANADIAN SPEAKERS
Canadian speakers will include: R. D. Harkness, Montreal, president Northern Electric Company, on Impact of Automation; G. Bruce Hill, St. Catharines, Ont., on Impact of E. T. F. Tools, on president of International Fairs and Shows in the Expansion of Multilateral Trade; H. H. Lank, Montreal, president, Du Pont Company of Canada; an instrument of Business Management; and Yvon R. Tasse, Quebec, general manager, trade and industrial bureau of Greater Quebec, on Higher Profits Through Improved Purchase and Stock Controls.

Mr. Tasse will also be co-chairman of the meeting at which he will speak.

Thomas Oakley, Toronto, vice-president, Oakley, Jackson and President, will be co-chairman at a meeting with the topic Towards a Free Multi-lateral System of International Trade; and Howard N. Walters, Vancouver, vice-president, Pleasant Valley Gas and Oil Company, will co-chair a meeting of the international information bureau of chambers of commerce.

About 1,500 people from 34 countries are expected to attend the Naples meeting. The chamber, formed in 1919, has its headquarters in Paris and holds a general congress every two years. The last congress was in Tokyo in 1955. Its only Canadian congress was in Quebec in 1949.

Foundation Co. Had Good Year In 1956, Report Shows

MONTREAL (CP)—Foundation Company of Canada Ltd. and subsidiary companies had record net profit in 1956 of $1,681,669, or $3.65 a share on 460,928 shares issued, compared with $1,155,910, or $2.53 a share on 456,226 common shares issued, in 1955. Dividend rate on common shares was 90 cents in 1956; up from 80 cents in 1955.

F. G. Routley, president, says in the annual report that the company's work stretched in 1956 from British Columbia to Newfoundland and from within the Arctic Circle to the international border. It had entered 1957 with "a large carry-over" and had secured a good volume since. It appeared that the year would bring "still greater construction activity" in Canada than in 1956.

High cost and scarcity of money tended to limit the company's activities and the sale in early 1956 of $4,000,000 of 4½-per-cent sinking-fund debentures had proved to be a "timely action."

Mr. Routley noted that about 97½ per cent of the company's stock is owned in Canada. He said there is still a shortage of engineering and technical personnel and, to assist in the problem, the company has instituted a scholarship plan to aid engineering students in the four Atlantic provinces—"where there are relatively fewer industries available to offer help to students."

MARITIMES SCHOLARSHIPS
The scholarships—$1,000 a year each—are open yearly to five students from seven universities who enter their final two years in engineering at either the Nova Scotia Technical College or the University of New Brunswick.

The company, Mr. Routley said, is studying the possibility of acquiring a replacement for one of its salvage tugs which has been in service a number of years. The Canadian coast, he added, requires a year-round service of not less than one powerful seagoing salvage tug for rescue work. To have such a vessel built in Canada at present costs and to operate it on a 24-hour-day basis the year round would be too costly.

Black Jews Go Back To Israel

COCHIN, India (Reuters)—The Black Jews of Cochin, whose forefathers sought sanctuary in India 2,000 years ago, are going home. About 3,000 persons from this community already have gone to Israel, leaving only a few hundred, most of whom intend to leave as soon as they can.

Most of the White Jews, who for centuries have lived alongside the Black Jews but never mixed, are staying in India.

The White and the Black Jews never have got on well together. Many White Jews claim that the Black Jews are converted slaves.
