

Personal—Gossip.

Anthony Trollope is dead. Mrs. Sandford Fleming sailed from Liverpool for Canada yesterday. Major Freeland, Mrs. Freeland and their eldest son have gone to England to spend the winter.

Mrs. Langtry and Miss Labouchere have parted. As usual, there was a gentleman in the case. Dr. Sehlman has recently finished the erection of a residence in Athens which has cost more than $100,000, where he and his family now live.

There is only one Freemason in the present French Cabinet, but such prominent statesmen as Gambetta, Brisson, Cazat, Jules Ferry, Paul Bert, and Constans are members of the order. Though the Marquis of Hartington during the last two or three years has attended rather to politics than to horse-racing, still he rarely misses a race, and is always to be seen at Ascot, Epsom, and Goodwood when any exciting race is to be run.

A stable of brown stone and marble, costly woods, and plate-glass! Such as this (says our contemporary Land) might surely have been the housing of the famed Bucephalus himself. But it is only the stable of Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt! The stalls in this latest development of American millionaire-ry folly are of polished wood, trimmed with black walnut. In the harness-room the trappings are enclosed in plate-glass, and even the stable buckets are adorned with the big brass monogram of this "Paladin of Finance." The coach-house—walls, floor, and ceiling alike—is in polished woods of various sorts, and upon one of the walls hangs a large mirror, which reflects the line of carriages ranged opposite.

Sir James Paget, the eminent English surgeon, when near his country home recently, witnessed a severe accident by which a man's leg was broken. Sir James helped the man into his cart and proceeded to attend to his injuries. The driver's companion ran to the local doctor and cried out: "Please, sir, Bill has been and fallen out of his cart and got his leg broke; there's an old cove a-pulling of him about, but I can see he ain't up to much, so I wants you to come at once, sir, 'cos Bill's very bad." The doctor hurried to the spot and found that the "old cove" was quite competent to act in the emergency. Sir James had made some rough splints and used a copy of the London Times to bind up the leg. Criticism of medical skill, as often happens, come to grief, and Sir James learned once more that fame has its limitations.

The Great French Remedy, Dr. LeDuc's Periodical Pills.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.—To remove obstructions and restore the Menstrual Functions in sudden suppression from cold or fever, the patient should take warm hip or foot bath once daily, and should, for the next three or four days, three pills morning and evening. In severe cases where there is much headache, disturbance of the stomach, pain in the back, &c., the dose may be increased to three or even four pills, three times daily. Except in cases of acute suppression where the symptoms are urgent and severe, the remedy should not be taken until one week of the time the natural flow should come on, and should, if necessary, be continued for at least two weeks. Should occasion require, the same treatment should be pursued before and at the time that the next monthly flow should appear. By carefully removing these directions the most obstinate cases invariably yield.
