Montague Town Council Meeting

Routine business was transacted at the regular meeting of the Montague Town Council last night presided over by Mayor B. H. Yeo. Present were Councillors Reynolds, McGowan, Hessian, Greene, Fraser, and Nicholson. Following the minutes, the bills were presented for payment and approved. Reports were heard from committees. Mr. Claude Nicholson, chairman of the fire committee, brought up the question of another pumper for the fire department as an auxiliary or stand-by in case the present one should break down while at a fire. It was decided that information on types of pumps and prices would be acquired before any definite decision was reached. Tenders for the painting of the town hall were received, but it was decided to leave redecorating until next fall in anticipation of major changes. It was moved that Montague rejoin the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

To Honor Artist

In honour of Robert Harris, distinguished artist this Province is proud to claim as her own, the P. E. I. Art Society are sponsoring a public meeting in the Harris Memorial Gallery this evening. Mr. R. H. Rogers will give an address on some of the highlights from the life of the artist, thirty-five years after his death.

For the occasion a committee composed of Mrs. George DeBlais and Miss Norah Longworth have obtained some twenty Harris paintings from private owners in the district, many of whom are relatives still remembering the great man. These works, along with a selection from the Gallery's Collection range from his earlier classical style through his later freer creations and make a fine one-man exhibition. That his great interest was people is evident, for portraits far outnumber landscapes in the total of his work.

Among the pieces on display are several interesting pictures loaned by Mr. James E. Harris a nephew who lived with the artist for a time at his home in Montague. These are an oil sketch of the studio, and watercolours, by Mr. James Harris of his sitting room and dining room. There are also two youthful portraits of the Charlottetown architect by his uncle. Though born in Wales, Harris' early years were spent in this city, where he attended Prince of Wales College. His love of painting developed in his childhood here in Prince Edward Island. Before death came to him at the age of sixty-nine he had travelled far along the road to fame. He had kept alive the personality of many of her distinguished sons and his paintings are to be found in all the large galleries and in a great many private collections across the land.

which they found. Councillor Hutchison reported that two tenders had been made for the supplying of a new police patrol and that neither of them were satisfactory. He asked the Mayor if it would be advisable to seek tenders outside the City to which His Worship replied in the negative. After some discussion it was moved by Councillor MacDonald that the old patrol be sold by tender. Motion was carried.

Councillor Hutchison introduced a motion calling for the introduction of Daylight Saving Time, he was supported by Councillor Gormley who felt that the majority of the population was in favour of it. Councillor Johnstone stated that since it was Provincial legislation he would not want to see the City of Charlottetown by the first to defy the law. After further discussion the motion was withdrawn by Councillor Hutchison who made the stipulation that he be allowed to bring it up at a future meeting.

The strike began Saturday midnight and was scheduled to last two days—longest of the half-dozen transportation disruptions to hit the city in union labor's demand for higher pay.

Decision Made questioned the prices paid by the City for certain equipment during the last month. He was sure that some of the items could have been bought for less money. Councillor MacDonald agreed with Councillor Rogers and was of the belief that the time was fast approaching when the City would require a City Manager. He felt that the salary of such an official would be saved by more careful purchases. Councillors Gaudet, Gormley and Johnstone reminded the two Councillors that the accounts of the City were open for their inspection and it was their duty to inform the various committees of any irregularities.

Montague Home, School Ass'n Meeting Held

Miss Mona Clay, guidance consultant, P.E.I. Mental Health Department, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Home and School Association held in the Montague High School last evening. Also present was Carl Reynolds, grade ten student, who gave a very interesting resume of the activities of the youth training course held at Mount Allison University last summer.

The president, Mr. Ralph Beck, presided. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. E. H. Stewart, and were approved as read. Mr. Beck reported that the books requested from the Charlottetown library were not available at the present time. He expressed the hope that further information regarding this matter would be available at the next meeting.

It was suggested that a committee be appointed to look into the possibility of presenting a concert in Montague featuring the local Musical Festival entrants, and charge a nominal admission which would be used towards the cost of transportation of the children to the festival in Charlottetown.

Mrs. Hickox and Mrs. Ralph Beck were appointed on a committee to discuss the matter with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond and the teachers. It was unanimously decided that the association would purchase a set of French books for grade eleven. A discussion took place regarding the necessity of having the auditorium in the new school completed and finished, and the association went on record as being in favor of having this work done as soon as possible.

Mrs. Stewart reported that the annual provincial meeting of the Federation of Home and School Associations will be held in Prince of Wales College in June and the guest speaker will be Mrs. J. Duckworth, who has done such outstanding work as convener of parent education in Nova Scotia. Delegates to attend this meeting will be appointed next month.

Miss Clay was introduced by Mr. John Hughes, principal of the Montague High School. In her interesting and informative address, she spoke chiefly of the emotional needs of children, stressing affection, security, freedom from extreme fear and guilt, belonging and need for success or achievement. She also discussed with parents and teachers such questions as "when is a child ready for school, physically, socially, intellectually and emotionally?" A wide selection of pamphlets on the subject of child care were made available for members at the close of the meeting.

Coffee and doughnuts were served by a committee and everyone enjoyed a social half hour.

Milestones In Development Of Rural Beautification In P. E. I.

"Two recent developments in our Province" was the theme of an interesting address at the Charlottetown Rotary Club luncheon yesterday by Mr. H. Bramwell Chandler, superintendent of Libraries and Audio-Visual Branch of the Department of Education. The developments to which he referred were the R.L. Cotton Memorial Trust for rural beautification and the Rural Beautification Society; and he commended particularly the public service rendered in this connection by Mr. R. L. Cotton, Mr. R. B. Snazelle, and Col. E. W. Johnstone.

H. B. Chandler, M.A., B.L.S.

Mr. Chandler recalled that the trust for rural beautification began in 1946 when Mr. Cotton approached the then Premier, the late Senator J. Walter Jones, to offer an endowment of $100,000 to establish and maintain for the people of this Province a nursery and source of supply of plant materials to improve home surroundings, public areas and roadsides, and otherwise encourage rural beautification.

"This was a most generous and courageous act on Mr. Cotton's part," said Mr. Chandler. "It was also, I should add, equally far-sighted and statesmanlike of the late Senator Jones to accept the offer. It has been rather paradoxically said that 'practical men are the curse of good government.' If our late Premier had been merely a practical man he would perhaps have turned the offer aside. Fortunately he had the imagination to see the possibilities. We tend to forget that the chief characteristic of a leader is to lead and not passionately to maintain the status quo. We are indebted to him for such progress.

"In our time there is a developing tradition of considering private wealth as a public trust. There have been many splendid examples of philanthropy on a large scale in the United States and Great Britain—the Carnegie Corporation, the Rockefeller Foundation, the Rhodes Trust, the Nuffield Foundation, and the recent Ford Foundation, to name a few. In Canada, though we have many men of great wealth, the tradition is not so well established. There

Widely-Travelled Canadian Mere On Lecture Tour

Philip Allen, a young Canadian with 300,000 miles of travelling experience in the North American hinterland behind him, is presently spending a three day lecture tour in the Province. Allen, who has recently spent 15 months travelling 15,000 miles across the top of the world by ship, dogged and on foot, lectured at the Souris schools and at Queen's Square School yesterday. Today he will speak and give an illustrated talk with coloured slides at West Kent School and Prince of Wales College.

A veteran of the R.C.A.F. Allen enrolled at the University of Alberta following the war and after a period of study he relinquished to an urge to travel and commenced his explorations of the Canadian North. On his last try inside the Arctic Circle Allen left Montreal by boat and worked his way as a sailor to Hudson Bay. From there he cut across the barrens of the North West Territories by dog sled and on reaching Victoria Land travelled by ship and boat to Edmonton. He spent several months learning the Eskimo tongue and on his trip across the Barren Land met seven different Eskimo tribes. He was favorably impressed with the Eskimo and joined with them in their sealing and caribou hunting expeditions. Allen claims there are many opportunities in the North. For a time he worked as a painter for $1.55 an hour and on another occasion made $10.00 a night playing a saxophone at Churchill. At Uranium City laborers are making $2.50 an hour. This afternoon at two o'clock he will speak at Prince of Wales College. School children and parents are invited to attend the lecture. Mr. Allen will leave here Thursday for an engagement at Shediac, N.B.
