

MR. AND MRS. J. B. G. ARSENAULT AND PARTY

Double Ring Ceremony In St. James Church

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. James Church, Egmont Bay, on October 3rd, when Mary Gemma, daughter of Mrs. Emilien Arsenault and the late Mr. Arsenault, Abram's Village, became the bride of Joseph Benedict Giddings Arsenault, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Fidele Arsenault, Mont Carmel in a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Nazaire Gallant, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Arsenault, the bride looked charming in a floor-length gown of lace and nylon net worn with a lace bolero with Peter Pan collar trimmed with sequins. Her long sleeves tapered to points over her hands. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of matching net, pearls and sequins. For jewellery she wore a single strand of true pearls with matching earrings, gift of the groom. She carried a white pearl prayer-book beautifully decorated with red roses, lily of the valley and white streamers.

Miss Yvette Arsenault, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor, while Miss Marie Anne Arsenault, girl-friend of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore matching floor length gowns of ruffled nylon net over taffeta. Their gowns were of blue and pink. They wore picture style hats and matching accessories. They carried nosegays of white and pink roses.

Miss Donna Cormier, niece of the groom, was the winsome flower girl. She was attired in a floor-length gown of yellow net over taffeta with matching headress and she carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Mr. Reginald Gallant, Mexico, Maine, cousin of the groom was best man.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of black crepe with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother was dressed in a pink checked suit with pink accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Appropriate hymns were sung during Nuptial Mass by the Abram's Village Choir girls accompanied by their music teacher, Mr. Edward Poirier, Mont Carmel.

Following the ceremony the couple were honoured with a breakfast at the bride's home. About 50 guests were present. The bride's table was centered with the traditional three-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom in an arch of white lilies of the valley and green leaves.

Amid showers of confetti and good wishes the happy couple and their attendants left for a motor trip to Charlottetown. In the late afternoon, the party returned to the groom's home where supper was served to approximately 75 guests. The bride and groom received many useful and beautiful gifts.

For travelling the bride chose a brown tweed suit with beige and luggage accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations. For their honeymoon, the happy couple visited friends and relatives in the Maritimes and in Rumford and Mexico, Maine.

Prior to her wedding the bride was tendered a kitchen shower at her home by her friends of Abram's Village. The newly wedded couple will reside in St. Nicholas. —Photo by D. W. Sears.

ELLEN'S DIARY

So Many Are Rescued

Despite the November wind that swept the Fall fields coldly, this was a day after our own hearts. It brought the tidings we had hoped for—indeed prayed for, along every waking hour: that the grim tragedy which had descended suddenly on the Springhill, N.S. mining community might be lessened in its expected extent and that many of the entombed miners might be returned safely to loved ones and home.

While death claimed a sad toll, it is a matter for much rejoicing and thanksgiving that so many of the number trapped there have been rescued. We who know the loveliness of open meadows and friendly woodland paths can have little conception of the hazardous work of those who gain a living down in the secret places of the earth. It is a marvel to us that knowing the vicissitudes of the occupation, in many an instance (this we learned from Judy who is a miner's daughter) son follows in the footsteps of father and grandfather choosing it above any other way of life.

If in this the efforts of brave draggerman and helpers revealed the end of the tragic tale written in that Maritime spot in recent days, farther afield yesterday was a Sunday of anxiety without known climax and extremely grave. Where should have been a Sabbath calm in hearts, hurried councils were held among the powers—that is to consider the sad circumstances in which nations find themselves at present. Prime Minister . . . President, ministers of governments, advisers, what an anxious day — and days, are now theirs upon whom such burdens of state now rest. How earnestly they must look beyond their own strength to be sure that no misguided step be made.

New words are to be heard now on the street and in rural places and minds roam far away from home: Britain, France, Israel, Egypt, Hungary, Russia, as "the shadow no bigger than a man's hand" now assumes wider, deeper proportions.

Yet come cloud or shadow, on Island farms the farming must continue. Not so happily it is true. But crops must be gathered, homes, barns prepared for winter, fields for the springtime to come. The late lambs to market — the last of the year's crop, that was the interest at Alderlea today. With the little truck bustling to town and back, affording nice outings for the children who by an unexpected twist of circumstances enjoyed a holiday from school.

Mack brought a stout pair of rubber boots to coax — or delay the rainy weather the farmers hope for now to replenish lowered streams and wells and let them get on with the plowing. There was also a gay school shirt "like Joseph's coat" a visitor said, and another purchase to be a current thorn-in-the-flesh for his women. We heard with some dismay the snap, bang of gun-caps exploded in the midst of our delectable quiet.

"They'll soon be used up" we nodded to Granddaughter.

"Used up". Mack chuckled, "you should see the box of them I have over home".

But the day is used up and gone, away toward the bright new hills of tomorrow.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Goodnight.

GOTHE INTRODUCES SHEATH WITH HOURGLASS CURVES

PATTERN M375 A Gothe Original
PROMINENT DESIGNER

The newest version of the sheath — has the slim, slender look from shoulder to hem, but its shapely waist the most alluring hourglass curves!
