A Good Excuse.
"Come up tonight," wrote an Atchison girl to a young man this morning. "I am going to have an evening."
"I should like to come," he wrote back, "but unfortunately I have just had a night."—Atchison Globe.

The Mountain and Mohammed.
"I will yet," said she, "bring him to my feet."
"Much easier, dear," said the other, whose shoes were two sizes smaller, "than bringing your feet to him."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Then She Took Him In.
He (locking out at the window)—It's so bright and cheerful within and so cold and gloomy without.
She—Without what?
He—Why, without you, dearest.—Chicago News.

Willing to Try It.
He—I see that a late medical authority says that kissing is a cure for indigestion.
She—I ate a good deal more mince pie for dinner than I should.—Detroit Free Press.

"If my foresight had been as good as that mule's hind sight, I wouldn't have been kicked by a darn sight."—St. Louis Republic.

Cause of a Neighborhood Row.
Fond Mother—Isn't the baby the very image of his father?
Neighbor—Yes, but you shouldn't mind that as long as he's healthy.—Chicago News.

SNAP SHOTS.
In a new magazine camera the plates are placed in a row in a chamber opposite from the lens and held by a spring, each plate dropping down into a recess in the bottom of the camera after it is exposed.
The amateur photographer who has not a ruby lamp for use in the developing room or closet may envelop the bulb of an electric light with a red bag shade, with the same result as to workmanship, an entire freedom from smoke, and also a much stronger and steeper light.

NOT AT ANY PRICE.
The Unpopular Man, His Neighbors and the Coming Funeral.
A Georgia man who was unpopular in his community insured his life for $2,000. He took the policy home to his wife and said:
"Maria, here's a life insurance document for $2,000."
"Thank you, dear," said his wife. "How are you feeling today?"
"Not well," he replied, "and I don't think I am long for this world, and I want to say to you that when I die it is my wish that you devote $1,000 of the money to defraying my funeral expenses."
"Mercy on me," exclaimed the wife, "why do you want such an expensive funeral?"
"I'll explain. I'm perfectly satisfied that nobody will attend my funeral, and I want to hire people to go at so much a head. I'm going out today and see what arrangements I can make for attendants on that forthcoming melancholy occasion. If they won't come gratis, why—I'll just hire 'em and give 'em an order on you for the money."
He went forth, and at nightfall returned with a dejected look.
"Maria," he said, "it's no use. You can have the whole $2,000. Just go to my funeral yourself."—Atlanta Constitution.

Payable to "Sweetest of the Sweet."
Framed and hung up in the Agricultural bank of Paris, Ky., is a check which was made payable to "Sweetest of the Sweet," and so indorsed.
President McClue of the bank tells the story of the check as follows:
"One of our depositors recently gave his wife a check for $10, the check being regularly filled out and duly signed, except that it was made payable to 'Sweetest of the Sweet.' When the lady presented the check for payment, I innocently inquired:
"Who is this 'Sweetest of the Sweet?'"
"Why, it's me," she replied.
"I told her to indorse the check, which she did, and handed it back.
"But, madam," I said, "you must indorse it just as drawn, to the 'Sweetest of the Sweet.'"
"She snatched up the pen and wrote the words below the name, and I paid the money."—Chicago Chronicle.

He Wanders No More.
"What's become of your companion?" asked the lady of the tramp at the door.
"Gone," said the itinerant, pointing upward. "You see he had a faintin spell one day and a lady threw some water in his face. It was too much for Jim. His pilgrimage is o'er."—Yonkers Statesman.

In Brief.
"How shall I begin this story of the explosion?" asked the new reporter.
"Begin it, 'The story of last night's stupendous tragedy is soon told,' etc.," replied the city editor. "And, by the way, you'd better make about three columns of it."—Town Topics.
Securing a Substitute.
Mattie—I'm so sorry, dear, to learn that death has robbed you of your favorite poodle. How can you ever console yourself for his loss?
Helen (sobbing)—I d-don't know, b-but I s-suppose I'll h-have to g-get m-married!—Chicago News.
