MARY HAWORTH

Widower Gives Friends A Very Puzzling Time

Dear Mary Haworth: Please shed some light on the following. A very good friend of ours is a widower whose wife died five years ago, leaving two little girls, now ages 8 and 10.

A year later he married again, but unfortunately it ended in divorce, involving a large settlement.

He now employs a very capable housekeeper who has full charge of his home and children. She refers to herself as governess and foster mother. She is a wonderful person and the girls love her

She is legally separated from her husband and could obtain a divorce if this widower would consent to marry her. Both are in their early fifties. He doesn't contemplate marriage at present, because of the recent bitter experience.

He is in constant contact with my husband in business and we like to include him in our social life, as we have in the past with his two wives. However, he will not accept any invitations without the housekeeper. I am willing to go along with this, but am puzzled by the whole thing.

How would I introduce her to my other guests? Is this accepted socially?—P.Y.

Dear P.Y.: Assuming the housekeeper's name is Mary Doe Doakes, separated wife of Sam Doakes, you would introduce her to your other guests simply as Mrs. Doakes, period. You aren't supposed to give a job-analysis of her role in the widower's life.

Their social alliance, as described, seems irregular, to say the least. The picture is cloudy, inviting gossip. The widower is putting the housekeeper in a bad light in taking the stand that he accepts no hospitality that does not include her.

In effect, this amounts to coercing his friends (or trying to) into according her a respected status that she forfeits, as he well knows, in the existing arrangement with him.

It is almost as if he asks his friends to confer upon her the sense of belonging that he denies her in refusing to marry her, even while sharing the same house with her on a companion basis, sans chaperonage.

In general, the married community draws the line against sponsoring partnerships of this sort socially. As I once heard a tough-minded, competent, worldly woman say: "Experience has taught me not to fraternize with the kind of people that one has to make excuses for."—M.H.

Dear Mary Haworth: Several days ago I read a column of yours in which a mother requested help for her drug addict son. Perhaps our organization might be one answer for such a problem.

We are the National Family Council on Drug Addiction, Inc., with headquarters at 401 West End Avenue, New York 24, N.Y. telephone SUsquehanna 7-7202.

We are most happy to assist any time in any way.—Nathan Zucker, executive director.

Dear Mary Haworth: Is it proper to give a baby shower for Baby No. 2 or moreg The question has come up in our church group and everyone seems to have a different view. What do you think?—D.A.

Dear D.A.: A baby shower is a demonstration of friendly, affectionate, financially helpful goodwill towards a mother-to-be. So why not give showers for Babies No. 2, 3, 4 or more? The larger the family, the more appropriate the shower I would suppose.—M.H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

Alpha Program Covers Gardens

Gardening was the topic of the evening when members of Alpha Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently at the home of Mrs. E.S. Matheson, North River Road.

The program, presented by Mrs. Alex Wilson, covered different types of gardens, varying from the symbolically simple, ancient temple gardens of Japan to the elegantly formal, old palace gardens of Europe. Many fine, illustrative photographs were used to depict the gardens discussed.

Comment was made on the Rural Beautification program of Prince Edward Island and on the increasing interest within this province in the art of landscaping. The suggestion was made during the ensuing discussion that urban areas should be encouraged to adopt beautification programs for the Centennial year.

The business of the meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. E.H. Lord, who announced that tickets will soon be on sale for the fine china program being presented in West Kent auditorium on April 29th by Spode of England. These may be obtained from members of the chapter.

At the conclusion of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. Matheson, assisted by the cohostesses of the evening.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

Snags in stockings can be avoided by drying the hosiery inside a towel which is placed over a rod to dry.

Beautiful buttons are a good investment in good grooming. Used to replace the usual ordinary-looking buttons on budget dresses, they add an expensive dressmaker touch. When the garment is discarded, the buttons can be saved to work magic on another.

Scatter rugs at top or bottom of stairways invite falls. If you want to use them in these areas be sure they are anchored firmly at all corners and in the center.

GETS LITTLE RAIN

In South Africa only 11 per cent of the land receives a minimum "adequate" anncal rainfall of 30 inches.

Ever Hear of a "DIURETIC*"?

Maybe not. But you should know what a "diuretic" does. There may be times when you should use one. You likely understand how important the kidneys are in maintaining good health. Also that if the kidneys fail to function properly excess acids and waste material remain in the system. This may result in subsequent urinary irritation and bladder discomfort, often followed by backache, tired feeling and disturbed rest.

This is when the diuretic service of Dodd's Kidney Pills may be helpful. Dodd's act as a diuretic stimulant to help restore normal kidney action, and so relieve the systemic condition causing backache and tired feeling. When you are bothered by backache and tired feeling due to lazy kidney action you can depend on Dodd's Kidney Pills as many thousands have done during the past 70 years. Look for Dodd's at any drug counter.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Mother's Child Is The Only Pretty One In The World

Mack came by while we were at breakfast this morning "Well" he offered with a young grin "our fortunes are boosted — got a new calf, we have!"

James smiled.

"That cow freshened, eh? I thought so!" he nodded. "Don't you remember, Ellen?

When I heard her bawl — just one low it was, through the night, I said to you 'I reackon I'd better get up and go to the stable.' And you said, 'You were only dreaming!' But I heard her."

"Dad did too. He went to the stable. Just in time too."

"A nice calf?" James queried.

"Yes, a nice one — the best one yet" Mack smiled.

"It's good that it's here" James said.

"Did you get that cryptoquote?" the Curiosity-cat inquired this afternoon, when in the quiet and near-desertion of the kitchen, we put the newspaper aside.

"Sho' did!" we chuckled.

"And what, when you solved it, did it say?"

" 'There's only one pretty child in the world — and every mother has it' " we said. "And isn't that the way with every new calf that comes to this place? It's always 'the best yet!' " we chuckled.

And the sun, hidden of late, returned to brighten a wall and the fire crooned an afternoon refrain. And Curiosity's measured purr on her cushion was like the sleepy sound of bees in the apple-blossoms on a sun-blest spring day.

"Did you happen to see my catcher's mitt anywhere about? Mack inquired calling by on his way to school.

"It's in the old chest" we said. "Why?"

"Oh I was just wondering where it was. No, I don't want it today."

Perhaps — yes, it could be that pussy willows were stirring — commencing to open coats, along the old millroad above the stream. Gently over-shadowed the night is. Dim, rest the fields.

"Outlook for tomorrow? Sunny!" an announcer offers, a smile in his voice.

A quiet day this has been for us. One to patch, and go on then to complete a spot of sewing: to finish a little dress for the local W.I. which in a current project is assisting the Red Cross in this way. Alex wondered. "who will be wearing it?"

"A little girl somewhere" we said. "A needy child. A poor little thing."

He nodded, eyes sad.

"But she won't be needy always. She'll grow and learn, and find much success in her life, we will hope." we said.

Mack came from school then, cheeks pink from the mile's walk. He stopped beside the sewing machine — What fascinating things a youngster can find in what to their elders is only routine. We recall the wonder in a child's eyes as in a scene new to her, she watched a housewife knit. We have seen delight there as a youngster beheld the pure magic of first snowflakes drifting down.

We sewed a seam.

"Hold it — hold it!" Mack begged. "I want to see how that upper thread catches that from the bobbin."

"Watch" we said opening the "hatch" and setting the machine in motion.

"Oh" he nodded presently, "I see!"

And we see stars above the valley. And night over all.

Until tomorrow — — Diary — Good-night.....

YORK UCW

A total of 19 members and one visitor were in attendance at the York United Church Women at its March 12th meeting.

The worship service was led by Mrs. Dewar Swan, on the theme "Unchangeable" and was closed by the circle of prayer. Mrs. William Crockett supervised the study book reading from the book "On Asia's Rim". Among other things it was noted that the people of Formosa are very musical, fond of singing and folk dancing, even in religious rites.

The Bible study on the book of Hosea was led by Mrs. Parker Jewell. Mrs. Willard Murray will conduct the next Bible study on the books of Joel and Amos.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson presided over the business period. The minutes were read by Mrs. Walter Mallett. Mrs. Elmer Brown reported seven crib quilts ready to be sent to the United Church Depot of Toronto.

Mrs. Raymond Vessey reported articles of clothing sent in to be packaged and several boxes of Christmas cards were brought in to the supply secretaries, Mrs. Raymond Vessey and Mrs. Lloyd Vessey. Two pretty scrapbooks, made with Christmas cards were donated by Mrs. Angus Cluny to be sent to cheer up hospital patients.

Mrs. Dewar Swan read a letter from Mrs. MacEachern of Dartmouth, N.S., relating how she read in "The Guardian," the good being done with used postage stamps in the York UCW and she forwarded 200 stamps to the society to help with this work. Thank you. Mrs. MacEachern, they are very much appreciated.

Mrs. Richard Vessey and Mrs. Frank Vessey were appointed as a committee to buy two Bibles and have them placed in the church as a memoriam for Mrs. Edmund MacMillan, who passed away since the beginning of the year. This plan was adopted at the beginning of the year and is done rather than buying flowers in respect to the departed.

Mrs. William Crockett counted the visits, cards and treats to shut-ins during the month.

The hostess for the next meeting will be Mrs. Arthur Brown and the worship and program will be under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Lewis, Mrs. Leken Lewis and Mrs. Frank Lewis.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.
