the staff scale should be obvious, the faculty was entered so as to show the contrast between what we pay individuals at this university. What is the difference between a worker or a faculty member if both have a wife and four children? They both need food, shelter, and clothing. The committee says they need $6430 to live out of poverty. Check the scales and see how many positions in the staff pay over $6430. And remember that's the poverty line. Now take a look at the faculty scale and see what percentage live in poverty. The amazing thing I find is that there is no tinge of shame at paying a faculty member $14000 while staff wages are below the poverty line.

You will not find an argument from me, that someone who has put 20 or more years into education should not receive extra for their labour. The point I am trying to make is that we should not pay anyone less than what it takes to exist out of poverty.

If the financial resources are there to pay a faculty member $15000, then there should be enough to pay the maintenance people, the secretaries and other workers fair and decent wages. This is not being done as the figures amply show. If we continue to pay these type of wages we will be guilty of propogating the endless cycle of poverty that exists in the Maritimes. We must demand a fair wage for a days work.

The university community, faculty and students, should support the non-academic employees in their attempts to have the wages paid them brought up to a respectable level. Students should press the student union into openly supporting an increase in salaries for the working portion of this community. The student representatives on Senate and Board of Governors must be vocal in their support of decent wages. The Faculty, well paid that they are, should collectively support demands for a good life for the workers.

Above all don't be afraid to be vocal. No harm can come from the truth.

Is Ronnie Baker really worth over 10 cleaners? Think about it, then act.
