

VARIETIES.

DRESS OF THE CIRCASSIAN WOMEN.

With respect to the state-dress of the women, blue silk is the material for the robe, which is generally bordered with gold or silver, and confined to the waist by a girdle similarly ornamented. From the neck to the waist, the dress is fastened with a large and heavy metal button, and it is thus that a light shawl of some other color, partly arranged as a turban, and partly falling in graceful folds over the neck and shoulders, with a thin muslin undergarment large and light, and the attire figure, we have the gas costume of the daughters of Circassia. The reader may imagine the effect of such a lovely appearance, attending the women in the cottage, in the midst of the charming scenery of that romantic land. If the fair vision should chance to attract the admiring glances of a gallant knight in secret of his wife, he can always tell, by the color of her trousers, whether the wearer be maid, wife, or widow; virgin white being worn by the young girls; red by the wife who has assumed the duties of matrimony; and blue by the hapless dame who mourns the death of her lord. In everything else their dress is similar, except that the hair of the widows and shames like that of the married women is arranged in a thick plait behind, confined as usual by a silver cord.—Spartan Travels, Russia, the Black Sea, or Circassia.

TAILED MEN.

The Niam-Niams, or Ghilans—their name signifies cannibal—from a race of men who have a great similarity to the monkey. Shorter than other negroes, they are rarely more than five feet high. They are generally ill-proportioned; their bodies are thin, and appear weak; their arms are long and lank; their legs are shorter and flatter than those of other races; and their lower jaws are very strong and very long; their cheek-bones are high; their forehead is narrow, and falls backward; their ears are long and deformed; their eyes small, brilliant, and remarkably red; their nose large and flat; the mouth large; the lips thick, the teeth small, and are remarkably white—they sharpen their teeth. Their hair is curly, but not very wavy, short but not thick. What, however, very strikingly distinguishes them from all other races, is the extraordinary prolongation of the vertebral column, which in every individual, male or female, forms a tail of from two to three feet long.—Linnæus's Voyage to the Cape de Bonne-Vue, by C. L. de Condam, sent by the French Government to explore the least known parts of Africa.

NOBILITY AT A DISCOUNT.—It is stated that Lord Elgin, late Governor-General of Canada, who sailed from New York last week in the Pacific, being in want of funds to pay his hotel bill, proceeded to the office of Commerce, and presented a draft for $100,000, the bill being drawn on his name, and bearing, probably, it was a Lord Elgin explained, but all to no purpose, and before he could find a person to sign for him, he was compelled to hasten down to the bank to save his passage. By the way, it is stated that he takes with him $100,000 in gold and silver, those killed in the war with Russia.

MUSICAL NOISE.—Mr. Bennett, silvermith, of Bilbury street, Plymouth, has in his possession, for the first time, a pipe which sings like a bird. The little animal begins to tune his pipe at a certain hour, generally between eight and nine o'clock, and continues very often for two or three days. The notes, which at times are very sweet, are not very dissimilar to the run of a canary.

NEAR AMBERBURG, Canada, a few days ago, a man was cloping with a young woman, when their sleigh was overturned. The girl's neck was broken, causing her death. She had suffered a fracture of the leg, and was taken to a hotel in Amberburg, where her wife is now vigilantly attending in attendance, for her marriage vow.

GRANO DISCOVERIES.—The guano deposit which was recently discovered by an American shipmaster upon Bird Island, a small island in the distance to the westward of the main, towards Barbadoes is said to be equal to at least three or four hundred thousand tons, and in quality it approaches that of the Chinese Islands. The guano is said to be of the finest quality, and is said to be equal to at least a million tons on the locality of which it is said to be the organization of the guano. Great numbers of Monkeys are said to be dying in the woods near Trinidad de Cuba. Hundreds may be seen in the neighborhood, where they have fallen from the trees.

CATTLE RAISING IN ILLINOIS.—Iraac Funk of Bloomington, McLean county, Illinois, recently sold to Messrs. Hough of Chicago, a pair of oxen, which he had raised, that would average 700 pounds, and of the handsome sum of sixty-four thousand dollars.

Why is a married man like a candle? Because, he sometimes goes out at night when he oughtn't to.

A mathematician being asked by a friend how much will a large hog weigh? "I'll tell you in a minute," was the reply, "and I'll tell you in a minute." The mathematician "had him there!"
