

Balanced Budget Tabled In N.S. House Yesterday

By IAN DONALDSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
HALIFAX (CP) — A balanced 1959-60 budget with no surprises was tabled in the Nova Scotia legislature Thursday. It proposed no unexpected spending and no tax changes.

Revenue is expected to reach a record $82,891,597, an increase of $6,000,000 over the 1958-59 forecast. Expenditures will rise by nearly the same amount to $76,989,169.

The budget, tabled by Progressive Conservative Premier Robert L. Stanfield, shows an estimated surplus of $270,458 after sinking fund payments. This compares with a forecast surplus for the year ending this March 31 of $182,956 and a $1,000,000 surplus the year previous.

HOSPITAL TAX

The increased revenue will come entirely from a three-per-cent sales tax introduced Jan. 1 to pay the province's share of the national hospital plan. All but $500,000 will be needed to pay for the insured hospital care and to make hospital construction grants. Mr. Stanfield said the anticipated yield from the tax "may prove quite conservative."

The tax is expected to yield $7,500,000 during the 1959-60 fiscal year. The forecast return for the first three months of 1959 is $1,500,000.

The budget contained both interim forecasts for the current fiscal year and the 1959-60 figures.

Mr. Stanfield said other sources of revenue besides the sales tax "are expected to increase, but these will be approximately offset by a $1,200,000 reduction in revenue from provincially-operated hospitals" as a result of the hospital plan.

GRANTS FROM OTTAWA

Federal grants are expected to total about $36,000,000. These, together with a $20,000,000 yield from the gasoline tax, and $11,500,000 from liquor sales, would account for about 70 per cent of the estimated revenues, apart from the hospital tax.

Mr. Stanfield said "I hope the tax will be more productive because even if the estimated cost of the hospital plan next year proves accurate, the cushion provided is not enough to provide for the annual growth in the cost of the hospital plan." The plan is forecast to cost $6,385,000 during the coming fiscal year and to increase 10 per cent annually.

About $500,000 will be left after grants for hospital construction have been made if the revenue estimate proved accurate.

The premier said educational expenditures are expected to increase by $1,600,000.

Highway costs, exclusive of sinking fund instalments, are forecast to reach $21,067,300, an increase of $225,000. About $13,600,000 is earmarked for highway maintenance.

Mr. Stanfield said highway expenditures will exceed revenues by about $5,500,000 counting a $4,309,752 sinking fund instalment. He said "a gap of $5,000,000 is perhaps too large to continue indefinitely, and consideration may have to be given to increasing highway revenues before too long." He gave no hint of how this might be done, but said steps are expected "in the immediate future."

The third big spender, the welfare department, is scheduled to pour $6,800,000 into welfare grants. The increase over the current fiscal year will be about $400,000.

HINTS OF CHANGE

Mr. Stanfield said a $350,000 welfare estimate has been set aside "to cover costs a workmen's compensation commissioner has suggested 'should be met by the provincial treasurer rather than industry.'" He did not elaborate. Legislation arising from a two-year study of workmen's compensation is still to come before the legislature.

In the education department, about $386,000 will go to teacher education—$17,000 higher than the current year. Grants to universities will remain unchanged at $250,000.

Old age assistance payments and allowances to the blind and disabled will total $2,891,000, about $270,000 more than this year's forecasts.

Storm Causes Alberton Area Traffic Tieups

ALBERTON—A blustery snow storm struck Western Prince County about 5:30 last night and in a short time cars were bogging down on the main highway. Snow plows continued working between Alberton and O'Leary and were expected to make their final run about eleven o'clock. The snow gave indications of turning to hail and possible rain at a late hour.

The storm forced the cancellation of a hockey game in Alberton between Elmsdale and New Annan. The game is expected to be held tonight if roads are open.

A number of cars left Alberton in the afternoon loaded with contestants for the provincial ice sports in Charlottetown. They began the return trip shortly before 10 o'clock and with rain reported along most of the route, hoped to get home without too much difficulty.

Mr. Acorn suggested that if this person whose case is now before the courts has not the room to remove his sawdust that the Minister through funds provided by the improvement program, help him to remove it so that the stream could be left unimpaired for fishing.

LITTLE TIME TO FISH
Dr. Dewar said he didn't have time to fish and he did not own a sawmill and he was not lobbied on the question.

He observed that this matter was a contentious question, also that millers had made a great contribution to the economy of the Province. He recalled that Brown's Creek at Heatherdale once had nine mills now it has only one or two.

Dr. Dewar felt that it was not only the matter of sawdust but the matter of dumping rubbish of any kind that he was opposed to.

He felt it was a crime to dump sawdust when it could be put to so many useful purposes such as house banking, fuel and others. He stated that mill owners were here long before the fish and game association. However, he would have to vote against the amendment.

In answer to Harold Smith's question, Dr. Dewar said he could not say one way or the other whether sawdust was injurious to trout.

AGRICULTURE MINISTER
Hon. Eugene Cullen agreed that all the mills operating in the Province were of great benefit to the farmers, especially in cases where a fire destroys farm property. In the early days one of the first things established in a community was a mill. Mr. Cullen noted.

He said it would be a very bad thing to pass any legislation that would hurt the farmer but he pointed out that commercial fishermen were here long before the farmer or the mill owner and that many people make considerable money out of smelts which would soon disappear if their spawning grounds were destroyed.

He recalled that a few years ago it was proven that the oxygen supply in the water at Murray Harbour was reduced by the decomposition of starch factory refuse, so much so that lobsters could not live in the water for over a minute. This he said was proven by biologists from St. Andrews.

Served 50 Years As Elder Of Alberton Congregation

A letter announcing the golden jubilee of the eldership of Fred Clark of the Alberton Congregation was read at the March meeting of the P.E.I. Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Mr. Clark has not only served for 50 years as an elder in Alberton but has never missed a Communion Service in all that time.

In the name of the Presbytery the clerk had sent a congratulatory letter which was read at the jubilee celebration.

Presbytery met on Tuesday in Zion Church Hall with the Moderator, the Rev. D. A. Campbell, in the Chair, and the Clerk, the Rev. T. H. B. Somers, at the desk. The following Ministers were also present: Rev. Donald Nicholson, Rev. M. C. Currie, Rev. L. M. MacNaughton, Rev. E. H. Bean and Rev. Chas. Townsley, together with the following Elders: Messrs. Howard Clark, Frank MacDonald, Murdoch MacGowan, B. P. McLaine, Francis Murray, Chas. Kennedy, Chas. Phillips, and Joshua MacArthur.

Correspondence read included acknowledgement from the Clerk of the Executive Council of P.E.I. of resolution forwarded by the Presbytery regarding the appointment of a Protestant Chaplain at Government Institutions, highway safety, that had come in for so much publicity emptied into Rustico Bay and it is conceivable that the decomposition of sawdust would have the same effect there. "In this event," he said, "the fishermen would have no place to store their lobster floats."

R.R. Bell: "They have been storing them there for the last 25 years."

Mr. Cullen thought shavings and edgings from a mill were much more harmful than sawdust and he knew of a miller who decided to stop on his own accord. "If a miller was not fined for dumping sawdust, he could definitely be fined for allowing mill rubbish such as shavings and edgings to go into a stream," Mr. Cullen said.

Brenton St. John felt it did not make any difference whether the word sawdust were deleted or not since the act provided for such things as "Other deleterious substances."

He felt that it had been proven that sawdust was a deleterious substance to trout, salmon and smelts.

Frank MacNutt said there were one or two sawmills in his area and noted that sawdust was used for fuel. He felt that where a mill was operating with a good flow of water there was little danger of any great accumulation of sawdust.

AUXILIARY POWER
He observed that many mills have auxiliary power and when this was used there could be considerable accumulation which if allowed to go into the stream at one time could cause trouble.

Premier Matheson said that after listening to the discussions for two hours and a half he was not convinced that the word should be taken out.

He told the Opposition Leader, "If you win your case of course your client will not have to pay anything but if he loses, the Crown will not assess any costs. We have to have this matter proven one way or the other."
