

Sudden Death of J. H. McCarville

The death occurred suddenly yesterday at his home, 63 Victoria Avenue of John Henry McCarville at the age of 70. The late Mr. McCarville had been in his usual health upon retirement on Saturday evening but passed away in his sleep during the night.

Born in Charlottetown he was the son of the late Thomas and Bridget McCarville and as a young man went to sea. During World War I he served with the Merchant Navy and at the conclusion of hostilities joined the Royal Canadian Navy from which he retired in 1941 with the rank of Chief Petty Officer, thus serving his country in the two major conflicts.

Always an ardent fisherman, Mr. McCarville has spent a good deal of his leisure time after the trout in the island streams and on the close of each season he continued his love for the rod and line by hooking a few smelts. Only last Friday he had landed a catch.

Surviving are his wife, the former Lucy Ellen Trainor; four sons and two daughters, Reginald, Ivan and John F., all of Charlottetown; Lorne with the R.C.A.F., Halifax; Marjorie, Mrs. A. Martin, Summerside; Joyce, Mrs. John Horgan, Arvida, P.Q. Another daughter, Lenora, Mrs. Elmer Blanchard predeceased him in September of this year. Two sisters also survive. They are: Anna, Mrs. Anthony Linardy and Minnie, Mrs. Vincent Mahar, both of Brighton, Mass. His only brother James as well as two sisters, Alice, Mrs. Walter MacGregor, New Glasgow, N. S. and Rose, Mrs. Norrie of Brookline, Mass. predeceased him.

The funeral will be held Wednesday morning from the Hennessey Funeral Home to the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer for Requiem High Mass at 9:00 o'clock. Inter-

Eastern Star Friendship Night

Friday night was Friendship Night for Crystal Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. Several visitors from Harmony Chapter, Dorchester, N. B., were given a warm welcome by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Julia Herring.

Reports were read from the annual meeting of the T.B. League and Polio Foundation, and also reports from a recent rummage sale and several friendship parties. A committee was appointed to make plans for publishing a booklet on Crystal Chapter during the centennial year.

After the meeting members and friends enjoyed several tables of cards in the recreation hall. Prize winners for bridge were Mrs. Platts, Mr. Cecil Palmer, and Mrs. Thompson; for auction Mrs. Maxwell, Mr. Morley Smith and Mrs. Larkin.

The tea table looked very attractive, covered with a lace cloth and centre bouquet of mauve, yellow and white chrysanthemums. A delicious lunch was served under the convenship of Mrs. Cecil Palmer.

PLEBISCITE ISSUE DISCUSSED AT POTATO PRODUCERS MEETING

"It is a case of choosing between disorganized selling and organized selling when you answer the questions on the ballot on November 10th," said Mr. Leo McIsaac at a producer's meeting held at Morell Saturday night. Mr. Frank Connolly presided.

Mr. McIsaac's speech was for the most part a repetition of his remarks at other meetings but he did make mention of the proposed plan which the dealer's had announced at a Summerside meeting last week. Although admitting that the plan had some merits, he doubted whether any amount of harmony could be expected from a Potato Board which was set up for the benefit of the producers but would be dominated by dealers. He felt that the membership on the present Board was the fairest to the dealers of any in Canada since no producer representation on it.

He denied that the present Board is being run by one man and took exception to the statement that "the dealers would be put out of business if the Selling Agency went into effect." Mr. McIsaac said, the dealers "will still have plenty of leeway to market their potatoes to advantage and if they want to prepare their product in more attractive packages demanding a higher price, that is their privilege."

He concluded by suggesting that if the growers were to try out compulsory selling for a year or two, they would be in a better position to vote on the matter.

Mr. D. J. Mullins of St. Peter's, speaking in support of the Central Selling Agency, pointed out that farmers have been working on this for a long time, but that this is the first time they ever got down to business. "In very principle, cooperative farming cannot be anything but good," he said, "I never saw anything done on a voluntary community basis that ever amounted to much," he added.

Mr. Mullins went on to say that the proposed system is not compulsory, in that a farmer doesn't

ANNUAL MEETING SATURDAY OF QUEEN'S COUNTY LIBERAL ASS'N

As early a start as possible on a new ferry for the Wood Islands-Caribou route was urged by the Queen's County Liberal Association in the form of a resolution at its annual meeting at the Community Centre Saturday night.

They asked that the boat have a capacity of at least 60 vehicles and if possible be ready for service next season.

That the people of the Province need not look for a surplus in the report of the Provincial Treasurer when the Legislature meets was pointed out by Premier A. W. Matheson, Q.C., as he addressed the group.

However, the Premier added that despite the heavy expenditures involved in highway construction and the erection of the new treatment centre at Falconwood Hospital, the Province would not go behind a single dollar.

Premier Matheson said the Government was attempting to deal with everyday problems on a day to day basis, and not postponing action until a later time. It was now examining the feasibility of an artificial insemination program. Several years ago there was a similar program in operation with mixed success.

He looked forward to an industrial development program in both agriculture and fisheries and stated that expert horticulturists would be in the work. To this end he said the Island would have to extend its veterinary service and the forestry service, both through the Department of Agriculture. In connection with the latter he said he felt it was only fair to the people of Prince County that they should have an agricultural representative stationed in Summerside.

In speaking of elections the Premier said he had not called one on his appointment to head the party because he did not wish to go to the country on the basis of another administration's achievements. He added that elections should not be entered into on promises that cannot be fulfilled.

The speaker paid tribute to the civil servants in the various departments. In mentioning the Department of Health and Welfare, which he headed for several years as Minister, he said that much credit was due to the committee and officials in charge of the work.

He was highly pleased with the showing of Island 4-H club members at the Amherst Winter Fair and said that a majority of the demonstrations were conducted by youths of Prince Edward Island.

Brilliant Concert

high order. In the Duetto Concertante by Mozart, a gem of the master was ably arranged by the understanding Busoni, who has done so much piano transcribing. The melodious tenderness of Mozart, combined with continuous counterpoint was skillfully rounded out in a Sonata form.

The well-known Lark by Glinka had a two piano setting, erroneously ascribed to Pierre Luboschutz, who has but put his own hand to the famous transcription by Balakieff. It was a circumstance for marvel to hear the Weber Perpetual Motion, so tricky in itself for the average pianist, so smoothly turned off in unison by both performers, who made a whirl on winged fingers.

A like feat was done again in the rendition of La Campanella, that goal for aspiring piano students, causing so many hours of striving without reaching the desired goal. Once more this was tossed off at a mere commonplace, although this time, not strictly speaking in unison.

Among the main features were the Suite for two pianos by Arensky, and the works of the French impressionists, "The Afternoon of a Fawn," by Claude Debussy and the Valse, by Maurice Ravel. Both of the latter works were originally orchestral and they suffer a bit in piano score reduction. A lack of colour, due to the singleness of instrumentation, and a lack of sustentation of tone, because of piano percussiveness, are the principal obstacles.

To conclude, the last section presented Russian and Viennese dances aplenty. The nostalgic Alt Wien of Godowsky is a bit of rare local colour, while the paraphrase on Fledermaus had all the trimmings of virtuosity expanded upon a slender medium to stir up wonder and amazement for the amateur music lover.

Some scores of dazzling brilliance, such as the Rumba by Milhand and the combined Black Key and Butterfly Etudes of Chopin, added to the spectacular element, while the rendering of Yankee Doodle a la Gershwin and a la Beethoven provoked much humour from the young people present. The musical value of such is of course questionable. Thus a fine evening of two piano music came to a close. Messrs. Mauney used their own instruments, Steinway grands. They will doubtlessly go far in their careers.
