Wins Fight For Stronger Council
Of Europe

STRASBOURG, France, Dec. 11
(AP)—Paul-Henry Spaak, Belgium's former Socialist premier,
won a dramatic fight in the European Consultative Assembly today for a stronger Council of Europe to wield executive authority over a unified European army.
He resigned earlier as president of the assembly in protest against what he called a "timid"
resolution which plumped for restricted international political control of the projected defence force.
Then he went into action as a rank and file delegate to back a motion by Pierre-Henri Teitgen of France to amend the council's basic statute.
Both Paul Van Zeeland, Social Christian (Catholic) Premier of Belgium, and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France, prime mover in the European army plan, had urged the milder resolution in an apparently vain bid to bring Britain to join. The resolution was adopted only last night.
Spaak's victory was by a narrow three-vote margin on the council's basic statute and authorizes the committee of ministers to appoint "high commissioners" to direct joint agencies—such as the army or the Schuman coal and steel pool—which may be established by all or some member states.
The Council of Europe is an organization of 15 states and territories on parliamentary lines without actual executive or legislative power. It is composed of an upper house, of the committee of foreign ministers, and the assembly.

Mr. Milliken stated that some of his argument would occupy more time than was available yesterday afternoon and could better be presented this morning. Chief Justice Campbell then adjourned the Court until 11 a. m. today.
The levy set by the Board at 1 cent per 100 pounds was originally to the dealers, but on February 14
of this year was made applicable to producers. The order for the original levy was passed by the Marketing Board on November 6, 1950.

Plan Boy Scout Association For S'side

On Thursday evening in the Summerside Town Hall at eight o'clock there will be a public meeting for the purpose of forming a local Boy Scout Association. This association will be responsible for scouting in Miscouche, R. C. A. F. Station, St. Eleanors and Summerside. Residents of these places are cordially invited to attend and lend their support to this worthwhile movement. It is anticipated that there will be a particularly good attendance of the parents of the Boy Scouts and Cubs and any other persons interested in scouting. This new association will not interfere with the case where local scout troops in the places concerned may be sponsored by particular organizations. Mr. S. M. McInnis, provincial commissioner will be the guest speaker.

Italian Air Attache On Visit To S'side

Major General Enrico Cigerza, Italian air attache, stationed at Ottawa, arrived yesterday noon at the Summerside airport from Trenton, Ont. His visit to the local port is in the nature of a liaison visit to the Italian students who are training in Summerside.
Today at 10:00 o'clock he will hold a press conference at station headquarters and will make a tour of inspection of the station as well.
Last night at the station he was present at a dinner at which the wing heads, course directors and students were present.

Mob Scenes In Iranian Capital

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 11 (AP)—Opposition and government deputies fought with their fists and feet inside parliament today while a frenzied mob outside shouted for the blood of the opponents of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.
Opposition deputies, making up with noise and tumult for what they seemingly lacked in votes in the 136-member Majlis (lower house) present a determined bid to force the downfall of the aging Premier, whom they accused of setting up a "reign of terror" and leading the country toward ruin and Red domination.
After the soldiers broke up the fight, opposition deputies slammed their tops, jeered and booed Mossadegh at the top of their voices.
He finally made a rambling 2 1/2-hour speech in which he vowed he would remain in power until voted out.

More Than 2,000 See Opening Of Santa Claus Lane

A crowd, estimated by civic officials to exceed two thousand persons, lined the both sides of Water Street in Summerside for a first hand view of the official opening of "Santa Claus Lane" last evening.
In preparation for this event, small spruce trees were fastened to the tops of posts that had been painted green. These posts were fastened to parking meters, and each tree was decorated by gaily colored Christmas tree lights. The lights had been placed on the trees by the merchants of Water Street, and the lights were hooked up by the town.
Early last evening the usual street lighting along with many of the fluorescent lights were not lighted, and the street was in semi-darkness. The high crowd composed of all ages from very elderly persons to babes in arms, waited in expectation for 11 p. m. when, after a few words of official greeting, Mayor Henry Wedge pushed the main switch which lighted every Christmas tree on both sides of the street along the business area of Water Street, and thus officially opened "Santa Claus Lane".

The result was a truly beautiful scene that immediately brought a loud roar of approval from the crowd. This had scarcely subsided when good old Santa Claus came driving down "Santa Claus Lane" on his big beautifully decorated tractor drawn float. He laughed and waved to the crowd, and was the highlight of the evening for scores of children, who were tense with excitement at the sight of old Santa who had come for a look at the "Lane" that had been created in his honor.
A large crowd of children immediately closed in behind the float as it passed and followed it to the east end of the town where he turned and again came back up through the crowd, stopping briefly in front of the Bank of Nova Scotia to wish every one a Merry Christmas, before he continued on his way, presumably back to the North Pole.
The pleasure and excitement of Santa's visit was somewhat lessened, at least for some adults as well as the majority of children present, by the wanton and unnecessary destruction of the beautiful ornaments and tree trimmings on the float, which was done by some of the approximately fifty youngsters that followed the float along the street.
The focal point of the whole program was in front of the Bank of Nova Scotia building where CJRW had set up equipment and broadcast the whole program which was relayed to the crowds along the street by loud-speakers set up at strategic points.

Carols Enjoyed
After Santa's tour had been completed, the program consisted entirely of some twelve Christmas carols, sung and played by the Acadian Mixed Choir, the Summerside Male Chorus, the Girl Guides, and the Summerside Legion Band. These carols were very much enjoyed by the crowd, many of whom joined in the singing.
In officially opening "Santa Claus Lane" Mayor Henry Wedge said:
"We are doing something tonight in having a formal opening of Santa Claus Lane that may very well become a custom in Summerside and be carried out every year. I hope that this will be so because it would be a very pleasant custom. I hope," he said, "that the appearance of all these lights during the Christmas season will be a source of pleasure to all who see them, and that they will help to make this Christmas a happy and joyous one. The retail merchants committee of the Summerside board of trade is to be commended on carrying through this project and arranging an interesting program for this formal opening; and I wish to thank the Band, the Male Chorus and the members of the Acadian Mixed Choir for distinguishing the occasion with their presence.
"Christmas should be a time of happiness and cheerfulness for all and this is in the Christian tradi-

Prospects For Korean Armistice Seen Brighter

MUNSAN, Korea, Dec. 12 (Wednesday) — (AP) — Over-all prospects of reaching a Korean armistice agreement brightened somewhat Tuesday but Communist and Allied delegates were far apart on methods of exchanging prisoners and policing the truce.
However, observers agreed there was some progress. The Commu-ists seemed in a bargaining mood and the United Nations command did not appear ready to reject flatly Red proposals for truce supervision.

Two sub-committees scheduled concurrent talks in neighboring tents at Panmunjom for 11 a. m. today (9 p. m. EST Tuesday).
The prisoner issue hit a snag Tuesday. The Communists wanted a blanket exchange of all war prisoners after the armistice agreement is signed.
The United Nations held out for a regulated exchange at the time of an armistice on a "fair and equitable" basis—presumably man-for-man. Later, when a final peace is signed remaining prisoners would be released.
The tomb of Genghis Khan is at Maragha in northern Iran, an historic town noted for its fine marble.
