

When the children are hungry, what do you give them? Food.
When thirsty? Water.
Now use the same good common sense, and what would you give them when they are too thin? The best fat-forming food, of course.
Somehow you think of Scott's Emulsion at once.
For a quarter of a century it has been making thin children, plump; weak children, strong; sick children, healthy.

For The Children

Little Willie's Downfall.

[Being an exposition of the fact that science, though excellent in its way and perhaps indispensable, may not be a good thing all around after all.]

Little Willie's days are dreary,
He is sick at heart and sore;
Once he cheered us with his laughter,
He is doing so no more.

Little Willie has a sister
Who is fair and twenty-three;
Never was a gentle maiden
Sweeter, daintier than she.

Willie's sister has a fellow
Whom she loves with all her might
And he comes to see her with the
Regularity of night.

Willie's sister's fellows father
Is a millionaire whose one
Wish appears to be to pamper
The desires of his son.

Willie's sister's fellow used to
Ride behind a blooded pair
That could "do a mile in .20"
Without moistening a hair.

Willie used to hold those charges
While their owner was inside
Asking Willie's happy sister
To get ready for a ride.

And it used to seem to take her
Long to make her toilet, too,
Or perhaps 'twas not her toilet—
Willie didn't care a sou.

Off he sat there in the carriage
While the hours dragged along,
Holding firmly to the ribbons,
Pouring out his soul in song.

And his pretty sister's fellow
Gladdened him with many a fee.
Ah, the way that child spent money
Was astonishing to see!

Nearly all he ate was candy,
He had friends to turn away;
All the boys were out for Willie
Every where and every day.

His opinion was their gospel,
They were all on Willie's side;
Willie was their saint and leader,
Willie's heart was full of pride.

Gone, alas, is Willie's prestige,
And his friends, oh where are they?
One of them gave little Willie
A sad beating yesterday!

Little girls make faces at him
Who had only smiles before.
Willie doesn't carry candy
In his pockets any more.

Little Willie's heart is heavy,
There's a shadow on his brow
Little Willie's sister's fellow
Has a horseless carriage now!

Wrong Side Out.

Jack was cross, and nothing pleased him. After giving him the choicest morsels for his breakfast and providing for all his wants with tender care, while he did nothing but fret and complain, his mother finally said:

"Jack, I want you now to go right up to your room, and put on every garment wrong side out."

Jack stared. He thought his mother must be out of her wits.

"I mean it, Jack," she repeated. And she did mean it. Jack had to mind. He had turned his stockings even; and when his mother came to him, there he stood—a forlorn and funny-looking boy, all linings and seams and ravellings—before the glass, wondering what his mother meant, but not quite clear in his conscience.

"Now this," said his mother, turning him around, "is what you have been doing all day; you have been determined to make the worst of everything. In other words, you would turn everything wrong side. Do you really like your things this way so much, Jack?"

"No mamma," answered Jack, shamefaced. "Cannot I turn them right?"
"You may, if you will remember this; there is a right and a wrong side to whatever happens—I mean a pleasant part and a part you do not like as well; and you must do as you prefer to with your clothes; wear them right side out. Do not be so foolish any more, little man, as to persist in turning things wrong side out."—Sel.

Under the Trees With Grandpa.
Grandpa is stretched in the hammock,
With his legs hanging over in space;
Grandpa is peacefully sleeping,
With a newspaper spread on his face;
Grandpa is snoring serenely.
There is peace, I suppose in his breast;
His hands are contentedly folded,
And a wasp has just lit on his vest.

The insect approaches his collar,
It dallies awhile here and there,
Now it finds its way under the paper,
And grandpa is up in the air.
His legs are entwined with the branches,
The buttons are torn from his vest—
You can tell by his words and his actions
That grandpa's no longer at rest.

BRAIN FAG

Is the result of Overwork and an Exhausted Nervous System. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food creates New Brain and Nerve Tissue.

Business and professional men, accountants, stenographers, teachers, students and all brain workers know only too well what it means to have the brain so tired out that concentration of thought is almost impossible.

One-fifth of all the blood in the human body is found in the brain, and unless the blood is pure and rich the brain becomes exhausted for want of proper nourishment.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Blood Food creates new brain and nerve tissue, and produces rich red blood, "the vital fluid" of the body.

All brain workers quickly recognize the merits of this great food cure, and after a few doses enter on their work with new energy and ambition.

Brain fag is unknown to persons whose brain and nerve have been invigorated by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, which is for sale by all dealers at 50c. a box.
