Fast-Acting City Firemen Prevent Possible Bad Blaze

A fire that could have quite easily assumed serious proportions was nipped in the bud last evening by Charlottetown's fast-acting volunteer fire department.

Breaking out at approximately 7:30 p. m. in a furniture store-room located on the second floor of a three-storey wooden building located next door to Ed's Taxi on Great George Street, the blaze was under control in a matter of fifteen minutes.

Damage was confined to coats, mattresses, and other articles of furniture in the immediate vicinity of the origin. The ceiling of the room also caught and was partially torn out by the firefighters.

Greatest damage was sustained in the premises occupied by City TV and Radio located immediately below the fire.

Thousands of dollars worth of valuable TV sets were deluged by the water which streamed from the floor above, the owner-operator, Mr. Stewart G. Mackay stated.

The printing shop next door operated by Stanley C. Ornam was unaffected.

Occupants of the third floor apartment were unaware of the fire's outbreak, until warned by an observant passer-by, Mr. Earl Hennessy.

U.S. Co-operation Needed In Commonwealth Plans

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK (CP)—The co-operation of the United States with the Commonwealth is needed for the proper accomplishment of the aims of the recently concluded Commonwealth trade and economic conference in Montreal, Canada's External Affairs minister Smith said Tuesday night.

In a speech highlighting a dedication dinner on the eve of the formal opening of Canada House in New York City, the external affairs minister stressed the "triangle" relationship of Britain and the Commonwealth with Canada and the U.S.

The Commonwealth countries, he stressed, were not asking for a "handout" from the U.S. but they did expect, or hope, for this type of American co-operation.

The U.S. should implement President Eisenhower's proposal for an immediate and substantial increase in the resources available to the international bank and monetary fund.

The U.S. should participate in "a careful commodity by commodity approach to the orderly marketing of raw materials and to ways of ensuring that primary producers throughout the world may experience enough sense of security... to build a firm base of economic stability."

3. The U.S. should exercise its commercial and economic policy "a measure of self-restraint and discipline which can serve... as a practical means toward achieving reasonable standards of living in all countries."

The external affairs minister did not deal with foreign policy in his speech which climaxed the years of planning leading to the establishment of the skyscraper which in the words of its founders will stand "as a Canadian landmark" in New York.

U.S. FINANCING NEEDED
The economic emphasis was expected in view of the big financial considerations which brought the Canada House project to fruition. The new granite- and limestone building hard by Radio City had an $11,000,000 price tag which necessitated co-operation of American as well as Canadian businessmen before it could be completed.

The Fifth Avenue landmark, open in all its 26 storeys since the end of February and now more than three-quarters occupied, will become truly symbolic of Canada at a flag-raising ceremony presided over by External Affairs Minister Smith, Mayor Robert Wagner of New York and Hon. Ray Lawson, retired consul-general in New York whose efforts brought the Canada House idea to fruition.

Lawson was toastmaster at Tuesday night's banquet at the Hotel Astor, with the external affairs minister the chief speaker. Part of the ceremonies included the presentation of a symbolic silver key to the former consul-general and lieutenant-governor of Ontario.

Another scheduled speaker at the banquet was William Zeckendorf, New York realtor with large interests in Canada whose financial support for the new building enabled its construction to begin but led for a time to fears that his Canadian character might be lost because of a withdrawal of government support.

CONTROVERSY SETTLED
But this controversy was settled long before Tuesday night's banquet, and Zeckendorf will be an official guest at today's ceremonies.

"The structure, one of the most beautiful in an area of post-war architectural development, is marked with the coats-of-arms of the 10 provinces cast in brightly colored enameled bronze along the wall facing the entrance court. A stained-glass window forms the rear wall of the building lobby and incorporates symbols of Canadian life. It was designed by two Canadian artists, Angus MacDonald and Elizabeth Bang of Toronto.

"On the street level is one of the government offices which represents one of the closest ties between Canada and the American public — the Canadian Travel Bureau. Its colorful posters supplement the coats-of-arms in making the building a real Canadian landmark.

72 Attend United Baptist Meeting Tues.

SUMMERSIDE — Seventy-two delegates attended a P.E.I. United Baptist district meeting here yesterday with Rev. Keith Hobson of Summerside presiding.

Highlights of a United Baptist convention at Wolfville, N.S., were described by Rev. Ross Howard, of O'Leary, and discussion took place during the morning session concerning the three-year "Baptist Justice Advance" program that will commence this year among the eighteen million Baptists in North America.

One of the resolutions approved by the delegates noted that the cost of living had increased to such an extent that many of the ministers find it difficult to keep their cars in repair on their present salary, and recommended that such ministers be allowed car depreciation costs "until the ideal recommended by our constitution is achieved."

Young Peoples Society Holds Camp Night

On Tuesday evening, Zion Young Peoples Society held its meeting in the form of a camp night.

Faye Hickox started things going with a sing song, after which questions regarding Camp Keir and Conference were directed to three experienced campers: David Stewart, Marion MacDonald, and Roddie Hickox.

Everyone was asked to contribute something in the line of a skit, joke, story, or game. Roddie Hickox then showed colored slides of Keir Camp and Maritime P. Y. P. S. Conference (1957) held in Halifax.

The evening was brought to a close with a short devotional period by Judy Miller and Mary Arsenault. The scripture lesson was taken from Matthew 6:19-34 and the hymn sung was "The Church's One Foundation." The singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" closed the devotional period.

CFCY-TV Studio Facilities To Be Moved To Ch'town

By next Spring CFCY's TV studio facilities will be located in Charlottetown, station manager Robert Large stated yesterday.

The company has chosen a site immediately adjoining their present headquarters building on Kent Street, and have already completed the initial phases of construction.

The management are hopeful that the walls and roof of the new annex will be completed before the winter sets in. The building will be 60 feet long, 40 feet wide and rise one-storey above street level.

Interior details, layout, equipment etc. will be planned during the winter months, with the final touches added to the building in the early Spring, Mr. Large said.

When the structure is complete, it will be possible to originate live telecasts, films, etc., in the city studio, and transmit them from the Strathgartney tower. This will be accomplished by means of beaming equipment already acquired by the company, which will relay the program from the studio to the transmitter.

This equipment was tested during the past Old Home Week when several of the major harness races were telecast to Maritime viewers.

Mr. Large emphasized that the transmitting facilities of CFCY-TV would remain at Strathgartney.

Says Demons Keep Many In Asylums

LONDON (Reuters) — A canon of the Church of England said Tuesday that many of the people in mental hospitals are possessed of demons rather than diseases of the brain.

Rev. E. G. Burrough of Oxford made the observation after a theological commission on demonology was proposed to the lower house of the Convocation of Canterbury, governing body of the Anglican Church.

The proposal, made by the Archbishop of Aston, was overwhelmingly rejected.

"I am a believer in angels and I am also a believer in demons, or evil spirits," Burrough said.

"I feel quite sure that many of the people spending their lives in lunatic asylums are possessed of evil spirits rather than diseases of the brain."

The archdeacon said that some of the most experienced priests he had known had maintained that the church did not teach adequate belief in Hell.

Rev. A. P. Shepherd of Worcester commented: "The first movement of the devil is to persuade us he does not exist, then that God does not exist and finally that we do not exist ourselves."

U.N. Delegates' Attention Shifts To The Middle East

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — United Nations delegates shifted their attention Tuesday—temporarily at least—from the Far to the Middle East upon circulation of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's report on that now-crisis area.

Hammarskjöld, who made a mission to Jordan, Lebanon and the United Arab Republic after the August emergency session of the General Assembly gave him broad investigative powers, reported that the assembly has been unable to make any progress in the peace-keeping attempt. And in view of the resumption in Warsaw Tuesday of the ambassadorial talks between the U.S. and Red China on the Quemoy crisis, the Middle East revival tended to de-emphasize the Far East situation.

WON'T BUY PEACE
Nationalist China's delegate, Dr. Ting Tsiang, spoke in the assembly's general debate Tuesday and reiterated that Chiang Kai-shek's regime refuses to buy peace by abandoning disputed Quemoy and Matsu. However, there was nothing unexpected in his pronouncement and no indication that the U.S. was strongly backing him in the UN at this time.

The secretary-general's report declared it was too early to predict whether the Arab states would be successful in living together as good neighbors, as they had promised.

He indicated also that if serious difficulties arise, the Middle East situation may again be brought to the UN as a threat to world peace.

The secretary-general said Lebanon and the U.S. hope to see the complete withdrawal of American forces by the end of October, provided the security situation in Lebanon continues to improve.

Britain and Jordan would announce a decision to begin withdrawal in October, and it would be completed as quickly as the situation in the area permits.

Hammarskjöld said implementation of the Arab "good neighbor" resolution passed by the emergency session in August "is still at an early stage and it is therefore premature to pass judgment on the degree of success with which it may meet."

He had promises from the Arab governments "to translate the terms of the resolution into a living reality."

Princess Visits Canada At Fair

BRUSSELS (CP) — Princess Margaret questioned Canadians about their homeland for an hour Tuesday when she visited the Canadian pavilion at the Brussels world fair.

While thousands of fair visitors jammed the roadways and paths around the pavilion in hopes of catching a glimpse of the royal visitor, the princess spent an hour inspecting exhibits on all three floors of the building.

The princess was escorted around the pavilion by Finance Minister Fleming and Jennifer Woolcombe of Ottawa, one of 43 Canadian university students acting as pavilion guides.

Princess Margaret stopped several minutes beside a model of the St. Lawrence seaway project, questioning Fleming closely about various aspects of it.

Two P.E.I. Guernsey Herds Top Maritime Production

The Guernsey herds owned by J. Eric Hurry, Winsloe, P. E. I. and Owen Younker & Sons, Kingston, P. E. I. were a close pair at the top of the herds reported officially by the Canadian Guernsey Breeders Association for the production honours in P. E. I. according to official records made under Federal Government supervision and both herds were near the top for herds of similar size across Canada.

The Younker herd had the advantage in actual pounds of milk and butterfat produced while the Hurry herd was on top according to the averages based on Breed Club Average figures but no matter how you look at it, they both were exceptionally good.

Eight cows tested in the Patosie herd of Eric Hurry averaged 9286 lbs. of milk containing 464 lbs. of butterfat at an average of 516 days for B. C. A.'s of 121.7 for milk and butterfat.

Six cows on the Younker herd at an average of four years produced 9319M—477M in an average of 315 days for B.C.A.'s of 117 for milk and 130.6 for butterfat.

Top cow in the Hurry herd was Patosie Rosie that produced 122.4 lbs. of milk and 608 lbs. of butterfat in 365 days as a 12 year old.

Top cow in the Younker herd was Fraserdale Fore Heroine that produced 11911M - 583F in 365 days as a 3-year old.

These two herds topped a 11 herds in the Maritimes while the top producing herd in Canada was owned by Murray Davis, Ladler, B.C., whose herd of forty-three milking cows averaged 10910M - 518F with B. C. A.'s of 141.2 for milk and 133.6 for butterfat.
