SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

The display made by Prowse Bros consists of high class clothing and furs, and it reflects the greatest credit upon the enterprising firm. There are two compartments in their booth, the dividing line consisting of flags and bunting. The furs shown include Astrakan, Seal, Coon, Persian Lamb, Thibet and Bear. The clothing exhibited is of the excellent quality that is to be found in the store of the Wonderful Cheap Men. The arrangement throughout is very complete and the guessing competition in connection with the exhibit is a popular feature.

The showing of Sentner, McLeod & Co. is also of the best, and their booth is tastefully arranged. The richest and rarest of furs are shown in jackets, capes, collars, collarettes, etc, and there is also a good showing in fur-lined garments. Specimens of the stuffed animals are also on view. Every inch of the space allotted to them is occupied, and the booth is prettily decorated with blue, green and mauve silks. Altogether the display is very complete, and reflects the greatest credit upon this enterprising firm.

The showing of musical instruments made by Miller Bros is the largest that has ever been made by them at a fall fair here. There are pianos and organs from such makers as Heintzman, Dominion, Karn, Whaley and Royce. There are also several novelties on exhibition at the booth; and the big "talking machine" with its repertoire of popular selections is a drawing card.

Geo. Carter & Co. make a good showing of the choice-room papers, the patterns on view evidencing the great care taken in selecting this class of goods.

The display of book-binding by Hazard & Moore indicates the high class work that is done in their establishment.

EXHIBITION NOTES.

All will agree with Mr. F L Hazard that, in exhibitions, the very best ideas are exchanged.

Great crowds of people came into Charlottetown by the eastern and western trains this morning.

Great crowds of people are in the city for the exhibition. The hotels are crowded, every inch of sleeping space being utilized.

A light placed on the road between the railway crossing and the entrance to the exhibition grounds would be especially helpful to strangers these dark nights.

The attendance at the exhibition and races to-day is large. There will in all likelihood be a great crowd there tonight to witness the fireworks and other special attractions.

The showing of flowers made by Mr. Tait, jr, is a pleasing feature of the exhibition. The name of the exhibitor forms the centre piece of a display which includes almost every kind of plant.

After His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor declared the exhibition opened yesterday afternoon, brief addresses were delivered by Premier Farquharson, Mayor Warburton, Judge Fitzgerald and Judge Warburton.

Judge Warburton, who has had experience in the work and knows whereof he speaks, highly commends Mr. Smallwood and says that "it would be difficult to find a man equally well qualified to fill the position of Exhibition secretary."
