Dare to Say "No."

Dare to say "No" when you're tempted to drink,
Pause for a moment, my brave boy, and think—
Think of the wrecks, upon life's ocean tossed
For answering "Yes," without counting the cost;
Think of the mother who bore you in pain!
Think of the tears that will fall like the rain;
Think of her heart, and how cruel the blow;
Think of her love, and at once answer "No!"
Think of the hopes that are drowned in the bowl;
Think of the danger to body and soul;
Think of sad lives once as pure as the snow;
Look at them now and at once answer "No."
Think of a manhood with rum-tainted breath;
Think how the glass leads to sorrow and death;
Think of the homes that, now shadowed with woe,
Might have been heaven had the answer been "No."
Think of lone graves both unwept and unknown,
Hiding fond hopes that were fair as your own;
Think of proud forms now for ever laid low,
That still might be here had they learned to say "No."
Think of the demon that lurks in the bowl,
Driving to ruin both body and soul;
Think of all this as life's journey you go,
And when you're assailed by the tempter say "No!"

Rules for Husbands.

Don't think when you have won a wife that you have got, also, a slave.
Don't think that your wife has less feeling than your sweetheart. Her relationship to you is simply changed—not her nature.
Don't think that you can dispense with all the little civilities of life towards her on marriage. She appreciates these things quite as much as other women.
Don't be gruff and rude at home. Had you been that sort of fellow before marriage, the probabilities are that you would be sewing on your buttons still. Don't make your wife feel incumbent on you by giving her grudgingly. What she needs give as cheerfully as if it were a pleasure for you to do so. She will feel much better, and so will you.
Don't meddle with the affairs of the house under her charge. You have no more right to be poking your nose into the kitchen than she has to walk into your place of business, and give your directions to your employes.
Don't find fault with her extravagance in ribbons, &c., while you waste money on cigars, tobacco, whisky, &c.
Don't leave your wife at home to nurse the children on the score of economy, while you go to theatres and spend money at billiards.
Don't bolt your supper, and then hurry off to spend your evenings away from your wife. Before marriage you couldn't spend your evenings enough with her.
Don't prowl about till midnight, wasting your time in culpable idleness, leaving your wife lonely at home to brood over your neglect and her disappointment.
Don't think that the woman you have solemnly promised to "love, cherish, and protect" becomes a servant for you as her part of the contract.
Don't think that board and clothes are sufficient for all that a wife does for you.
Don't expect a wife to love and honor you if you prove to be a brute, and unworthy of her love and honor.
Don't censure your wife in public, and then snarl and growl at her when you are in private. This proves that you are a hypocrite.
Don't wonder that your wife is not as cheerful as the used to be when she labors from early morn till late at night to ponder to the comfort and caprice of a selfish pig who has not soul enough to appreciate her.

Some English lawyers are in search of heirs for the estate of the Patricks, of Suffolk, England. Advertisements first appeared on the subject forty years ago in English and American newspapers. They were not successful. So ten years ago attention was again called to the matter, with the additional statement that the property had immensely increased in value. Still no claimants came forward. Again, in April, 1878, the advertisement was repeated and the property set down at $80,000,000. Even then little notice was taken of it, and the lawyers were just about to have it withdrawn when one Henry Patrick, of New York, thought he would try his luck as an heir. He accordingly employed counsel to investigate his genealogical registers, and it was found that a certain John Patrick lived in Suffolk, England, and was an officer and adherent of Oliver Cromwell. In 1700 a son left England and, it is said, has been correctly and carefully traced to Newfoundland, thence to Boston, Mass., then Tollington, then Marlboro, then back to Boston, and finally took a sloop and came to Stroudwater, where he married Elizabeth Hawkins, and settled down, and afterwards died there. This son, who married late in life, October 6, 1732, had several children. One married Tristram Stevens, one William Tate, one a Miss Macdonald, one a Mr. Paine. His son Charles settled in Gorham, and married Elizabeth Fickett. He Charles's son, was a mason by trade, and plastered the first house built in Gorham, that of Deacon Thomas McClannin. He died in 1859 at the age of eighty six, leaving many descendants, one of whom, William Patrick, died at Cape Elizabeth. If there are any of his family in Canada, it would be worth their while to trace back their descent for a few generations.

The Vienna Tagblatt says a shell buried in the road exploded near Prince Milan while he was walking at Nish on Tuesday. His aide-de-camp was wounded. It is not known whether the explosion was the result of a plot to assassinate the Prince.

Miscellaneous News.

It is doubtful if the new elections will give Prince Bismarck a large majority.
General Manteuffel has declined the governorship of Alsace-Lorraine.
Lieutenant-Governor Cauchon is expected in Quebec in about a fortnight.
Snow fell on Saturday in England and the northern parts of the United Kingdom.
The Queen of Portugal has the pleurisy. She is now improving, but is still weak.
Last year 714 bears were killed in New Brunswick, and $2,142 was paid in bounties.
Sixteen loaves of bread sell for a dollar at Emerson, Manitoba. Good news for emigrants.
It is possible a special speech will be addressed to the Ambassadors at the Czar's reception on Saturday.
A despatch from Rome says Queen Victoria will probably visit the King and Queen of Italy at Monza.
A despatch from Rome says it is possible Cardinal Hohenlohe will go to Berlin on a confidential mission.
A St. Petersburg dispatch says nine persons were killed and 25 injured by an accident to the mail train running to Moscow.
A mineral spring, believed to contain great health-giving properties, has been discovered in the Township of Iona, Elgin Co., Ont.
The Windsor (N. S.) Mail urges the farmers of the Maritime Provinces to go in more extensively for stock-raising, in order to be in a position to avail themselves of the English cattle trade.
All the men required for the Mounted Police have been recruited, and will be despatched as soon as navigation opens. They will muster in Toronto, and the horses will be purchased in Ontario.
We wonder how far our neighbors across the lines will really go. The women's walking match in New York was a disgraceful exhibition, and now an enterprising Gothamite is to drink one thousand half pint glasses of lager beer, in one thousand quarter hours, for a purse of one thousand dollars. A Mr. Linden has also issued a challenge through the New York press for a "sleeping match."

The walking match between McKay and Ross, in St. John, terminated in an easy victory for McKay. The finish was, however, as unsatisfactory as the several other matches that have taken place there. Ross broke down in the legs after being 19 hours out of the 24 on the track. McKay, however, walked out the balance of the time, and at the finish had covered nearly 90 miles. From the time Ross vanished from the track to the expiration of the 24 hours, McKay made 16 miles.

Mr. Haggert, the well known Brompton manufacturer, who cannot be accused of Toryism, writes to the Brompton "Times" as follows:—"I am in hope that the new tariff will multiply industries hitherto unknown in Canada, and that they will not only give employment to the unemployed, but that they will pay all their obligations, and that the two great producers of wealth in our country, the farmers and manufacturing interests, are so closely identified one with the other, that those who are now endeavouring to teach the country will soon be heartily ashamed of the position they seem to have taken."

The Galatea, steam transport, was to leave Woolwich about a week ago with about 100 tons of ammunition, 100 wagons and a large quantity of provisions and camp equipments for Natal. She was selected especially on account of her large capacity for cargo, all her decks below being devoted to storage. A few officers, it was thought, might go with her, but the chief purpose of the voyage was to convey supplies of food and material to the army, made necessary owing to the loss of the stores captured at Isandula. Various estimates have been made as to the value of these stores, but the Commissariat and the ordnance officials at Pietermaritzburg are stated to have assessed them at nearly £150,000. It was expected that the Galatea would reach Natal on the 1st of May.

Mr. Donald G. Mitchell was cured of his family tendency to consumption in a curious way. He had a very severe cough when he started to cross from the English shore to the Island of Jersey. "There was no steamer," he says, "and I had to go on a twenty-ton fishing smack. There was a great storm, and for thirty hours we were on the English Channel in the roughest weather. I was very sick, and lay for a long time on deck covered with a tarpaulin and holding to a mast, expecting every moment to be washed overboard, and not caring much, I was. Finally, we reached Jersey, and, strange to say, my cough disappeared. It had been chronic."

The Death-rate of Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year, without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. At this season of the year, especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find, too late, that a Fever or Lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.
