SURPRISING THE ORIENTALS.

Twist Drills in a Chinese Machine Shop.
Taking out two drills, I sent them in, and immediately was invited to enter. The official was polite, bowing and shaking his own hands as is the custom among Chinese, and offered me a cup of tea.
These happened to be several forgings in the room, and as I pressed the drills against them and pointed to over the wall he seemed to comprehend what was wanted, and in a few minutes I was in a large, well-lighted machine shop. I might say this extensive plant was built and equipped by French engineers some fifteen years ago. The native foreman examined my tools with great interest and called in several assistants. All looked puzzled and did not seem to know what they were for. Walking to a drill press, I took out the flat drill, and, after considerable poking around the crank, succeeded in getting one of my taper shank twist drills to run fairly true in the spindle. There must have been five Chinese men working in the room, and every one had gathered around this press. The foreman ordered them off repeatedly, and then, looking at me, laughed good-naturedly and gave it up.
He brought a piece of cast-iron, but I wanted something harder to drill, so I took the drill to the lathe, and took a long extension tool, made from 3 1/2 inch tool steel, and clamped it to the table of the drill press. He shook his head, intimating that this twist drill could not go through, and the crowd of workmen emitted grunts of approval.
The press started, the lips of the twist drill turned out two spiral chips; the man elbowed me to one side; there was a sea of pigtail bending down, watching the marvelous action of that little tool. As the chips grew in length the expression of interest increased.
It happened that the chips did not break until they were about 14 inches long; then others started, and each time they broke off they were angry snatched by the men, some burning their fingers, and examined carefully from end to end.
The drill edges of the drill were shown around, and then ground and started again, and the fact that the drill would cut as well as the first time caused increased amazement on the part of the men. I have made many tests with twist drills, but never before such an appreciative and demonstrative audience.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

WHEN MATRONS ARE DOWDY.

While little Queen Wilhelmina was in England recently it is said that, on an inquiry from the Prince of Wales as to how she liked the English people, she replied: "I am astonished to find them so nice and amiable. I never should have thought it from the specimens I see in Holland." Whether true or not, this anecdote illustrates well enough the marked difference between the Englishman at home and the Englishman as he is when travelling among the "natives" of other lands.

How He Escaped

From The Terrors of Insanity.

A MARVELLOUS RESCUE.

Paine's Celery Compound Brings Deliverance After All Other Means Fail.

The poor, weary, diseased and half-brained men and women who are deceived every day by false representations of patent medicine vendors derive our pity and sympathy.

The deluded one is, influenced by false statements, are led to use medicines that are worthless, having no curing virtues, and that are very often dangerous to humanity.

Fortunately for suffering humanity, there is one truly scientific remedy that has proved its power over disease in thousands of cases after all other means failed—even when the sufferer had almost reached the portals of the grave. This ever reliable life-giver is Paine's Celery Compound, a medicine that has more grand cures to its credit than all other combined medicines can show.

The following statement is made by Mr. P. J. Kuback, publisher at Lawrence, Prince Edward Island, he says: "I can now write you about Paine's Celery Compound, having just finished the fifth bottle. It is impossible for me to say sufficient, or find words strong enough, to praise Paine's Celery Compound as I ought."

"I feel like a new man. Six months ago I was on the brink of insanity; my nerves were completely broken down; I could not sleep more than one or two hours at night, and often did not sleep for four nights in succession. Once I never could describe the agony I suffered. I was almost reduced to a skeleton; could only work an hour, when I was so fatigued I would be obliged to lie down and rest. I could not eat a thing."

"The use of your Compound has given me rest and sleep, and I can now work all day. To tell the honest candid truth, I have not felt so well for fourteen years. When I commenced taking Paine's Celery Compound my weight was 144 pounds; now I weigh 165 pounds. I am gaining in flesh every day. My friends are all surprised at my wonderful changed appearance. Oh! if I had only known of this life-saving remedy years ago, I would have saved many days and nights of terrible pain and agony. Thank God, the terrible time has passed, I hope never to return. How I wish I could reach the ear of every man in Canada—those who are suffering as I once suffered—how I would plead with them; yes, on my knees I would ask them to give Paine's Celery Compound a fair trial; and I feel confident they would bless me afterward for my recommendation."

"I am now in perfect health, though my nerves are completely broken down. I can now work all day. I can now say this statement as you choose."

For making your Xmas cake use the California muscatel raisins and cleaned currants. Both for sale at Beer & Goff's.

Easy to Dye.

Old Suits and Gowns Readily Made to Look Like New.

A user of the wonderful Diamond Dyes writes as follows:
"I have had great success in my first attempt with Diamond Dyes. My husband had a suit of summer clothes the color of which did not please him. We used a package of Navy Blue Diamond Dye, following the directions, and the suit was soon transformed to a splendid, gentle color, making it as good as new."
For years Diamond Dyes have been the standard dyes for thousands of homes in Canada, where their ease of use and reliability have made many an old suit or gown look like new.
Ask for the "Diamond," use only the "Diamond," and success will surely attend your work.

DR. CHASE'S CATHARTIC CURES

Fergus, April 6, 1896
Dr. Robert Phillips, Fergus, Ontario, writes:

Do Wages Rise With Prices?

The returns for all industries in this country, as in England, show that wages advanced fully 50 per cent. during the period from 1860 to 1874, in which prices advanced about 15 per cent., and wages fell fully 15 per cent. during the period from 1874 to 1880, in which prices fell 25 per cent. The relative gains of the laborers were far greater during the period of expanding currency and rising prices under bimetallicism than during the period of scarcer currency and falling prices under the gold standard.
The statistics, moreover, give the wages of laborers whose actual employment, and the heaviest losses of laborers under the gold standard have come from the lack of employment. This was especially true of the years of "panic" depression from 1873 to 1879. With the rise of prices that followed the resumption of specie payments and passage of the Sherman Act of 1890, but only during the years of comparatively steady or rising prices was labor fully employed and prosperous. Whenever prices fell the panic or depression in the currency market increased in the world of labor an army of unemployed. These panics and depression were the cause of "panic" depression in the currency market. It is a well-known fact that the free coinage of silver will cause the doubling of prices almost everywhere. It is a well-known fact that the free coinage of silver will cause the doubling of prices almost everywhere. ## Robbed the Archbishop.

A gossip tells the following story, which is supposed to refer to the English Archbishop Benson: One of our archbishops was visiting a country home, and so commended himself to his host's family of children, that one of them, a bright, clever little girl, of about eight, threatened to monopolize the conversation almost entirely, but was brought to a sudden silence by her father's whispered remonstrance of "Shut up, Mabel!" For some time she remained quietly considering the rebuke, but when she saw her father and mother she burst into a sudden silence by her father's whispered remonstrance of "Shut up, Mabel!" For some time she remained quietly considering the rebuke, but when she saw her father and mother she burst into a sudden silence by her father's whispered remonstrance of "Shut up, Mabel!"

Taet and Gentleness.

Of all the gifts to be prayed for, next to grace at heart, tact and gentleness in manner are the most desirable. A brusque, curt manner, a cold indifference, a snappish petulance, a brutal appearance of stolidity, antagonize and wound and rob even really kind actions of half their value. To be worthy while doing a kind thing gracefully and tactfully. There is a certain propriety of demeanor which never makes a mistake, which equals the feeling of an appreciative audience. To the child who had been rebuked for talkativeness the manifest injustice of favoritism shown to the conversational visitor became totally unbearable. In the middle of a sentence a small but stern voice made itself heard. "Shut up, Archbishop," it said, in grave tones of rebuke, and it is needless to add that the remark had the desired effect.

COLONIAL PREFERENTIAL TRADE.

A Resolution that has created a Great Deal of Interest.
It is stated in a late London despatch that one of the resolutions of the national union of conservative associations at its session at Roehampton, on Tuesday, has created a great deal of interest. It was the resolution of the association with the association favoring a tariff on the proposal for a preferential tariff between Great Britain and Rhodesia. It has been the talk of a customs union with the colonies generally. The officials and those in voice ministerial views, leave the subject very much alone for fear of the "dear lord" or even Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain refuses to mention the subject in public, but in private he says that now, as always, he awaits the colonial plan in this and will then consider it carefully. England, he says, cannot initiate such a movement. The Times and the Standard have opposed the resolution, but the Journal, representing the ministerial rank as it were, warmly approves of Mr. Rhodes' proposal as the first step in a general scheme, embracing Canada, Australia and United South Africa. The Eastern Journal scolded at what they call a "tory wallowing in protection," with a shilling duty on the very wheat from the United States and Russia which is now saving England from starvation. While this strong real opposition lasts the ministry is likely to do much, though they may act for the conservative members succeed as they expect in getting a vote of the commonwealth in favor of Rhodes' plan, which is opposed generally in this term "colonial preferential trade."
