Campus Police put up with there was no way that we were going to ask these people to work.

Other reasons for canceling the event included:
1. preventing the possibility of jeopardizing our liquor license, 2. Give tempers time to cool down and 3. Give the Committee time to straighten out the hassles created by the fracas.

Dear Editor:

My first car rally and all was set -- the oil, gas, fan belt, tires, brakes, etc. on the car; food for myself and my navigator, just in case we got hungry; and paper, pencil, calculator (a student nicely loaned us) and clipboard, all to help us on our calculations and to answer questions along the route.

All set to go -- times signed out 1114 -- away we went, oops, we miscalculated-- wrong turn-off. Ah, now we are on the right route -- how many windows in the red shed on barn on the right? 4 On to the next instructions; no trouble, everything falls into place -- wait, we cannot find the church! -- around and around we go -- map does not make sense -- let's try left -- oh, that is it, a mistake. The map meant left not right. All is well again -- oh dear, maybe not. Find Percy Sanderson's house. Stopped at Mr. Sanderson's house -- no, they never heard of Percy Sanderson. Well, the route makers must mean M. Sanderson -- trailer court at 2200 hours. The rest of the route fits in with a right for a left (another mistake.) Oh well, we know now there are mistakes on the instructions. On we went backing up -- oops.

wrong turn -- another three pointer -- ah, at last the last stop, the Bishops residence -- where in the world is that? Thank goodness for my navigator being an Islander, she knew where it was. Home at last! Quickly take the reading off the odometer. We made it! We ran a rally!

What's this? A student police says the rally was cancelled at 1 o'clock. Why? The secretary made a mistake in typing! So they decided to cancel the rally. What a blow out!

Here we have been on the road from 1114 and it now was 1615 -- no notice on the radio to tell us (the ones who were still out) that the rally was called off -- no one even bothered to come out and tell us. The people who made the route could have estimated where we were, approximately. Yet, they let us continue.

Yes, I was in the rally. Erratic that we (the navigator and I) did the course, but deflated that it was all in vain.

All I can say is, that was my first rally and shall be the last I participate in for UPEI. If you, the organizers, do not have the guts to stand up to your responsibilities and state that the mistake was on your part instead of passing the buck off on the secretary. (By the way that excuse is an old one, at least you could have had a better one.)

Mistakes in typing -- why were the instructions not proof read? Why was the route not re-driven on Friday using the master sheet and the sheets of instructions going to the rally drivers? It cost little, but time and effort on your part. You offered to organize -- then, let's see some organization in the next rally you schedule.

A suggestion which might help is to use check points. Then, if there are problems, word can be given to the drivers and navigators.

G. Siddall, Driver.

Dear Editor

At the last Student Council meeting, I submitted my resignation as Speaker of the U.P.E.I. Student Union.

My experience as Speaker has helped greatly in providing myself with a knowledge of the workings and the problems of our Student Union. However, because impartiality is an essential component in the position of Speaker, I was unable to take an active role in the decision making process within our Union. It is for this reason, combined with a desire to become more actively involved, that I resigned.

In closing, I would just like to say, that it has been a pleasure to serve the Student Union in the capacity of Speaker.

Sincerely Yours
Alan Hilton

Dear Mr. Editor

After attending the Dal-U.P.E.I. basketball game last Saturday, I became so irate that I felt I had to give vent to my anger in your newspaper.

A small number of so-called fans seated on the stage put on such a disgusting exhibition, that if not embarrassing themselves personally, certainly embarrassed me as a U.P.E.I. student. These people felt, apparently, that it was their prerogative to give a running commentary on the physical condition, intellectual capacity, and sexual preference of everyone involved in the game-- players, officials, and even statisticians. A certain amount of this is to be expected and is, in fact, a common occurrence but it was carried to a completely uncalled for extreme.

I'm sure these students realize that I am referring to them since they definitely stood out in the crowd. I'd like to ask them if they think they are impressing someone or if they just like to hear their own voices.

Maybe I am being oversensitive, but if that is the case, there are a large number of oversensitive people who also witnessed the display of poor taste. I heard a lot of other fans (guys and girls) attach a few uncomplimentary names to
