Mr. J. E. Cullen, President of the Association, occupied the chair.

Celebrated Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sellar celebrated their golden wedding at their home where they have resided during their married life, on December 31st.

This esteemed couple were married at the home of the bride whose maiden name was Ada, daughter of the late W. D. and Rachel McLeod McCoubrey, on the evening of the above date fifty years ago by the Rev. George Millar, who has since passed to higher service. Their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Morley Sellar (nee Mae McLeod), both cousins of the couple, who now reside in Edmonton, Alberta, and sent a lovely gift along with a message of remembrance of the happy day. Also as her bridesmaid was her sister Martha, later married to Joseph I. Stewart, who departed this life twenty seven years ago.

Although the celebration was very informal, Mr. and Mrs. Sellar, the latter attired in floral silk crepe, received many friends and relatives. Messages and cards along with lovely gifts were tokens received on this happy day.

Buffett lunch was served by Mrs. Theo Sellar and Mrs. Robert L. Stevenson, sister of Mrs. Sellar. The cakes were made by the bride of fifty years. A social time was enjoyed and at the close of the evening, "God be with you 'till we meet again" was sung.

Due to the condition of the roads, their daughter, Mrs. Harry Crozier, was not able to attend. Eleven grand children and six great grand children add to the joy of this couple who are both quite smart and enjoying a measure of good health. It is the sincere wish of all that they will have many more happy anniversaries, and that God's richest blessing will rest upon them.

After worship had been conducted by the Rector, the minutes of the last annual meeting were read and adopted.

The chairman gave a detailed account of parish statistics and activities. He said, "The marked success in the parish was due, in a large measure, to the existing spirit of co-operation."

Reports from the organizations which include Sunday School, Choir, W.A., A.Y.P.A., and Laymen's showed a better year than heretofore. For faithful service during 1953 votes of thanks were extended to Miss Margaret Coles, organist; Messrs J. Rodd and A. Rodd, wardens; Mr. Robert Hooper, treasurer; Mr. Ernest Coles, secretary of the Cemetery committee; Mr. J. Poole, Cemetery caretaker; Mr. William Curtis, Sexton. Votes of thanks were extended to Mr. Fulton Willis who gave a piece of land near the church to be used as a parking space, and to those outside the parish who give financial help.

Further Adjournment Of Parkdale Inquiry

The inquiry into the Parkdale water situation being conducted by Judge C. St. Clair Trainor resumed briefly yesterday morning in the Court House. However, it was adjourned till February 10 as Mr. K.M. Martin, Q.C., representing the Board of Water Commissioners of this city, explained that a report on which argument would be based had not been completed.

This report is being prepared on the situation here by Mr. John R. Kaye, of the Engineering Service Company, Halifax. It was explained by Mr. Martin that Mr. Kaye had been away and had not returned in time to complete the report. However, it will be available on February 10 and Mr. Kaye will be able to attend here the following week if it is found necessary to cross examine him on some of the items in it.

At the same time Judge Trainor asked Mr. H. F. McPhee, Q.C., representing the Village of Parkdale, if he believed he would be able to proceed with his evidence on the date set regardless of the need for cross examination of Mr. Kaye He said it was necessary to complete the inquiry in time to permit preparation of possible legislation prior to the meeting of Legislature.

Montreal Papers Pay Tribute To Dr. Gordon

The following editorial tribute to the late Dr. A. H. Gordon, formerly of this Province, appeared in the Montreal Gazette:

"Dr. Alvah Hovey Gordon was a man for whom the meaning of life was clear. He was never one to become lost in despairs or doubts, or to become entangled in the futilities of speculation. For him life had its purpose and it was in the present hour. It was the purpose of doing the very best he could for the sick who had come under his care.

"It is most certainly true that he was a great physician. He attained those positions in the medical world that confer distinction because they demand it. As a clinical teacher he was outstanding. In consultation he showed vigor, persistence and a comprehensive approach.

"But under his confident skill there lay an incorruptible simplicity of soul. The son of a Baptist clergyman, he lived in the faith of his father. And in faith he laid hold upon a firm inner peace. And the heart of that peace was the sense of duty.

"But his sense of duty was never such as to chill his kindliness. Those who were his patients—and they may be numbered in their thousands—found him always cheerful and reassuring. He not only left them with the impression that his full attention was turned upon their cases; but, more than that, he entered into their sense of anxiety, and made them feel that he would stand by them in their troubles, not merely because he was their physician, but because of the destiny that makes men brothers.

"Many who knew him best will remember his humor, which had a way of expressing his commonsense. He was quick to see a joke, even if he happened to be the subject of it. And he could make a quick and unexpected reply. Once, for instance, a young doctor was speaking rather ponderously about "organic medicine." Turning to Dr. Gordon he said, "now, organists like yourself . . ." But with a cherry smile, Dr. Gordon interrupted: "Don't call me an organist. I play the piano!"

"The steady rock of his integrity turned aside all that was false and affected and unworthy. He went his way, ready to stand upon his own work, without the aid of pretense, and doing his duty as his father before him had done—in the spirit of faith and honesty, of mercy and of good works.

"Now he is gone; but his example remains. And it is very sound."

Tribute From Star

The following tribute appeared in the Montreal Star:

"At a moment when Montreal is honoring some of the oldest members of the medical profession it also has to perform the sad duty of saying farewell to another. Dr. Alvah Hovey Gordon, until his death last night, had practised medicine here and elsewhere for more than fifty years. In that time he endeared himself not only to a multitude of patients but to all his colleagues in the profession.

"Dr. Gordon began the study of medicine at McGill in a day when the profession was only beginning to organize itself for service to the Canadian community. The need for professional organization was apparent to him. Thus it was that he became one of the founders and charter members of the Royal College of Physicians of Canada. Like most doctors in that day and, indeed, in this, he was eager to help younger men setting out in the profession. While carrying on a busy practice he taught wherever he happened to be. It was a source of pride to him that he became associate Professor of Medicine at McGill's great school in 1924 and full professor in 1936. McGill was his own school and he devoted himself to helping make it one of the world's greatest.

"More than one of Dr. Gordon's colleagues describe him as the greatest teacher of his day in McGill medical school. Many of these are men who sat under him and learned at first hand just how great and devoted a teacher he was. The honors that came to him from other universities and from medical associations around the world attest the eminence he attained in his profession.

"There was another abiding interest in Dr. Gordon's life. For him it ran parallel with his medical work. Indeed, it often merged with it. This was his interest in the church. For fifty years he was superintendent of the First Baptist Church Sunday School. Here, again, he was the teacher. In medicine he epitomized the clinical approach of Osler. He was a disciple of Osler's, too, in his great humanitarianism, as one of his fine papers on 'Treating the Patient as a Person' attests.

"He will be sadly missed and affectionately remembered."

A. A. Objectives Described At Rotary

"Alcoholics Anonymous is not a personal success story, it is instead a story of our colossal human failure now converted into the happiest kind of usefulness by that Divine alchemy, the living Grace of God," said the guest speaker at Rotary yesterday when addressing the Club on A.A.

The meeting was presided over by Rotarian Rouel LePage with Rotarian Fred Moore as co-chairman.

The speaker traced the origin of the A.A. movement from its inception a few years ago until the present time quoting from the experience of men in all stratas of human society.

"A.A. is not particularly concerned about why we become alcoholics, we leave that to the medical profession," the speaker said, "we have accepted the fact that we are what we are and that we are doing something about it. We also feel that there is no disgrace or stigma attached to being an alcoholic; the disgrace is in not doing something about a drinking problem once it is discovered."

Last year the American Public Health Association presented the Lasker award to Alcoholic Annoymous in recognition of its unique and highly successful approach to that age-old public health and social problem, Alcoholicism.

There are two branches of the organization in this Province, one in Summerside and the other in Charlottetown, the latter having a membership of over 200.

In conclusion the speaker said, "While each group of A.A. has but one primary purpose—to carry its message to the alcoholic who still suffers, and while we decline all outside contributions and never endorse finance, or lend the name A.A. to any related facility or outside enterprise, the question of hospitalization for the alcoholic has not been dealt with in this Province as it has been elsewhere, and it is possible that in trying to tell you in my humble way about A.A. someone may be stirred to action in this respect."

The co-chairman Mr. Fred Moore in thanking the speaker commended him for his thorough and concise message of profound interest to all.

Mr. Stan McInnis, field man for the National Film Board, was introduced as a new member of Rotary by his sponsor, Mr. Edwin C. Johnstone. Messrs. R. E. Mutch and Chester Shaw were heartily welcomed back to the club after an absence due to illness, and fitting reference was made to the illness of G. F. Hutcheson and Canon Rev. J. T. Ibbott, both of whom are recovering.

Guests present were Harvey R. Lemmon, Winnipeg, Man., F. W. Russell and Hazen A. Russell, both of St. John's, Nfld., Col. E. W. Johnstone, Burlington and James MacLean of Charlottetown. Mr. Walter Cox led in the singing of Scottish songs in honour of the occasion, with O. K. Presby at the piano.

Meeting Of Royal Edward Chapter IODE

The regular monthly meeting of the Royal Edward Chapter was held on Monday afternoon in the chapter rooms with the Regent, Mrs. J. A. Lawson in the chair.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. She also read a letter from Mrs. Herring of the Scholarship Committee of the Music Festival thanking the chapter for their award of last year and expressing a hope that it be renewed for competition at the coming festival.

Letters of thanks were also read from the Charlottetown Hospital for magazine subscriptions sent there at Christmas; from the P. E. I. Hospital for the same — all much enjoyed and appreciated by the patients. A letter from Mrs. Murley acknowledging gratefully a cash donation toward the Christmas party for the new Canadians and for the assistance of members in making that party a success. The Educational Secretary read an appreciative letter from the teacher of the Donaldston school acknowledging the cheque sent there to be used toward the purchase of an atlas for the school.

Mrs. Jones gave an excellent report for the Immigration and Canadianization Committee quoting from I.O.D.E. Headquarter's Immigration Committee this: "It is up to us to take a lead in giving direction and extending a helping hand to the many bewildered newcomers who have fled from their homelands to seek refuge in Canada."

Most of our new Canadians, she said, are scattered widely throughout the country and are hard to reach so it has been agreed that a "party" now and then seems the best method of welcoming them. The recent Christmas one was voted the best yet and the most largely attended. The chapter members, under the Regent, have extended much help and have sent many parcels of clothing to these scattered people.

Two especially grateful letters were read, one from Mrs. Meerburg in Flat River in appreciation of a box sent to her at Christmas and another from Mrs. Seiwert who spoke to us most acceptably at a previous meeting and in this letter she expressed deep gratitude to the Regent and members for the great assistance given and kindness shown to them since coming to this country.

This being the "nominating" meeting, ballots were distributed for nominations and a slate of tentative officers for the ensuing year was presented to be voted on at the annual meeting in February.

During the counting of the ballots, the Regent read a most interesting article on the racial problem in Kenya and the uprising of the natives there written by Matthew Halton, a former I.O.D.E. overseas scholar.

Meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Speedy Trial Ordered For Frederick Hensler

MONTREAL, Jan. 26 —(CP)— Judge Rene Theberge today ordered a speedy trial Feb. 4 for Fredrick Hensler, 37-year-old printing shop employee, accused of stealing a copy of the 79-page Currie Report valued at $20.

Judge Theberge who issued a warrant for Hensler's arrest last Thursday turned down an application by Hensler's counsel for procedure by preliminary hearing and possible jury trial.

The judge, who read his decision before a packed courtroom, told the small, bushy-haired defendant that his case if dealt with by summary procedure before a judge alone would carry a penalty of no more than six months in jail if there were a conviction.

He said a conviction under the procedure involving preliminary hearing would leave Hensler liable to a seven-year sentence and carry heavy court expenses since the amount of the alleged theft was less than $25.

Judge Theberge said he considered such a situation would be unfair.

Hensler stood silent and obviously nervous.

Charles Craswell, Noel Hooper, Garfield LePage, Exton Bulman, Elmer Bulman, Eric Carr, Danny Anderson and Charles Carr; Synod Delegate, Mr. Howard Carr; D.C.S. Delegates, Messrs. Votes of thanks were extended to those who served the church in an official capacity. The chairman expressed his thanks to the members of the congregation for their co-operation.

Fitting tributes were paid to those who passed away during the year, namely—Ernest Bulman, Albert Craswell and John Buntain.

The Rev. A. E. Piercey closed the meeting with the benediction.
